Rockets Eyeing Faster League

Whether the O'Neill Rockets baseball team will compete in the North-Central league or in a new league being formed was discussed Sunday at a baseball meeting held at the American League club.

The Rockets have been competing in post-war years in the North-Central loop, which included Chambers, Atkinson, Stuart, Bassett and Ainsworth.

They have an opportunity to join a new conference which would include Winner, Gregory and Burke, in South Dakota, O'Neill and Atkinson, in Nebraska, and possibly other points.

The proposed new league is regarded as a faster circuit than the old North-Central.

Lowell Nesbitt was elected manager for 1958; Lewis Coker, assistant manager, and other officers will be chosen at another meeting to be held in two weeks at the Legion.

Dramatic Cantata Planned at Ewing

EWING—"On the Third Day," an Easter dramatic cantata, will be presented in the United Presbyterian church of Ewing, Easter Sabbath evening at 8 o'clock.

More singers are needed. If you enjoy singing and can help, you are invited and urged to do so.

This is an annual event of the community sponsored by the United Presbyterian church. Rehearsals are being held each Monday, Wednesday and Saturday evening in the church.

Mrs. Keith Biddlecome is directing the program. Aubrey Wood, director of the Methodist church choir, is training the singers. Mrs. Wilbur, pianist for the United Presbyterian church, is serving as pianist.

Names of the drama cast and of the singers will be announced later and costumes are being arranged.

Neligh Captures Class B. Crown

Classic Delayed by Weather

The Neligh Warriors Saturday night became champs of the district class B basketball tourney, defeating the Bassett Tigers, 57-45, in the title game.

In the semifinals played Friday night (delayed 24 hours because of weather), Bassett nipped the Plainview Pirates, 43-40, and Neligh defeated Plainview, 20-17, at the half. Dave Petersen scored 16 for Plainview.

Neligh's Bill Brungardt, fresh from a hospital bed, scored a fielder with four seconds remaining in the Neligh-Bloomfield game. The ball circled the hoop, finally dropped and Neligh won over the Bees, 48-47, in the other semifinal game. Brungardt scored 19 for Neligh; Dave Andreason 16 for Bloomfield.

Earlier Bloomfield had defeated Burwell; Neligh had bested O'Neill; Plainview scuttled Creighton and Bassett nipped Gordon.

Bassett paced Neligh, 28-24, at halftime in the title game. Brungardt rolled up 32 points for Neligh while Marcellus was gathering 17.

Inman Fades After Ned Kelley Chased

Center Captures D Championship

The Inman Tigers lost Tuesday evening to the district class D center cage finals here, 52-50, in one extra period of play.

On Thursday night in the semifinals, Inman defeated Lynch, 70-56, and Center clipped Orchard Orioles by eight points.

Finals were delayed until Saturday night because of the storm. Inman was in front by 10 points when the Tigers' star, Ned Kelley, had to leave the game because of too many personal fouls. Kelley had been assessed three personals in the first four minutes, much to the chagrine of the Inman partisans who claimed Kelley was stationary when a Center hawk came along. The first two fouls were hotly disputed.

Turnover of State's Teachers Noted

LINCOLN—The state education department says far too little attention is paid by the public to the large turnover of teachers in Nebraska schools.

A study, just completed by A. R. Lichtenberger, director of research for the department, is revealing.

In the last two school years, 34.09 per cent of Nebraska's teachers either changed schools, left the state, were not re-hired or got out of the profession.

Despite the hustle and bustle about science, mathematics and the Sputnik, the department said "for some reason the seriousness of a rate of teacher turnover which amounts to 34.09 per cent is not recognized to an extent which incites positive action."

Lichtenberger said if Nebraska is ever going to greatly improve the "general quality of teaching in its schools, the matter of excessive teacher turnover must be solved.

"In most respects," Lichtenberger's report continued, "this is a public responsibility. Any effort to improve staffs

Wolford Quits

The resignation of Dr. Jack A. Wolford, superintendent of the Hastings State hospital, came as a surprise to the state board of control.

The board supervises operation of the hospital and 16 other state institutions.

Wolford will end his duties in June to accept a position to teach in the Western Psychiatric Institute at the University of Pittsburgh.

The Hastings superintendent also will act as liaison officer between the Pittsburg University and state mental hospitals in the area.

The board had high praise for Wolford and said it accepted his resignation with regret. Special note was paid to Wolford's work with alcoholics.

Poison Centers

The state and federal governments are considering setting up poison information centers in Nebraska.

Omaha is tabbed at the center point with possible sub-centers at Grand Island, Scottsbluff and North Platte. These units would not be primarily for treatment of poisoned individuals.

Dr. E. A. Rogers, state health director, said the centers, rather, would be information agencies operated on a round-the-clock basis.

Commission Firing

An inspector for the state railway commission, George McKnight of Omaha, got the boot after he had filed on the republican ticket for the job held by one of his supervisors.

Joseph J. Brown, commissioner, is seeking re-election. It is his job McKnight is aiming for in the May primary.

While Brown was out of town in Washington the other two commissioners, Richard Larson, chairman, and Wayne Swanson, fired McKnight. Larsen
