Roads, Distance Are Problems Facing Schools

Two school districts, Star and Cedar Corners, decided to solve their re-districting problems by attending school the first semester in the Star district and the second at Cedar Corners.

For them the major problem was getting the children back and forth. One family drives 32 miles a day to keep their children in school and when the Lyle Johnsons share the burden and go after and take the Slattery children they also drive the same distance.

A pedometer strapped to the ankle of each child would total 1140 miles a day which would add 40 miles for the teacher and that total times five days a week would spring the grand total to 5,900 miles a week. Computing at that rate for nine months would make a person dizzy. Fortunately they do not travel one alone in a car so the car owners get a break of a sort but in all kinds of weather, rain or shine, it still is a chore for someone to add to their day's work.

All grades except the kindergarten are taught by Mrs. Dorothy Sanders who found getting to school and home again a problem of major concern when the weather was rough and the roads travel resistant.

The mileage pendulum will swing back the other way for some when they take up work at Cedar Corners. School equipment was taken to Star which will have to be brought back.

Pupils are Michael and Rena Slattery, Larry and Wynn Johnson, Pamela Derickson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Derickson, Billy Revell, Gail and Veldon Spangler, Bradley, Vicky and Virginia Hansen, Betty and Diane Kubic, Carl and Carol (twins), and Gary Wilcox and Ronald, Roger and Claudia Derickson, children of the William Dericksons.

On one of the roads Mrs. Sanders had to travel last winter the section line was not open for six miles.
