

Merritt Dam Ceremonies Saturday

MERRITT DAM AND RESERVOIR

Ground-breaking ceremonies for Merritt Dam will be held in Valentine Saturday at 3 p.m., officials of the Niobrara River Development Association and the Valentine Chamber of Commerce announced this week.

Following the afternoon ceremonies, which will be addressed by Grant Bloodgood, Assistant Commissioner and Chief Engineer of the Bureau of Reclamation, the Valentine Chamber of Commerce will be host at a banquet for out-of-town guests.

Main speaker at the evening banquet will be Kenneth Holm, Assistant Secretary of Interior, Holm, a former South Dakotan, was secretary of the Mid-West Electric Consumers Association prior to his appointment to the Interior Department post by President Kennedy.

Merritt Dam is to be built on the Snake River approximately 14 miles upstream from the confluence of the Snake and Niobrara Rivers, about 26 miles from Valentine.

The dam, construction contract awarded to the Bushman Construction Co., together with the access road will cost $2,655,044 and is scheduled for completion within 1,000 days. The completion date has been set at December 2, 1963.

Merritt Dam will be an earth-fill structure with a height of 120 feet above streambed. It will be 3,100 feet long at the crest and the reservoir which it creates will have a capacity of 68,000 acre feet of water.

The dam's spillway, having a capacity of 1,150 cubic feet per second, will consist of an ungated morning glory intake structure about 100 feet upstream from the dam's axis, and a conduit through the dam leading to an open chute discharging into a stilling basin. Two gates will regulate releases to the Ainsworth Canal from a horseshoe conduit on the right side of the dam.

The reservoir capacity of 67,500 acre feet will be almost all for irrigation storage. The "dead" storage in the reservoir will be 1,100 acre feet. This is storage which will be below the outlet and will remain in the reservoir.

The lands to be irrigated are located in Cherry, Brown, and Rock counties and are presently dry-farmed. They will be supplied the water by an irrigation system which originates at Merritt Dam in what is known as Ainsworth Canal. This canal will meander from Merritt Dam eastward for about 53 miles. It will have an initial capacity of 620 cubic feet per second.

Six monolithic concrete siphons will be required, ranging in length from 200 to 2,000 feet. About 45 miles of the canal will be lined with concrete. About 209 miles of laterals and three pumping plants located along the laterals will be constructed to serve the irrigable lands. The pumping plants will have list of 9, 21 and 28 feet.
