Heavy Snow Hits Western Nebraska

Beneficial showers fell here three times during the past week, including a few snow flurries.

Western Nebraska was buried under 10 inches of snow, tying up traffic and stalling trains, while O'Neill was getting rain on Friday. Passenger-mail express trains 13 and 14 were snarled between Long Pine and Chadron on the North Western and the Burlington had a train stranded in the snow near Crawford. The storm was reminiscent of the start of the 1948-'49 season.

Trains through here, however, operated on schedule.

Ainsworth received 2 1/2 inches of rain on Friday.

Sunday night's rainfall ranged from 25 to a half-inch between Norfolk and Long Pine, according to the Chicago & North Western railroad.

Nieces, Nephews Only Survivors

ATKINSON—John Moses, 86, died Friday, November 2, in a nursing home at Genoa.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 p.m., Monday, November 5, at the Seger funeral chapel.

Rev. F. E. Anderson of Newport officiated and burial was in Woodlawn cemetery.

The late Mr. Moses was born in Benton county, Ia., January 21, 1870, a son of Henry D. and Rhoda Williams Moses.

Mr. Moses never married. He was a resident of the Atkinson community 25 years.

He came to Nebraska about 60 years ago and lived for a time at Pierce and Osmond.

He had been in failing health about a year and entered the Huffmeister nursing home about three months ago.

He was preceded in death by two sisters, Libby and Minnie, and by three brothers, Albert, Elmer and Arthur.

Survivors include only nieces and nephews.

Those residing in this area include: Mrs. Jake (Libby) Boucher of Naper; Mrs. John (Edith) Wilcox, Mrs. Earl (Rosa) Estes and Charles Moses, all of Stuart; also many grandnieces and grandnephews.

The late Mr. Moses loved to walk and was a familiar figure on highways and roads, frequently accepting rides from travelers.

Brother Admits Using Blacksnake

Joseph Kamphaus, about 23, was fined $75 and costs Monday in a county court hearing growing out of an altercation on the Kamphaus ranch near Amelia.

Kamphaus admitted whipping two minor brothers, Bernard, 16, and Carl, 14, with a blacksnake whip. The incident took place Wednesday, October 31, and grew out of a family argument.

He was charged with assault and battery.

Return from California

Father Price Sees Europe

EMMETT—Rev. Francis Price, pastor of the Church of Epiphany here, has returned from a six-weeks Cook's tour of Europe.

Of this he is sure: "One needs a year to properly have a look at the Continent. Anything less is a teaser."

Father Price protested that his time was all too short. He spent most of his time in Italy, but had a look-see at France, Spain, Portugal, Austria, Switzerland and Germany.

He flew the Atlantic, touched down at Paris. At Rome he came under the wing of a chaplain friend in the army and together they toured by rail, auto and air.

They participated in a general audience with Pope Pius at the Vatican, toured the Italian government buildings, and Father Price found special and lasting interest in the museums. He particularly was impressed with the costume jewelry popular in 500 B.C.

"There's nothing new under the sun in costume jewelry, believe me," he declared. "Those ancients had everything!"

Another impressive feature of a museum was the spoils of thread, still in good condition.

The Emmet pastor visited several famous art collections and the Leaning Tower of Pisa, which he termed "a simple monstrosity."

His stay at Florence was one of the highlights, also an overnight stop at Geneva, Switzerland. Father Price managed a sidetrip to Vienna, Austria, which now assumes new importance because it is a focal point for refugees from Hungary.

The young priest explains there is much throughout Europe to please the tastes of any student. He considers it a must for clergy.

"The book learning of school days come back with impact," he declares, "for even a casual visitor such as me."

Father Price said he could easily appreciate the rest haven in Bavaria known as Berchtesgaden, where Adolph Hitler and Hermann Goering used to relax.

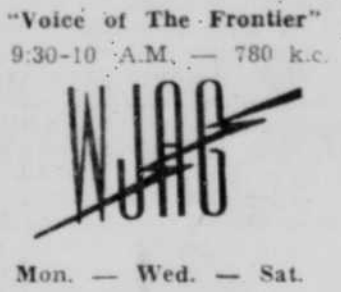

"No finer scenery anywhere than in those Alps," he commented.

He spent five days at Our Lady of Lourdes shrine in France and several days at the shrine of Our Lady of Fatima in Spain. At both places he encountered many Americans and a good many priests from throughout the world.

He returned by air, leaving from Lisbon and landing at New York.

Ike-Dick Are Victors; Nelson Is Re-Elected

Gilligan Drug Gets Rexall 'Honor' Rating

John Dowles, president of the Rexall division of the Rexall Drug company, has designated the Gilligan Rexall drug of O'Neill as a Rexall "honor store" in recognition of its high standards of community service, according to information received Wednesday by Ben Gilligan and Robert Devoy, owners of the pharmacy.

Identification of the store as a Rexall "honor store" will be indicated by a bronze "honor store" plaque, displayed prominently in the store, by special insignia for store personnel, and by window decals inscribed: "This is a Rexall 'honor store', dedicated to the health and welfare of the resident of the O'Neill area."

The award to the O'Neill store was made in accordance with the provisions of a special program instituted by Rexall Drug Co. The "honor store" program establishes certain standards to which Rexall stores must conform before they may receive the "honor store" award.

Nelson Vanquishes Young Opponent

Sieler Wins Only in Boyd County

State Sen. Frank Nelson, O'Neill farmer, was successful in his bid for reelection in Tuesday's general election. He easily outdistanced his youthful opponent, Hugo C. Sieler of Butte, in three counties—Holt, Rock and Keya Paha counties—and Sieler won Boyd county.

Nelson gathered 5,356 votes in the non-political race compared to Sieler's 3,659.

Voting by counties:

Holt	Nelson	Sieler
Keya Paha	3,375	1,890
Boyd	403	308
Rock	950	1,138
	628	323
Totals	5,356	3,659

Tomlinson Is Victor Over Landreth in Supervisor Race

Holt countyans went to the polls Tuesday and gave the Eisenhower-Nixon team an overwhelming vote of confidence. The Ike-Dick support ran heavier percentages, than the nation's approval of the two for a repeat performance in the offices of president and vice-president of the United States.

Nebraskans gave Ike a 2-to-1 victory over Stevenson.

State republican incumbents swept into office again and Holt countyans generally reflected the statewide attitude of voters.

However, in Boyd county, the voters there pulled a surprise on Gov. Victor Anderson by giving a 1,065-987 margin to the contender, Frank Sorrell of Syracuse.

Holt countyans emphatically lined up in the GOP column, giving fat margins to republican candidates, who also triumphed at the state level.

Local interest was centered on State Sen. Frank Nelson's bid for another term in the state legislature, representing the 28th district (Holt, Boyd, Rock and Keya Paha counties). Nelson snarled under a University of Nebraska student, Hugo Sieler of Butte. (See details elsewhere on this page.)

Only county race involved Art Tomlinson of Irtman, republican incumbent, and M. Landreth of Page, democratic contender, for supervisor in the Second district. Tomlinson, who has been ill, won it, 439-321. (See table on page 10.)

District judge D. R. Mounts and County Judge Louis Reimer were unopposed on the non-political ticket.

Frank M. Johnson of Lexington, incumbent University of Nebraska regent from the Sixth district, outdistanced Jack Elliott, Scottsbluff insurance agent, 2,206-2,126, in Holt balloting. But Elliott had generous support in western Nebraska and held a 30,376-27,149 margin at noon with most precincts reported. This is a non-political, non-salaried post.

Governor Anderson ran away from Sorrell at the state level, almost 2-1. George Morris, petition candidate, ran a poor third.

Dwight Burney, Hartington farmer and a GOP, built a 31,000 vote lead over Frank Morrison, democrat, for lieutenant-governor with most precincts in the state reported.

Other state level winners: Secretary of state, Frank Marsh, republican, over V. C. Havorika, sr., democrat, nearly 2-to-1.

State auditor: Ray C. Johnson, republican, over Julius Petersen, democrat, nearly 2-to-1.

State treasurer: Ralph W. Hill, republican, over Richard R. Larsen, democrat, 1 1/2-to-1.

State attorney-general: Clarence Beck, republican, over William E. Grubbs, democrat, nearly 2-to-1.

State railway commissioner: Wayne R. Swanson, republican, over J. C. McReynolds, democrat, 1 1/2-to-1.

Swanson, an Omaha plumber, is a newcomer on the state scene. But he wears that invincible Scandinavian label, supporting the time-honored tradition that residents of German, Central European, Irish and English descent will equanimously support someone whose name ends in "son".

Burney made his first bid for a state office. However, he is a veteran state senator and has been acting lieutenant-governor. The ton-mile tax initiative petition was turned down, 1 1/2-to-1, at the state level and was soundly defeated by Holt countyans. (see table on page 10.)

The truck fine amendment carried in a close statewide vote. The grain tax amendment was okayed by Nebraska voters; also the salary change proposal.

The tax liability amendment and tax commission amendment were defeated.

Holt county voters were disposed to vote against the ton-mile tax and all five amendments.

Holt countyans were 690 votes short of equalling the all-time record vote in the presidential election of 1952.

County Clerk Kenneth Waring said 175 absentee and disabled voters will be counted in the canvassing of the votes, but no county races will hinge on the outcome.

Boyd Countyans Prefer Sorrell

BUTTE—Boyd county voters, many exercised over highway problems, vented their feelings at the polls Tuesday by giving the edge to Frank Sorrell, democratic candidate for governor. Sorrell got 1,065 votes while the incumbent, Gov. Victor Anderson, received 987. However, Anderson was elected.

Two incumbent Boyd supervisors were defeated in Tuesday's election by sizeable margins. Both of the winners are republican candidates.

In the second district, Lynch and Mullen precincts, Andrew Clasen defeated C. A. Moody, democrat, by 220-168.

R. W. Dickerson of Butte was unopposed for reelection in the Sixth district. He received 316 votes.

Warren Collins of Butte was elected county judge on the non-political ballot, defeating Marvin Peterson of Bristow, 1,315 - 881.

Collins will succeed John Clasen, incumbent, who was defeated in the primary.

Boyd gave A. L. Miller, republican, a 1,440-738 decision over Carlton W. Laird for congress, and defeated the ton-mile issue 1,116-916. Boyd voters voted decisively against the amendments, and gave Frank M. Johnson a 938-581 decision over Jack Elliott for university rector.

The Eisenhower-Nixon team gathered 1,374 votes while Stevenson-Kefauver polled 834 in the 11 precincts.

No County Races in Rock

BASSETT—There were no county races for Rock county voters to decide in Tuesday's general election.

C. E. Dillsaver with 711 and Edmund D. Shaw with 632 were elected regents of the county school.

A third candidate, Frank R. Ammon, polled 555 to be left out.

Rock countyans liked Ike-Nixon 914-273, over Stevenson-Kefauver and gave substantial margins to the entire state GOP slate.

They favored A. L. Miller, republican incumbent for congress, 847-238, and stomped on the ton-mile issue 713 - 393. They also turned thumbs down on all amendments.

Ill Farmer Aided by Good Neighbors

DORSEY—Claude Pickering, who has been ill several weeks with what the doctor's describe as an inner ear infection, Saturday was befriended by a host of neighbors—men and women.

The men brought pickers and made short work of the 80-odd acres of corn which averaged about 20 bushels to the acre.

The elevator was furnished by Boyd Boelter.

Mr. Pickering resides about 30 miles northeast of O'Neill.

Womenfolk brought along food and served lunch to the workmen.

Mr. Pickering plans to go to Omaha to consult specialists if he doesn't show improvement.

His condition keeps him off his feet most of the time.
