Holiday Arrangement

With Fall definitely here and the holiday season almost upon us, thoughts turn to the decoration of the home and the giving of gifts. Perhaps no other gift is more welcome than flowers—particularly a floral arrangement—or gives more warmth and beauty to your home. Alva Wayne, official stylist for the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association, using chrysanthemums, pompons, fresh grapes and a few sheaves of wheat, has created an ideal holiday arrangement to send or wire to friends and business associates here or overseas. Chrysanthemums, and the many varieties of pompons are plentiful and inexpensive this time of year, so take advantage of their crisp, lush beauty next time you visit or call your favorite FTD florist. Remember too that they are unusually durable flowers and stay fresh and beautiful for at least a week or ten days.

Teenagers May Be Hauled into Court
Game Warden Fred Salak served notice in county court that he would file charges against Douglas Spittler, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Spittler, and Larry Havranek, 16.
The youths were firing at empty beer bottles with a .22-caliber rifle at the "Y" a half-mile south of O'Neill on U. S. highway 281.
Salak told the judge's office he would file charges and request the boys be brought for hearing. Only possible charges would be for shooting from a public highway or littering a public highway.

'Miracle' School Formally Dedicated

"Voice of The Frontier" program (WJAG, 780 kc, 9:30-9:55 a. m.)
Clyde Widman of nearby Amelia, president of the Nebraska School Improvement association, was a guest at the dedication but was not on the program. As a member of the Amelia board of education, he helped lead a running court battle with Decker's department. The battle went to state supreme court and by virtue of the court's ruling Amelia's two-grade high school still operates.
Said Mr. Widman of Doctor Decker's talk: "I feel many people might be confused by what the commissioner said here today. Doctor Decker said he never desired to close any rural schools. "But the highly controversial K-12 proposal," Widman continued, "most certainly has been recommended and pushed by Mr. Decker and his staff. While this proposal in itself might not close district 231 and its counterparts, the K-12 plan would eliminate local control and that's a big factor in our association's opposition to K-12. If a minimum average daily attendance clause were written into a K-12 law, as most surely will be attempted, small schools would have to close shop—and that's all there is to it."
"Furthermore," Widman observed, "Decker is constantly seeking higher teacher certification which tends to whomp costs and, in a different manner, forces closing of small schools."
Mr. Olson drove to this school today, traveling north and west from Lincoln to Neligh, Ewing, O'Neill, Emmet and Atkinson, then "backtracking" south 16 miles to the "backtracking" east two miles, then "backtracking" north a mile or two.
"Of course, there's a shorter distance from Ewing to the district 231 school—about 29 miles as the bird flies. But the K-12 enthusiasts elected to take the 62 mile route—chiefly because it's almost impossible to make it any other way. In addition, weather and road conditions were perfect."
"This points up why parents must retain control and must determine when and how far their children should travel to-and-fro from elementary schools and high schools."
The Widman-Decker meeting Sunday was social. Both were guests. But underneath there was an atmosphere of solid collision on matters of K-12, higher teacher certification, and school control. K-12 would provide a board of education to administer a K-12 school and the strategically placed elementary schools within the big district.
Currently the School Improvement group is undertaking to circulate petitions to restore the top school post in the state to an elective position by amendment at the next election.
Said Mrs. Charley Peterson of Atkinson, present at Sunday's program: "After hearing Doctor Decker's talk I am more concerned than ever that this education office should be elective rather than appointive; to listen to some of the inconsistencies coming out of the state office confirms my conviction that we should be more alert than ever before to the threat of centralized control of education."
One of the school board members in the vicinity, who did not want to be quoted, said of Decker's speech: "I don't like the idea of 10 or 11 months of school; I don't like it at all."
Another comment by an anonymous bystander: "It wasn't such a bad talk. Decker has changed his colors."
A woman offered this: "I thought it was a very fine speech."
Introduced were three members of the district 152 board of education, who served until that district was merged with 231: Mrs. Harvey Hansen, president; Larry Scheffer, treasurer, and Harvey Hansen, secretary. Dis-

With a Strong Right Hand

We're newspaper people, with our ears to the ground and strength in our right hand.

For a long time it has been our job to meet the people of our area—in their homes, work, schools, churches, and in their civic and social activities. It has been our job to understand their needs and desires; to report their joys and sorrows.

Few know this area and its people better than we.

Many merchants look to this background of experience and understanding for assistance in reaching their audience most effectively. It is an unusually strong right hand to their merchandising efforts—an effective source for information and advice.

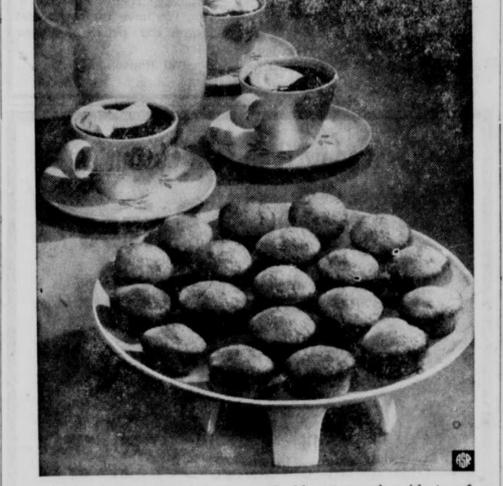

Let us show you how the combination of this experience and audited circulation facts* can help you to get maximum results from your sales messages. Call us this week.

Midget Muffins — Plain or Fancy

Plain, cinnamon crusted or topped with nut crunch, midget muffins are easy to serve the morning the girls come to your house for coffee.

The small, tasty (yet not too sweet) tidbits are made in midget time with muffin mix and toppings. To glamorize your coffee Viennese style, brew a strong pot and top each cup with a spoonful of whipped cream.

Try these Betty Crocker recipes:

- Midget muffin puffs—Bake one packet orange muffin mix in small muffin pans, 1/2 full. Roll hot baked muffins in 3 tsp. melted butter, then roll in 1/2 cup sugar and 1/2 tsp. cinnamon.
- Midget nut-crunch muffins—Bake one packet orange muffin mix in small muffin pans, 1/2 full. Mix 1/2 cup packed brown sugar, 1/2 cup broken nuts and 1/2 tsp. cinnamon. Sprinkle on batter before baking.
