

It's A Very Small World That We Live In Today

By Mrs. N. D. Ickes

The fact that it is rather a small world after all was demonstrated recently at Orange, Calif., when former Pageites met altogether without intent at a golden wedding observance of people whose names meant nothing to the guests traveling there to meet a former acquaintance who used to live at Orchard.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brownell, parents of Mrs. Jerry Lamason of Page, and her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Don Lautenschlager, formerly of Orchard, traveled to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Moran at Orange, Calif., where they had been asked by Mary Leiding to meet her there at the home of her aunt for a visit while she was attending the anniversary festivities.

Upon their arrival they were introduced to Mr. and Mrs. Moran, the honored guests and were greeted by "I've hardly been able to wait until you came to find out all you know from Page that I used to know" and they found time to reminisce back over the years and refresh their memories concerning Page in the early part of the century when Mrs. Moran, then Eckle Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will Brown, was a girl and lived in the home now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. I. O. Wood.

Her father, Mr. Brown, had a harness shop and sold New Royal sewing machines. When they left Page Nels Coover bought out the sewing machine agency and one of the machines is still operating perfectly in the home of Mr. Coover's daughter, Ethel Park.

Among Eckle's friends were Louella Harper, Maud Reed, Ethel Coover, Bessie Stewart, Elsie Gray.

Eckle was married to Will Moran while at Page and went to Emmetsburg, Ia. Soon the family also were gone and eventually lost track of as is the way acquaintanceship's flourish and die with the stress of present day problems.

The Morans moved to California twelve years ago. Because she had never had the time to count the four-leaf clovers she had collected as she brought the brought the cows from pasture and went about the farmyard chores she took them with her and was astounded to find she had over 5,000 of the little plants pressed between the leaves of books.

Californians are hobby minded and a friend suggested that Mrs. Moran capitalize on four-leaf clovers for a hobby.

She is glad she did since the collection and display has brought her publicity through newspapers, appearances over radio and tv and she has entered them in hobby shows and fairs and taken many prizes.

Mrs. Moran displays her clovers on 5 by 7 foot boards. She features a 4-leaf clover signature and is shown with the Queen of the Fair and her aid at the Orange County Fair.

Her collection earned a spot on Ripley's Believe It or Not and the idea was suggested by Edie Cantor. She also appeared on the Steve Allen show.

Thus did Pageites clasp a hand of friendship across the miles and bridge the years with recollections of the long ago while they also made the acquaintance of a strange never-before-heard of hobby-four-leaf clovers.
