The entire days activity was sponsored by the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben. Local arrangements were made by Catherine Indra, County Agent.

Ewing Man Buys Blacksmith Shop At Chambers

Lloyd Durre, Ewing, recently purchased the Chambers Blacksmith Shop from C. E. Wintermote and son. He took over the management April 1.

Mr. Wintermote came to Chambers, July 29, 1937 from Morris Bluff, Nebr., and worked for Harley Hardware for a time. He then took over the Blacksmith shop of Harleys which he operated in the old building until September 1942. He then operated until the present time in the new building.

His son, Lloyd, had been in business with him for several years. Mr. Wintermote will remain with Mr. Durre to assist him for awhile, before retiring. Lloyd's plans are indefinite.

The Wintermotes are the parents of three sons, Lloyd Chambers, Arthur, Central City and Leonard, Wayne. They have two grandchildren.

Whitwer Leaves O'Neill to Join Creighton Office

Weston Whitwer, Range Conservationist at O'Neill, concluded his work in Holt county last Friday and assumed his new duties at Creighton this week.

Whitwer will be Range Conservationist for several counties at this location.

Weston and his wife, Marjan, have lived in O'Neill since December, 1950. They are the parents of two boys, Steven and Clayton. Mr. and Mrs. Whitwer have been very active in the Presbyterian church. They have been a member of the Lions club and other professional groups. The family will be moving to Creighton in the next few weeks.

Weston worked and counseled with many of the ranchers of the county. He will be long remembered by many who have applied sound range conservation measures to their ranches with his assistance. The success of the ranch conservation program in Holt County has been largely due to the good work he has done in the years he has been associated with the Soil Conservation Service in O'Neill.

Inman School Loses Appeal At Lincoln

The State Board of Education unanimously disapproved the high schools at both Inman and Liberty Tuesday afternoon following a hearing held for both schools at Lincoln.

The action followed on the heels of a notice of disapproval issued last month on recommendations from the State Department of Education.

Neither school will be eligible for free high school tuition and both will lose their exemption from the levy.

Inman, however, was granted the option of contracting for one year to have its students enrolled in other districts.

The only recourse from the board's decision is to carry the case to district court.
