A Poem From Mrs. Eby . . .

I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills. My help cometh from the Lord. Ps. 121:1-2—
Beyond
 One day John Wesley was walking with a man with a troubled mind. His troubles such a burden no rest could he find. He expressed doubt as to God's goodness and love, If He would allow such heartache from His home above.
 Wesley just saw a cow looking over a stone wall. She's looking over since she can't see through at all. That's what we must do with our walls of trouble you see. Look over and beyond till our troubles will flee.
 Not like the ostrich with her head in the sand, Pretending troubles do not exist in our fair land. Just have faith in God, no matter what circumstances arise. But look beyond them and keep our eyes on the skies.
 Though Mr. K. has his hand on Cuban soil. Trying peace in our land in that way to embroil. If we keep our eyes on God and His care, He'll take care of Mr. K. and righteousness declare. If we are right, stone walls will not blind. But right shows the way to see over we'll find.
 —Della Stuart Eby
