CHAMBERS—Vivian V. Harley, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Harley of Chambers, became the bride of Kenneth Bauer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bauer of Detroit, Mich., Sunday, September 8. The 2:30 p.m. ceremony took place in St. Paul's Lutheran church in Chambers.
Rev. Theodore C. Moeller, jr., of Seward performed the double-ring ceremony.
Miss Marlene Hofner of Ethan, S.D., a friend of the bride, played the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Lois Geisselman of Seward, who sang "The Twenty-third Psalm."
The benediction was sung by a 10-member a cappella choir of Seward. Mrs. Henry Rudolph of Spalding accompanied. The choir was directed by Fred Kamproth of Seward.
The church was beautifully decorated by Mrs. J. W. Walter, a friend of the bride, assisted by Mrs. Louis Harley and Mrs. Vernon Harley.
Baskets of gladioli edged with aqua and aqua tinted carnations with palms and fernery and a seven point candelabra were used in the decorations. The pews reserved for the honor guests were designated by white gladioli edged in aqua and white ribbon and candles.
Proceeding the ceremony the candles were lighted by Bill Bauer, brother of the bridegroom, and Dave Schneider, a friend, both of Detroit. They also served as ushers and groomsmen.
The bride, given in marriage by her father, appeared in a gown of rosepoint lace and nylon tulle over duchess satin. The very fitted elongated lace bodice outlined with lace scallops formed a sabbina neckline. The long sleeves were pointed and crushed at the wrists.
The very bouffant skirt worn over hoop petticoats and layers of nylon tulle featured an over skirt of scalloped edge lace above a tulle flounce with inserts of shirred tulle side panels.
Her veil was an imported French illusion three-tier, ballerina length held by a Mary Stewart cap of rosepoint chantilly

Crown hats were worn with aqua veil and an aqua velvet bow in back. White fringed carnations with corsage entwining completed their ensembles.
Arnold Bauer, brother of the bridegroom served as bestman. The bridegroom and his attendants and the bride's brother wore tuxedos and aqua carnation boutonnieres.
The mother of the bride wore a beige dress with beige accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy blue dress with matching accessories. Each had a pink carnation corsage.
A reception for around one hundred guests was held in the church parlors. The room and tables were decorated in the bride's colors. The bride's table was centered with white flower containers designed into sail boats on a mirror with aqua trimmed gladioli, white baby chrysanthemums, sails of expanded foil and candles.
The four-tiered wedding cake was decorated with white icing and aqua flowers and large white bells, topped with a halo of miniature bells. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Arnold Bauer, a sister-in-law of the bridegroom.
Cousins and friends of the bride served as waitresses.

Crofton to Switch After SMA Opener

Guests Will Go to 11-Man Game

The 1937 edition of the St. Mary's academy Cardinals will host the Crofton Warriors Friday night in Carney park in an eight-man grid game.
After fulfilling the booking with the Cards, the Warriors will do a quick-switch and turn to 11-man football.
The Warriors have a perfect eight-man slate behind them, never having been licked in three seasons in eight-man circles. During that period they were never tied, either. Last season the Warrior opponents could count a skimpy six points.
Last year the Crofton club boasted an all-stater—Jerry Stiffens.

The Cards have only three performers back of the eight who started against Crofton, and only Guard Jim Enright is in the same slot where he started a year ago.
Bruce Weier and Jim McGinn, who started at ends last year, have been shifted to center and halfback, respectively. Enright and Weier, both three-year lettermen, will be starting their fourth campaign as regulars.
McGinn, Card captain, lettered one season at Wayne before joining up with the Scarlet.
Competition for starting assignments has been lively with Ronnie Clark, Gene Schneider and Bill Craig engaged in a three-way duel for the other half-back spot, opposite McGinn.
Clark is also fueling with Paul Ziska for one of the end positions, while Ziska's desire to play is keeping him in contention.
Paul is being groomed for duty at guard and center as well as end.

Jim Murphy, the other returning letterman, missed the first 12 practices and is beginning to round into shape.
Wins Blue Ribbon—Miss Lynn McCarthy, in her first year of demonstrating at the state fair, received a blue ribbon for her demonstrations of "women's work is never done". Her parents, the George M. McCarthy, took her to Lincoln Saturday. The Charles F. Nutter family went down Monday to see Lynn's and other demonstrations.

Here for Funeral—Drs. and Mrs. John Gilligan of Nebraska City and Elizabeth Latta of Omaha arrived Saturday to see the Birmingham family. As they were unable to attend the funeral because of commitments they left Sunday. He is a brother of Ben Gilligan.

Notice to Motor Vehicle Operators

During recent months the Police Department has noted many abuses of the parking policy in the business districts, largely by certain business people and employees.

A frequent offense is parking of a vehicle in front of some other person's place of business.

We urge that these abuses stop and that business people and their employees arrange to park in space in the rear of their places of business and on side streets in order that more parking space is available to shoppers.
