The School Teacher

Emerson advised his fellow townsmen to manufacture school-teachers and make them the best in the world. Van Wyck Brooks, "The Flowering of New England."

A real school teacher is not, by ANY means, manufactured. School teachers are born. Some few try to cultivate the technique, but they are more or less bored with their job. You can't call it their profession because a profession is something that you develop from within, and develop through learning, doing and vast experiences. It is something you desire to do. You constantly strive to do better, and try to excel.

A teacher is not a person who acquires years and years of learning and then goes into the classroom and dumps it, so to speak. In dealing with grade school children, a teacher is molding characters. She is instrumental in developing personalities. She doesn't acquire all this knowledge from books. It comes from the sincerity within. The teacher imparts knowledge to the children in their care to enable them to get along with their fellow beings, and adjust themselves to the world in which they live. She directs them along the line of their duty to God, home, family, and to take their place in the world, to country. She trains the children to take their place in the world, to maintain a livelihood.

God has molded a human being; a teacher helps to develop it spiritually and bodily. So, you see it is a noble calling, not just a job.

A teacher is not manufactured. (Editor's note: The preceding article, The School Teacher, was term paper submitted at Dana college, Blair, by Mrs. Leo Gokke, an O'Neill school teacher attending a summer session at Dana).

Turbo-Prop F-27's for Casper-Omaha

New turbo-prop F-27 planes which Frontier air lines will use for local Nebraska service were demonstrated last week in Kansas City, Mo., for a civil aeronautics meeting attended by Nebraska and Wyoming aeronautics officials.

The twin-engine jet liners fly smoothly and quietly at 300-miles-per-hour and are equipped with weather radar, pressurized cabin and ground and in-flight air conditioning.

The planes carry 36 to 40 passengers and are designed to operate on small airports, providing all the luxuries of modern passenger plane design.

Frontier this fall will be putting into operation its newly-authorized flight from Casper, Wyo., to Omaha via Lusk, Wyo., Chadron, Ainsworth, Norfolk, Lincoln. Later stops will be included at Valentine and Columbus.

Fire Destroys Brick School at Fairfax

Two-Story Building Is Guttled

FAIRFAX—Fire destroyed the Fairfax consolidated school Friday afternoon, just 10 days before classes were to have opened.

There was no one in the building at the time of the fire.

The two-story brick building was built in 1921 and was remodeled in the 30's. The loss was covered partly by insurance.

The school board members and school officials met Monday to determine what action would be taken.

The blaze was discovered at 2 p.m. Friday by men working near the building. It was under control at 6 p.m.

School Board Clerk Ray Davis estimated damage at 180-thousand-dollars. The building contained six classrooms.

Volunteer firemen from Fairfax, Bonesteel, Burke, Picktown, Butte and Spencer fought the blaze.

Stolen Car Switch Leads to Capture

Two teenage Wisconsin youths were apprehended Thursday in Grand Island after a stolen car switch at O'Neill had touched off a search.

Don McClellan of O'Neill reported to Holt County Sheriff Leo Tomjack the license plates of his car had been stolen. Tomjack caused a description of the plates to be broadcast to state law enforcement officials.

Grand Island authorities said they were holding William Keefe, 15, of Milwaukee and Daniel Schmanske, 14, of Racine. They were found in a car bearing McClellan's stolen plates. The boys admitted that the car in their possession—a 1935 Ford—was stolen at O'Neill. A check of used cars lots here revealed the machine had been stolen from the Lohaus Motor company Thursday.

Further investigation disclosed that the two boys, in their flight across the country, had abandoned a Wisconsin car at O'Neill on the new U. S. highway 20 grade about a half-mile west of town. The car, from East Troy, Wisc., bore stolen Minnesota license plates.

The federal bureau of investigation indicated it would press charges in the case, Tomjack said.
