10% Increase in Hospital Charges

Due to steadily increased costs of operations at St. Anthony's hospital, it has become necessary to increase hospital charges approximately 10 percent. Increased rates will apply to all patients admitted after midnight on February 28. A hospital spokesman pointed to increased number of personnel and higher payroll costs as the primary reasons for the upward revision of hospital charges. Currently the payroll represents 62 percent of the total expense in operating a hospital. The spokesman pointed to a change that has taken place in recent years in the basic function of hospitals in this country. "In years not too far past, hospitals were places of last resort for a good many people who were going to die. At that time the majority of hospital employees were unskilled individuals of older age groups, who frequently worked for a minimum weekly wage and board and room. Today, hospitals are centers of medical diagnosis and treatment, where people go to get well. These patients, in a general way, require men and women who are adequately trained for their work—technicians with special skills. "Just as salaries for all types of workers have increased, so have those of hospital employees," the spokesman said.
