Merit Examinations Scheduled Jan. 26

Open-competitive merit system examinations will be given throughout Nebraska on January 26. These examinations will be given to anyone who can meet the minimum qualifications for positions in the state departments of health, employment security and public welfare.

At present there are vacancies in some key positions for sanitarians and laboratory scientists in the state department of health. The state department of public welfare has two important positions—chief of field services and field representative—which should be filled immediately.

Local state employment offices are frequently in need of interviewers. In the county welfare offices the case worker positions is most frequently vacant. The constant turnover in clerical positions creates a continuous need for new applicants.

NEXT REGULAR TUESDAY AUCTION, JANUARY 8th

Your consignments in 1957 are earnestly and sincerely solicited. As in the past all consignments, whether large or small will receive our prompt and courteous attention. We are complying with State and Federal Regulatory officials so that our market will become a public stockyard, with Federal inspections similar to any interior or river market. In the meantime, contrary to what you may have heard or read—send us your livestock and be assured of a good market and fair treatment.

We can still use 400 to 500 head for next weeks' auction, so if you have any class of cattle to sell, Phone 5141 and list them today.
