SAFETY, COURTESY AND THE TRUCKING INDUSTRY

The truck operator cannot have accidents and remain in business. Consequently, truck drivers are selected with care; they must pass rigid physical and mental tests prior to employment, and regularly thereafter.

Likewise, the professional truck driver cannot afford to be careless. His very livelihood depends on the safe operation of his equipment, which with cargo may be valued at several hundred thousand dollars. Truck drivers are noted for their courtesy and are regarded as the safest drivers on the road. Many a stranded motorist has been the beneficiary of the thoughtful service these men gladly offer.

The entire trucking industry in Nebraska is pledged to a continuous program of highway courtesy and accident prevention. The Nebraska Motor Carriers' Association Safety Service in Omaha is available to all truck operators to screen drivers for aptitude and record. We know that the Service cuts down on highway accidents.
