Mrs. Della Eby . . . poetry is part of her life

Harmony Love Inspires Poetry Of Mrs. D. Eby

Mrs. Della Eby shares her love of poetry with the readers of the Frontier each week. Often her column includes an original poem. She writes poetry because of a "love of beautiful words in harmonic style." Little everyday occurrences can inspire a composition. She began early in life to collect and write. Years ago she sent letters in poetic style to a homesick brother, Dr. Stuart, in the armed service. This touch of home was welcome.

Mrs. Eby has many scrapbooks filled with poems. Contributions for her scrapbooks have come from many places including Chambers, Stuart, Valentine, Broken Bow and South Dakota as well as O'Neill. Other members of her family have had an interest in poetry. She is a second cousin of Clara Viola Freeharty who published a book of poetry.

Mrs. Eby has also been known for her singing. She studied voice and piano at the Moody Bible Institute in Chicago after completing studies at Fremont Normal.

Oil painting is another of her accomplishments. A painting of a mountain scene in Yellowstone Park hangs over her living room sofa. Flowers are a favorite subject. She has also painted China. Church and missionary work have occupied a big place in her life. Although she is not able to do much active work in the Methodist church she continues her interest in missionary work.

Mrs. Eby lives quietly in her O'Neill apartment near her daughter, Mrs. W. B. Gillespie. Her picture window is banked with flowers and is a joy to passers-by as well as herself. She is modest and unassuming. She is most proud of being a grandmother. She has three grandchildren: Dianne and Gary Gillespie, children of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Gillespie, O'Neill and Robert son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eby, Omaha.

Prizes to Many Parts of Area; 23 Participate in Sales Drive

The O'Neill Frontier's Trade Expansion campaign came to a close at 9 o'clock Tuesday night. The last reports accepted through the campaign office were Saturday, May 21. Candidates placing their collections for the last days in the sealed ballot box themselves. Members of the advisory board broke the seals and made the final count.

During the closing hours of the campaign, candidates from all parts of the O'Neill trade area came to the Frontier office to turn in their subscriptions. Many of the workers continued their efforts until the last minute.

With the territory divided into three separate divisions, with a separate set of prizes for each district, it was possible for candidates residing in one district to win a larger prize than someone residing in the other district even though their total was not so high.

The prizes were divided into three separate groups to place everyone, as nearly as possible, on an equal basis according to working conditions.

It has been the constant aim of this newspaper and the management to conduct the entire campaign on an absolutely unquestionable plane, to make it fair and square in every detail to everyone. It is very gratifying to all to know these efforts have been appreciated from the complimentary remarks and expressions from everyone who has visited the campaign office.

All candidates who have made a cash report have received a cash commission on all subscriptions they have turned in up to and including Saturday, May 21, and those who did not win prizes will have checks for the commission on the ballot box report mailed tomorrow.

The publisher and the campaign management again wish to thank all the candidates for their earnest work. The judges who made the final count and the community for the wholehearted support in making this drive a real success.

We also wish to welcome the 1,194 new homes which have been added to the Frontiers big family of readers in the last three weeks.

Lady, the pet dachshund of the Reed Herley family, has usurped some of the maternal duties of Misty, the mother of six kittens. Lady takes advantage of every opportunity to give each kitten a thorough scrubbing and occasionally attempts to evict the mother cat. She will jump into the basket with the kittens if given a chance. Before the arrival of the kittens Misty and Lady would romp together until worn out and then catch a few winks in the same bed. They have been good friends most of their lives.
