Aerial Search for Missing Knox Man

CENTER—Knox County Attorney Merritt Warren said Monday a search is being made for a Creighton farmer, 53, who has been missing since 9:30 a.m. Saturday.

Mr. Warren said the farmer, George Ehrenburg, may be suffering from loss of memory. He was last seen in a 1948 model light-blue Chevrolet pickup truck, Nebraska license 12-1170.

Mr. Ehrenburg is five feet 11 inches tall, weighs 170 pounds and wears glasses. He did not have money or identification.

Ehrenburg temporarily lost his memory last spring and was found in Sioux City, Warren said.

Any person having information that would help authorities locate this man is asked to call County Attorney Warren or Sheriff Edward McQuistan at Center. Ehrenburg is described in "The Frontier" (WJAG, 780 kc) broadcast Wednesday that Ehrenburg was still missing, Mrs. Howard Wells of Redbird telephoned The Frontier that a man answering to Ehrenburg's description had been seen on the Clifford Wells farm Saturday night.

The man slept in a pickup truck with a Knox county license in the Clifford Wells pasture.

Sunday morning some of the Wells family went to the scene. The man said he was okay although he was suffering "terrible headaches".

The Wells information was relayed to Knox authorities. Ehrenburg's son, Dwight, boarded a light airplane and combed much of the rugged Eagle and Niobrara river country Wednesday afternoon for three hours but found no trace of the pickup. Others combed the area in cars.
