Letters to the Editor

O'Neill, Nebraska
November 22, 1960

Dear Sirs:

Mr. W. A. Curry has stated in a recent letter to the editor that he is completely opposed to the development of the O'Neill Irrigation Project.

Everyone is entitled to his opinion and Mr. Curry is to be commended for stating his viewpoint. However, the Irrigation Committee has gathered many facts which show the benefits that could be realized by the entire area with well planned irrigation development. Further, the Committee is thoroughly convinced that investment in such development is completely sound and is justified.

There is no basis, in fact, for the claim that the Federal Government's proposal is totally un-economic and is simply a socialist maneuver to spend the taxpayer's money foolishly. Actually, studies show that the O'Neill Unit is totally economic and feasible from the standpoint of the farmer on the land and of the Federal Government's investment in the project facilities.

In appraising the economic feasibility of the O'Neill Unit, the Bureau of Reclamation has applied the same stringent tests that it has applied to 79 other projects which have been constructed to date. They provide water to irrigate 6,756,737 acres of land that produced crops valued at over $987,000,000 in 1958 alone. The value of crops grown in that year was approximately one third of the Federal Government's total all-time investment in reclamation dating from 1902.

Studies show that 97 percent of the cost of the O'Neill Unit would be repaid to the Federal Treasury by the water users and by surplus power revenues of the Missouri River Basin Project; the remaining three percent would be assigned to fish and wildlife, recreation and flood control, all considered as national responsibilities.

Studies also show that the average farmer on a 200-acre farm, irrigating 125 acres of land in the O'Neill area, can realize twice the NET income he now realizes from farming 640 acres of dryland. This is a much healthier situation from the standpoint of the community than a few large corporate non-resident landowners coming into the area and displacing many farm families.

In regard to grain surpluses—it has been proven many times that on irrigation developments, such as the proposed O'Neill Unit, the trend is toward general livestock feeding and a variety of crops rather than one-crop cash grain enterprises—hence the crop surplus problem is diminished.

In closing I wish to reiterate the previous suggestion of the Irrigation Committee that all landowners and tenants inform themselves of the facts about the O'Neill unit by studying the brochure that was furnished to them last summer. Anyone desiring these factful brochures may acquire them from the Irrigation Committee or the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

The Committee is thoroughly convinced that there is no program that would accomplish greater benefits for farmers, townspeople and business men in the area than widespread irrigation development. To this end, the Committee has and will continue to provide factual information and answer questions pertaining to the Project.
