Tuberculosis Is Contacted From Another Active Case

It is a communicable (catching) disease.
It is caused by a germ which usually attacks the lungs but may attack other parts of the body.
It is spread from an infected person to others in several ways, some of which are:
Through nose and throat discharges by coughing and spitting.
Through using dishes, linens and other articles soiled by an infected person.
Tuberculosis infection usually is the result of continued close contact with an active case, therefore, it is a "family disease."

How Do We Know Who Has Tuberculosis?

Early Tuberculosis is without symptoms.
It is no respecter of persons.
It occurs in all walks of life and at any age, but is least likely to be present in a serious form between the ages of 4 and 14 years.
If coughing and loss of weight are present, the disease is well advanced and a person has lost his best chance for complete recovery. One can have a far advanced case without any symptoms.

How Can We Protect Our Family?

Have a Free Chest X-Ray When Our Unit Comes to Your Community
Have the family physician give each member of the family a tuberculin test. If the test is "positive" have him X-ray the chest to see if nature has walled off the germs, or if they are doing harm. For safety, repeat the X-ray each year.
