Canons of Ethics: 'They're Most!'

The editor of the Ord Quiz challenges the constitutionality and fairness of the action filed against an Omaha judge who is being cited by the Nebraska supreme court for permitting photographers to take pictures of scenes in his courtroom...

After discussing the canons of ethics under which the court regulates the actions of lawyers in the state, the Ord editor concluded it amounted to a closed shop for lawyers.

"We submit that those who would raise the economic stature of the farmer take a leaf from the books of the lawyers, the barbers and the liquor dealers. Get yourself under the maternal wing of some state bureau!

"And, if you want to shoot the moon, adopt some canons of ethics. They're the most!"

Let's Check It!

With April half over, we've come upon spring again, a time for cleaning the attic, digging around those flower bulbs, and painting the window screens.

And something else to which we ought to pay attention. Along with all this refurbishing, don't overlook the old physiological machine, the body of yours. It's time to check up on your health, we're reminded by the American Cancer society.

What this means, of course, is quite obvious. The ACS needs your co-operation in doing two things—getting enough money together to keep scientists working on ways to beat cancer permanently and getting such folks as you and me to go and have a physical examination.

Why a physical checkup? Because it's the best way to find out whether anything—including cancer—is wrong with you. Cancer can creep up on you quiet like, and you don't know you've got it until it's got you.

So take a day off from beating those rugs and see your doc. Tell him you want a thorough examination to make sure you don't have cancer. And about that check, the Cancer society says it isn't insisting on that. If you don't trust banks, it's all right with the society. Make out a money order and send it along. Or just good old plain coin of the realm will do. Everybody ought to get into the act, because cancer is everybody's business.

Holt county has an active chapter of the American Cancer society and currently is waging a fund drive. If you are at a loss to know to whom your contribution should be directed, simply address it to Cancer, O'Neill, Nebr., and you can be assured you and your community will be properly credited.

What Happened in Canada

The astonishing victory of John Diefenbaker, conservative leader in Canada, and the crushing defeat of Lester Pearson, liberal leader, was not a "conservative victory"; it was the outcome of a successful anti-communist uprising.

This from our indispensable newsletter, Human Events (edited in Washington, by the way, by a native Omaha, Frank C. Hanighen.)

Terrible Fire Rages Across Holt

Train Started Blaze? Cameron Loser

50 Years Ago

One of the worst prairie fires swept over a portion of the county five miles northeast of town. It started from a smoldering hay stack and was carried north to Redbird by a strong south wind. The territory burned is estimated at about 30 square miles and forms a huge L-shaped tract. The north limb extends east to the Antelope slough country and the western limb extends south to the Elkhorn river. A strip seven miles wide, extends from a half-mile east of Henry Hoxie's to Hay Point on the Burlington. Three families near the railroad were burned out and several others farther north, besides thousands tons of hay, hundreds of fence posts and scores of telephone poles. Of those living southeast of O'Neill, James Cameron is probably the heaviest loser. He had several acres on their back and some horses and cattle. Everything else was lost, including his house, buildings, etc. He had no insurance. William Gannon, living not far from Cameron, lost everything but his house, some hay and several head of livestock. He almost lost his family. They had gone to the outside cellar which caught fire and they nearly suffocated.
