

"Share in America with United States Savings Bonds" is suggested by James A. Monahan, President of the Sandhills Cattle Association and Gerald J. McGinley, President of the Nebraska Stock Growers Association. As co-chairmen of a special campaign to remind Nebraska cattlemen of the sound plan of building increased security for the family and ranching operation they recommend the purchase of risk-free Series E and H savings bonds. These securities which are convertible for cash provide an excellent ready-cash reserve to protect the cattlemen against the many risks of his business and offer a completely safe and sure investment. Buying these "Shares in America" also helps to keep America economically strong; helps curb inflation and contributes to a reservoir of deferred spending power for future business in the community. The campaign is being conducted during September and October.
