C of C to Entertain Farmers, Ranchers

The Chamber of Commerce Wednesday announced plans for a farmer-rancher night to be held on Thursday, March 6. The Chamber is sponsoring this event to enable its members to meet and entertain with their farmer-rancher friends.

Phil Henderson, farm management specialist with the extension service of the college of agriculture, will talk to the group on "Relations between Farm and Town People." Mr. Henderson operates an irrigated farm and livestock unit on a 50-50 basis. He knows farm problems and is well qualified to talk to the group.

Little Andrew ("Andy") Donohoe, who was born at St. Anthony's hospital in O'Neill on January 30, 1957, was a "blue" baby at birth.

After being advised to consult a specialist in Omaha, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James ("Tom") Donohoe, were told that little Andy had a hole in the compartment in his heart and the tube leading from his heart to his lungs had disorder.

His blood wasn't getting enough oxygen, consequently the blue color, the doctors explained. The specialist suggested that if surgery could and should be performed at that time. Smiling Andy is due in Omaha this month the month designated as heart month.

He reported to St. Joseph's hospital the first time and will probably be sent there again. A new machine for measuring heart performance is available there.

Andy has two sisters and a brother. He weighs about 18 pounds. He sort of "takes care of himself" his parents explain, when it comes to the matter of his limitations and sits and rests before he wears himself out.

The name Andrew is acquired from his great-grandfather, Andy Clark of O'Neill, former Holt county supervisor and board chairman. Mr. Clark's granddaughter, the former Dorothy Clark, is little Andy's mother.

Most of the funds accumulated for the heart drive go into research for heart ills.

A drive for the heart fund is being conducted in the downtown area this week under the chairmanship of Mrs. John Stiefbergen with the help of Mesdames Virgil Hansen, Verne Reynolds, Dick Tomlinson and L. A. Becker. Mrs. Robert Berigan is conducting the school collections.

Sunday, February 23, is heart Sunday. A house to house canvass will be made between 1 and 4 p.m. Captains are Mrs. Bill Cousins, southeast section; Mrs. James Earley, southwest section; Mrs. Clifford Harding, northeast, and Mrs. Ira Moss, the northwest.

Foot-in-Mouth Disease Spreads

Last week it was the story of the talkative fellow who told about getting "niggered" up in the presence of a famous Negro.

The foot-in-mouth disease this week concerns an O'Neill couple visiting recently in Texas. A dinner party was being held and exaggerations were rampant concerning the relative value of Holt county grassland and Texas range country.

Talk turned to sheep. Blurted the O'Neillite: "Why, where I come from they hang a man for raising sheep!"

In the circle was the biggest sheep rancher in Texas.

Save-the-Trains association officials offered a terse comment when the Nebraska Railway Commission announced its two-to-one decision Tuesday, February 11, authorizing Chicago & North Western trains 13 and 14 to be discontinued.

Newspapers in the area were quick to land editorial wallops, denouncing and scolding the commission, particularly Joseph Brown, who was chairman at the time of the Valnetine hearing six months ago.

S-T-A officers and directors in conference Friday emerged with plans for pitched battle.

They ordered their counsel, Einar Viren of Omaha, to file a motion with the commission for a rehearing or reconsideration for further hearing. The motion was forwarded Saturday to the commission, asking the regulatory body to set aside the February 11 order.

Two years ago the S-T-A avowed it would fight C&NW to the supreme court of the state and beyond, if necessary, to keep on these last two trains serving most of North-Nebraska," stated Secretary Ira Watson of Inman.
