SS Amendments Make Changes In Benefits

The 1960 amendments to the social security law makes qualified disabled people under age 50 and their dependents eligible for cash benefits starting in December. Reports Clifford Kittelson, manager of the Norfolk social security office.

Another important change lowers the length of time a person has to work in order to qualify for old-age insurance benefits. A minimum of six quarters or 1 1/2 years is needed by those who reached retirement age (65 for men, 62 for women) in 1956 or earlier. Those reaching retirement age this year will need at least three years of coverage.

The earnings limitation for beneficiaries under 72 remains at $1,200 a year. There will be a change next year in the method of figuring loss of benefits for those who earn over $1,200.

These and a number of other changes affect many people in this community, said Kittelson. Anyone wishing further information should get in touch with the social security office servicing his area.
