

Johnsons Back
from Montana

ROCK FALLS—Hi Everybody! I'm back again after a somewhat lengthy leave of absence. Touching briefly on my whereabouts and activities during this time, I will sort of explain this way:

On August 8, accompanied by Floyd R. and daughter, Linda, we drove to Red Lodge, Mont., to attend a family reunion. On August 10, we stopped overnight with relatives near Glendo and Cody, Wyo. The relatives went along to Red Lodge for the annual gathering of the Robinson families. There were 65 present and they came from various points—Oregon, Washington, California, Wyoming and different places in Nebraska including Omaha.

The following morning we took leave of kinfolk and spent the day on a sightseeing tour of the Yellowstone, going in at the north eastern entrance near Cooke City, Mont., and leaving at Sundown via the south eastern corner near Cody.

After a couple of days with relatives at Powell, we were on our way and stopped over with members of the Johnson family at Guernsey and Ft. Laramie Wyo., arriving home on Friday evening a week from the day we left.

Aside from a hurried trip, it was a nice vacation and we were scarcely back in time to make ready for two families from Michigan who were to arrive the following week for the Johnson reunion in Atkinson on August 24, an account of which appeared in The Frontier.
