During the business meeting, presided over by Mary Lou Luebecke, Marvin Stauffer gave a report on the 4-H club leader's banquet held at Atkinson. Marvin and A. T. Crumly each received their two-year pin and Frank Beelaert was given his 10-year pin.

Joe Beelaert, jr., led the group in a series of recreational games. Following lunch the members discussed the merits of the Beelaert and Ragland dairy animals that were reentered as club projects.

State Vote to Be Light

LINCOLN—Before the ballot-guessers say unless candidates pick up a head of steam in the coming few days, Nebraska's May 13 primary election vote may be one of the lightest in recent years.

Despite a large number of candidates, there has been public ballyhoo only in a few races. One factor, armchair observers say, is this is not a presidential year. This alone cuts the size of the vote.

Breaking of a late, cool spring into summer-like weather also could keep farmers at home to get at delayed field work.

Fireworks early in the campaign started in the treasurer and railway commission races. Sen. Monroe Bixler of Harrison, who has been campaigning vigorously for the republican nomination for treasurer, charged Richard Hill of Lincoln was trying to ride into office on the name of the present treasurer, Ralph Hill, who, by law can't run again.

Marilyn Jeanne Stroman of Lincoln has been hard at work trying to unseat incumbent Joseph Brown, present railway commissioner, in the GOP primary.

As a campaign finale Stroman boarded Chicago & North Western train 13 at Omaha Monday night, stopped off here briefly Tuesday morning and continued on to Chadron, returning via train 14.

Stroman has been levelling blasts at Brown. Carl Peterson of Lincoln, former Madison county attorney, also has toured the CN&W line, which is involved in a running battle with the Save-the-Trains association. Other candidates who have visited Holt county during the campaign are Hilding E. Johnson, George A. Spidel and Fred Sorenson.

Other veteran republican office holders are not expected to have any trouble. Gov. Victor Anderson has one opponent, little known. He is Louis Hector.

Frank Marsh, secretary of state and top party vote getter, is expected to breeze by a little-known political newcomer, John W. Swanson of Hildreth.

Atty. Gen. C. S. Beck and Auditor Ray Johnson are unopposed. However, in the lieutenant-governor's race in incumbent Dwight Burney might get a tough battle from Marvin Griswold of Lincoln.

Political observers look for democratic congressional battles in the First and Second districts.

OUR CUSTOMERS TOLD US... They want to know FACTS ABOUT PUBLIC POWER IN NEBRASKA

Only about two-thirds of those responding to Consumers Public Power District's recently-completed customer survey realized that Consumers is publicly owned—that each customer is a part-owner. Almost all said they would like to know more about public power in Nebraska. Therefore, these brief facts:

- Consumers Public Power District serves 356 Nebraska communities acting both as a generation and distribution agency. Through its network of over 4000 miles of transmission lines, reaching from border to border throughout the state, it also distributes to cities, industries, and farms power generated by other Nebraska power agencies.
- Consumers, organized in 1939 under an act of the Legislature, is owned entirely by the people it serves.
- The voice of Consumers owners is expressed by a board of seven directors elected by the voters of the communities it serves at retail.
- Consumers' financing is entirely from private sources; it is entirely without aid from tax funds, government grants or loans, or other subsidies.
- Consumers enjoys a sound credit rating in the financial world.
- Net earnings of the District are returned to its owners through (1) the redemption of revenue bonds, thereby increasing the owners' equity in the system; (2) additions and improvements to the system, and (3) rate reductions.
