Nebraska Methodist Leaders Nix Bingo

The official governing body of the Methodist church in Nebraska Sunday in Lincoln took a strong stand against legalized bingo and urged voters to defeat the bingo referendum on the polls November 4.

The Nebraska Methodist cabinet, composed of Bishop H. Bascom Watts and the eight district superintendents (including O'Neill's Rev. Robert L. Embree, northeast Nebraska district), pointed out that "gambling is a moral disease, always dishonest in fact, but often breeding itself into bigger forms, demanding more of our time and money, until we may become confirmed gamblers—some even landing on skid row."

The cabinet, composed of Homer L. Dickerson, John P. Brooks, Glen W. Marshall, Harold C. Sandall, John E. Stuyton, K. Orlando Lee, Everett E. Jackson and Embree, adopted the following statement:

"On November 4 the voters of Nebraska will decide whether bingo games shall be legalized to raise money for churches and charities. In one sense this referendum is an effort to circumvent the present law. If bingo is a harmless game, it should be made legal at all times and not slipped in wearing the mask of charity.

"Gambling is a moral disease, always dishonest in fact, but often breeding itself into bigger forms, demanding more of our time and money, until we may become confirmed gamblers—some even landing on 'skid row'."

"Bingo is gambling—the promoter taking that which is not rightfully his and the player hoping for that which he does not rightfully earn. That bingo may furnish entertainment for certain aged and poor people should not blind us to the fact that the money used by them is too often that which should go for groceries, rent and medical attention. Though bingo players may have a certain tepid thrill when a part of the money goes for charity, the fact remains that they play to win much for giving a little.

"There is a further danger that the professional gambler may get in to promote these charity games, often taking five or 10 dollars for himself for one given to charity.

"We condemn gambling in all forms—pari-mutuel at the race tracks as well as bingo. Therefore, we urge our Methodist people to join with other Christians in defeating the bingo-for-charity referendum on election day. This is the voice of conscience and not simply a matter of social choice."

Lunch For Busy Fall Days

Summer is over! . . . and the busy activities of fall start once again. It's the time for club meetings, P.T.A. program planning, children's activities, etc. Let the pantry shelf and freezer help you serve delicious, well balanced meals with a minimum of time and effort.

Remember that lunch . . . the meal too often neglected . . . should be as tempting and appealing as any other meal of the day. At the same time, it must supply about one-third of the day's total food needs.

Here's an ideal menu. Start with Clam Chowder Special . . . a delicious combination of Campbell's soups . . . clam chowder (Manhattan style) and tomato soup. It's the perfect treat for fall appetites and has that "fresh-from-the-sea" flavor.

To complete this easy luncheon . . . frozen breaded fish fillets, topped with sliced almonds, buttered asparagus and for dessert . . . grapefruit sections with sliced cherries and flake coconut.

UNUSUAL HAM LOAF STARS AT SUMMER MEALS

Attractive light meals are ever in demand for hot summer days. This ham loaf, tucked into the center of a loaf of crusty yeast-raised bread, is easy to make, takes a minimum of cooking, and is festive enough for special guests. Accompany it with a generous salad of crisp greens to serve indoors or out on the porch or patio. Complete the meal with a man-sized piece of pie topped with a wedge of sharp cheese and plenty of coffee—iced or hot.

- HAM LOAF-WITHIN-A-LOAF
- |                                  |  |
|----------------------------------|--|
| 1 small onion, grated            | 1/4 teaspoon pepper                            |
| 2 tablespoons salad oil          | 1/4 teaspoon sage                              |
| 1 pound ham, ground              | 1/4 teaspoon thyme                             |
| 1 carrot, scraped and grated     | Dash chili pepper                              |
| 2 sprigs parsley, finely chopped | 1 long loaf enriched yeast-raised French bread |
| 2 teaspoons salt                 | 1/2 cup tomato juice                           |

Brown the onion in hot oil. Stir in the ham, carrot, parsley, salt, pepper, sage, thyme, chili pepper, and tomato juice. Cut off the end of the loaf of bread, scoop out the inside and add half of the scooped-out bread to the ham mixture, mixing well. Pack the mixture into the loaf shell, attach the cut end of the loaf of bread with a skewer, and bake in a moderate oven, 350° F., 15 minutes.
