Frozen Dinners Beat the Clock

CHRISTMAS is the season of tinsel and trees, boxes and bows. So much preparation is involved in getting packages off to friends that even to eat. However, the smart homemaker knows there are always hungry ones around when the hands of the clock reach the appointed dinner hour.

Drop the ribbons and scissors long enough to place several frozen prepared dinners in the oven. They take only about 30 minutes to heat. Choose from fried chicken, turkey, beef, or fillet of haddock. You get vegetables with each, topped with a pat of fresh country butter, all quick frozen to retain their flavor. Serve the dinners right in their own disposable container to save time and energy.

A good starter for any meal is hot soup . . . and the recipe given below is one suitable for sipping or spooning.

Asparagus Consomme
1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed cream of asparagus soup
1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed consommé
1 soup can water

Blend soups and water; heat. Makes 4 servings.

If you like to add an individual touch to the soup, garnish it with popcorn or with a Christmas cane made from a long strip of green pepper, cutting from top to bottom.

For dessert, make up a batch of cream puffs from a packaged mix. Just before serving, cut off the top of each puff; fill hollow with ice cream, replace top and serve with chocolate sauce. Use a tray to serve coffee or milk for the children. Quick! Yes . . . and it will delight the whole family.
