Horse Pinned Down; Rider Dies

CHAMBERS—Mr. and Mrs. William Reninger of Chambers and their brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wyant of O'Neill, received word Friday, July 5, of the death of their brother-in-law, Ned Frady, 54, of Trinity Center, Calif. He died on July 2.

Mr. Frady, a forest ranger, was with a group of 16 young men he was training for forest work. The group left early Tuesday, July 2 with pack horses. Mr. Frady's horse became bogged down and pinned beneath a fall-on tree.

The exertion of freeing the animal, in the high altitude is thought to have caused a heart attack. He died while the horse was being released.

Mr. Frady was a native of Antelope county having been reared at Oakdale where his father was editor of the Oakdale Sentinel for many years. He married Florence Grubb of Chambers.

They lived in Chambers for a short time several years ago and have visited here many times. Funeral services were held Friday, July 5, and burial was at Concord, Calif.

Survivors include: Widow—Florence; sons—Charles of Arcadia and Jack of Concord, Calif. and their families.

Mrs. Roland Jackson of Bremerton, Wash., formerly of Chambers and sister of Mrs. Frady left immediately after receiving word of her brother-in-law's death.

740 Coturnix Quail Loosed in Paddock

Seven hundred forty coturnix (small) quail were put out Saturday in Paddock township north of here by state game commission representatives. The quail were distributed about 25 to a section in an area five miles wide and six miles long, generally laying between the Eagle and Redbird creeks.

"This is an experiment to determine if these quail will adapt themselves here," State Sen. Frank Nelson said. The quail are being distributed in about 80 sections, Rock and Brown counties received the birds about a week ago.

These quail are quite small. When grown they average about two-thirds the size of the bob white quail.

The birds loosed in Holt are now five-week-old, and the conservation people expect the birds to rear a brood of young this summer.

Quail of this species presently inhabit large areas of Asia, Hawaii and Japan.

Game officials urge residents to give the quail "every advantage" and report nests or broods of young or band numbers of any dead coturnix.

Rock Falls Writer Back from East

ROCK FALLS—Hi readers, I'm back on the job again after a nice four week vacation in Massachusetts with our son and family, arriving in O'Neill Sunday morning.

I encountered some very hot, humid weather while there but also enjoyed as much pleasantly cool temperature. Understand it's been hotter here several times. Most of New England is in need of rain, and water use is limited to household requirements only.

Even truck farmers are rationed in their irrigation. But so far their crops look good.

We left during the four-day July 2 holiday and traffic was terrific. However, as we traveled by train we felt safe enough, but we were rather "buffed" around at the railroad stations.

I appreciated reading the home paper while away and I'm thankful to Mrs. John Schultz and Mrs. Albert Witfeldt, who so efficiently took over in my absence.

By Mrs. Floyd Johnson.

Nifty Dish Ready in a Jiffy

Summer entertaining is a "cinch" when Crab Meat au Gratin is on the menu. An easy version of this distinguished dish—made with canned crab, meat and packaged mashed potatoes—takes only minutes to prepare. Fun to make and a joy to eat.

Crab Meat au Gratin 2 tablespoons butter 2 tablespoons flour 1/2 teaspoon salt Dash of pepper 1 cup milk 2 teaspoons sherry 1/2 cup grated mild American or Cheddar cheese Melt butter in small saucepan. Add flour and seasonings and stir until well blended. Add milk gradually, stirring constantly. Bring to a boil and simmer 2 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add sherry and milk. The grated cheese, stirring until cheese is melted. Add crab meat and heat thoroughly. Pour into four individual casseroles or sea shells, or a 1-quart casserole. Add packaged mashed potatoes to boiling water. Remove from heat. Do not cook. Quickly press potatoes into water with table fork to moisten evenly. Add salt and butter. Whip with fork for about a minute. Top crab mixture with potatoes and sprinkle with remaining cheese. Broil about 5 minutes, or until cheese is melted and golden brown. Makes 4 servings.

Telegraph Operator Takes Bride-in '07

He sent his bride of a few hours to the hotel in a "hack" and hurried to the telegraph key, where he kept vigil until 3 a. m., the next day.

A news item in the Appleton paper might have read: "Following the ceremony, the bride and bridegroom went their separate ways."

Mr. Dobbins stayed on as station agent at Appleton for four years. His wife's mother became ill and requested that the couple come to Osmond to live. They did.

Once Mr. Dobbins had an opportunity to be station agent at O'Neill for the Great Northern (subsequently the Burlington), but he declined.

Thirty-seven years ago the couple began farming northeast of Page. Four years ago they returned and moved into town.

Mrs. Dobbins was born at Elmhurst, Cook county, Illinois, December 16, 1887.

Mrs. Dobbins was the lone girl in a family of nine children. She has four living brothers: John Brunckhorst of Page, Ernest Brunckhorst of Imman, Robert Brunckhorst of Osmond and William of Lusk, Wyo.

Mr. Dobbins was born at Underwood, Ia., September 5, 1880. He has one living brother, Ennings, and one living sister, Mrs. Elsie Eilers of Portland, Ore.

Son Dies in Infancy The Dobbins became the parents of two children. Their son, Cecil, died of pneumonia in 1911 at the age of 18 months. They have one daughter, Mrs. Thomas (LaNora) Holliday of Orchard.

There are two grandchildren, Holly and Beverly Holliday. The Holliday family lives five miles east of Page and 1 1/2 miles south of the town.

For that train ride to Benson the couple were the best wedding finery—even though the ceremony was to take place in a drab courthouse building.

Mrs. Dobbins' wedding gown of China silk included 15 yards of goods. Tier-upon-tier of ruffles were featured in both the skirt and waist. Much yardage of lace was employed in the yoke trim and in other convenient places.

She also had the matching camisole, gloves, undergarments and nightie of the same material. Lace trim, of course!

The ensemble was made by a professional dressmaker who would have pulled her hair if she had known the nuptials were to be performed in a spittoon-infested courthouse office.

Tailor-Made Suit Mr. Dobbins' suit cost a nifty $75 and was tailor-made. Coat was of doeskin, pants of broadcloth. That same suit, viewed Sunday by well-wishers at the Dobbins residence, is "good for another 5 years," the owner declared proudly.

At Sunday's reception Mrs. Dobbins was wearing a heavy gold bracelet which had been given to her by her brother, Henry, now deceased. Henry had seen his sister to the station when she set out for Minnesota that day in late June, 1907.

She wore the bracelet both at her wedding and on her golden wedding day.

Mr. Dobbins is water commissioner at Page, reads the meters and keeps the pumping functioning. He is now 76; his wife is 69. Mrs. Dobbins suffers with asthma.

"Only the asthma, which often makes her feel miserable, keeps her from being the hardest working woman in town," the master of the house explains.

Both are good gardeners and the yard reflects a love for flowers.

The couple was presented several gifts, a small purse of cash, numerous flowers, including a bouquet from Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Cronk of California.

Mrs. Dobbins baked the angel food cakes served to the guests together with ice cream topped with strawberries from the Dobbins garden.

Mesdames Clarence Stevens, Otto Matschullat, Harold Freemyer and Anton Nesen assisted with the serving.

Miss Viola Haynes baked and decorated the wedding cake that centered the dining table. Miss Haynes also was in charge of the guest book.

Backers Vocal in Tuesday's Hearing

Elmer McClurg: "The petitions in behalf of Smith—450 names—solve the matter for the board; Holt has twice been restricted; the basic idea is that each district should be built around one town."

Ora Yarges: "Smith knows machinery well, can teach men how to operate it."

Norris W. Coats: "Smith's home is two miles from where the county machinery is kept. This proximity could be vital in an emergency. The preponderance of immediate support for Smith might be regarded as an 'election of a sort' by the board."

The Frontier's reporter met privately with Pacha, a sandy husky, and Smith, a short, dark-haired man, before the candidates and their delegations filed into Tuesday's hearing.

'Mutual Admiration' Both voluntarily vouch unqualified support to the other regardless of who gained the appointment. Both testified to admiration of the other and regretted if anything uncomplimentary had come out of the respective camps.

Supervisor Frickel, who had labored for Pacha, urged the board to hold off the appointment. But the disposition of the crowd—and the board—called for an early choice.

Crook ruled the show of hands vote was in order "because these people assembled here are entitled to know how the voting goes."

Voting over, the session quickly broke up. The board reconvened after lunch to work on tax valuations.

Both Smith and Pacha are republicans. Smith's father, Walter A. Smith, Sr., is a former Sixth district supervisor. Batenhorst is a democrat.

Telephone Operators Hold Reunion—A group of telephone operators and former operators held a reunion Wednesday, July 3, at the Town House.

Gardening Days Are Salad Days

If you're a home gardener, surely nothing's more satisfying than being able to enjoy the products of your green thumb. Gather in the "fixings" for a crisp, cool salad bowl, and you'll be well rewarded for your gardening efforts.

Fill a basket with your choicest garden lettuce, vine-ripened tomatoes, cucumbers, scallions and radishes. Wash and chill these garden treasures, then toss together lightly with a perfectly seasoned dressing.

One of our favorites is the Tomato Soup Dressing, given below. It has a tantalizing flavor that lends real zest and sparkle to garden-fresh salads. This dressing is easy on the calories, too, for it's made with the non-caloric sweetener, Sucaryl, rather than with sugar. Simply by the use of this sweetener, calories have been slashed from 45 calories to just 28 calories per tablespoonful. Best part is, you just can't taste the difference. For, without adding a single calorie, this sweetener gives cooked and baked foods a naturally sweet, sugar-like flavor.

Whether you're weight-watching or not, we think you'll enjoy this sweet yet tangy dressing:

TOMATO SOUP DRESSING (Low-Calorie) 1/2 cup salad oil 2 teaspoons Sucaryl solution or 16 tablets, crushed 1 cup vinegar 2 tablespoons chopped onion 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) tomato soup 1/2 teaspoon garlic salt Combine all ingredients and blend well.

Makes 2 1/2 cups or 44 tablespoons. Each tablespoon contains 28 CALORIES. 0.1 grams protein; 2.6 grams fat; 1.1 grams carbohydrate. If made with sugar, each tablespoon would contain 45 CALORIES.
