Flaked Coconut Makes Delicious Pie Crusts

Like to make unusual pastries for your pie fillings? Here's a simple but delightfully crisp one that only requires butter and flaked coconut. Joe Sivesind, local salesman of the Meadow Food Dairy offered the recipe to us along with an elegant apricot banana chiffon filling.

Use a low oven temperature to bake the crust, advises Beatrice Cooke, test kitchen director of the company's main plant in Chicago, where the pie was created. The buttery coconut needs just a light toasting.

Apricot Banana Chiffon Pie
(makes six servings)

2 packages orange flavored gelatin
1 12-ounce can hot apricot nectar
2 cups cottage cheese, sieved
1 medium banana, peeled and sliced
1 cup apricot puree
½ cup whipping cream, whipped and sweetened
Coconut Butter Crust:
2 3½ ounce cans moist flaked coconut
3 tablespoons melted butter
Dissolve gelatin in apricot nectar. Chill until slightly thickened. Beat together cottage cheese, banana and apricot puree. Fold into gelatin. Spoon into coconut crust. Chill until firm. Garnish with whipped cream. Crust: Combine coconut and butter. Press evenly onto bottom and sides of buttered 9-inch pie pan. Bake at 300 degrees for 35 minutes or until coconut is lightly toasted. Cool.

BASSETT SALE YARDS

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 31

34 coming two-year-old bulls; 20 open heifers of the same breeding as the bulls; 2 coming three-year-old bulls.

The bulls are well grown, mostly yellow or light in color. They have thickness, depth, good heads and short legs and a uniformity not usually found. The heifers are in pasture condition and should grow into a splendid bunch of light colored cows.

One bull selling is not catalogued as we had planned to use him in our own herd. He is yellow and the right kind. Lots 7-28-38 are also top light colored bulls that we seriously considered for use in our own herd. There are many more top bulls that might suit your requirements as well or even better.
