Sirs: In view of your editorial, it might interest you why manufacturers are moving south. Here's what they want: A large and adaptable labor force. Sufficient good water. A community that will work with them. They prefer non union labor. Land, or land and buildings furnished. Good highway and railway outlets. Good tax structure. Down here the farms are small and often both man and wife work in town. Or, with brothers, one can care for them alone, while the other works. Arkansas has an Industrial Development Commission. This was fostered by Winthrop Rockefeller. Cities are enabled to get money to build and attract industry. In the case of Daisy Mfg. Co., the city of Rogers bonded for one and one fourth million dollars, sold the bonds and bought land, then constructed two huge buildings. Daisy has 20 years to pay for this outfit. New York Life bought the bonds. I note that Nebraska and several other states are banding together to attract industry. Well, union labor is going to have to produce more or take less wages and management will have to get off its golf cart, do some work and take less profits. In case this doesn't happen, we won't have anything to eat. Our gold reserves are down to 15 1/2 billion. Our imports will soon exceed our exports. My estimate is that 70% of our businessmen are broke. They figure their assets in paper, and before long that paper won't buy anything. Enclosed is information put out by Rogers. I'd be glad to furnish any more you wish.
