While the purchase price was not disclosed, it was stated that it was approximately at book value. The stock was purchased from John C. Udd, board chairman of Western Auto Supply Co., and Robert O. Denman, a director of Western Auto and president of Denman Enterprises, Ltd.

Western Auto Supply is a national retail and wholesale distributor of auto supplies, household appliances, sporting goods and hardware. The company operates over 350 stores and has over 3,600 dealers that distribute merchandise from 16 warehouses. The company has total assets of approximately $88 million. ## State Capitol News—

State Values Up, Levy Down

LINCOLN — Nebraska government will take $1 million less from taxpayers than it did in 1955.

Gov. Victor Anderson made that announcement in reporting the state property tax levy for 1958 is $7.97 per $100 assessed value of property.

That's a drop of 26 cents per $1000 from 1957—the second year in the four years the governor has been in office that the state levy for operating government has declined.

Governor Anderson says the reason is his "hard tack" approach to state budget and "holding the line" on spending.

The chief executive said he has received good public response from the levy cut, made by the state board of equalization of which he is chairman.

"We're holding the line despite the fact everything we are buying nowadays is costing more," the governor commented. "We have to squeeze even more. That's what I have advocated since I have been governor."

A $38 million hike in valuations is partially responsible for the lower levy, the governor conceded. But he added, mostly it is economical operation of government.

The state board of equalization, besides the governor, is composed of Secretary of State Frank Marshall, Auditor Ray Johnson, Tax Commissioner Fred Herrington and Treasurer Bertha Hill.

Statehouse political strategists say the levy cut will be good campaign material for the republican party at the general election this fall.
