"DISTRIBUTION" . . . makes the difference!

Nature blessed the elephant with huge feet which distribute his enormous weight over a wide area. Using the same principle of weight distribution, tobogganing boys skim over soft snow, and giant earth movers, with their big balloon tires, roll over soft earth without bogging down.

In the same manner, a big tractor-trailer unit avoids undue damage to highways, with 10, 14 or even 18 big tires distributing the truck's weight over a wide area of pavement.

Improper construction, inadequate maintenance and weather—these are the highway enemies . . . not the trucker. For like the elephant, the earth mover and the boy on the toboggan, the trucker doesn't throw his weight around, he distributes it!
