SOCIETY NOTES.

Happenings About the City Among the Socially Inclined.

The ladies of the Hebrew Benevolent society are arranging a domino party for the even-ing of the 27th.

Judging from a list of coming events, the Lenten season will not interfere very much with the movements of society.

Apollo lodge, K. of P., have arranged for a grand banquet next Tuesday evening, Feb. 21, the twenty-fifth anniversary of Pythianism. A number of Lincoln's prominent musi-cians will meet at Y. M. C. A. rooms Monday evening to form a "Musical Festival Associa-tion." It should be largely attended.

Lent has begun with all its threats of solemnity and suggestive sombreness, and the social world seems to have crammed all possible gayety into the last few weeks.

The Scandinavian masque ball at Temple hall Thursday evening was one of the largest attended affairs given there this season. The music by the Scandinavian band was excellent, and the time was duly enjoyed by the participants.

Miss Alma Benedict entertained the members of the senior class of the university at her home Foureeenth and U streets, Tuesday evening. After selecting class orators for commencement day, the students enjoyed a very pleasant social time.

The ladies of Lincoln have organized a Martha Washington branch of the Irish National League, electing the following officers: President, Miss May Flanagan; vice president, Mrs. Jennie McGlave; secretary, Miss. Agnes McVann; treasurer, Miss Lottie Eckhardt.

Arrangements are being made for a nusicale to be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Brown, 1131 H street, on which occasion their accomplished daughter, Miss Florence, will make her debut in musical circles. The affair, which is to take place in March, promises to be a very elegant one.

Mr. F. C. Zehrung and Miss Latta were in attendance at the assembly given at the Millard hotel in Omaha Monday evening. Mr. Zehrnng returned home Tuesday morning, and speaks of the affair as being one of ex-traordinary brilliancy. Miss Latta remained in Omaba and is the guest of Miss Nellie

The Lenton season, it is said, is to be filled with reading and discussion of historical and philosophical literature. Well, if young ladies look sharp enough they can do this and still endure a great deal of wickedness; for there is many a book in both these fields which contain more demoralization to the square inch than the wildest social festivity this old town ever included in this old town ever indulged in.

Mr. Ed Gillespie invited about forty members of the sophomore class of the university to his home, No. 1630 G street, Wednesday evening; but before their arrival several freshmen captured the host and after keeping him in a back for an hour or more, permitted him to return home. After he reached there however, he enjoyed it as well as any of the company. Music, cards and dancing were the principal amusements indulged in, elegant refreshments being also served.

The whist club was royally entertained Wednesday evening at the handsome home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Burr, L and Sixof Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Burr, L and Six-teenth street. Everyone enjoyed a very pleasant evening, and this great scientific game proved equally as interesting as usual. Miss Jennie Milton, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Millspaugh for several weeks past, left yesterday for Omaha, where she will stop over for a few days to visit before returning to her home at Three Rivers, Mich.

One of the most enjoyable leap year parties of the season was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Schmittel, corner of Eighteenth and H streets on Thursday evening. The young ladies gallantly did the honors of the evening, ably assisting the host and hostess in their hospitable duties. The evening was very pleasantly spent at dancing, (three large rooms being used for that purpose) music and cards. Elegant refreshments were served at about 12 o'clock, although the happy young people continued the gay whirl until young people continued the gay whirl until far beyond that hour.

Progressive Angling. The newest social game, progressive angling being introduced into Lincoln. It is a very fascinating game, and capable of producing much amusement. Nineteen gold fish (not live ones) are placed in the pool, a wire circle which fits nicely on a card table. There are four of these tables, numbered as in proressive euchre, and two couples are placed at each table. Each fish is numbered, but the number is not visible, and as they are mixed ndiscriminately no one can tell the high one from the low one. Each player is given a root with hook and line attached, and when an at the royal table are caught, the numbers are counted up and the game proceeds as in progressive euchre. The COURIER has secured a set for angling purposes, and invites its lady friends and all interested to call and examine

Class of '91.

Miss Lottie Andrus entertained the memers of the class of '91, state university, at her home, Seventeenth and L streets, Tuesday evening. After a very enjoyable musi-cal program had been listened to, refreshments were announced after which the young gentlemen were surprised by being presented by their lady friends with a handsome valen-tine and a small silver spoon badge, the em-blem of the class. The remainder of the evening was pleasantly spent at cards and danc-ing. Mr. and Mrs. Andrus are pleasing enertainers, and their charming dauuhter, Miss Lottie, an accomplished hostess,

For Sweet Charity Sake.

The ball given by the Bricklayers Union No. 2 at Bohanan's hall Monday evening, for the Lena Webbeke fund, was a big success in every particular. The members of the Union had exerted themselves to sell tickets and they sold a large number, and besides this a great many were bought at the door. The largest hall in the Bohanan Block, the largest in the city, was used for the occasion, and even this mammoth room was filled with a crowd that came to pay their tribute to charity and enjoy an evening in the new resort. The room was illuminated with the new Ransom Carbon lights which shed its radient rays over the merry dancers, adding brilliancy to the scene. The music was composed of ten pieces and the the program of twenty-six numbers. The floor management was under direction of Messrs. Thomas Noonan and Jay Newton and everything moved smoothly and in a manner that was thoroughly pleasing and satisfactory to all present.

After paying expenses the net receipts were $38, which were turned over to the Webbeke fund.

The New Elk Lodge,

It is exercise. pected that the new lodge will be instituted early in March, on which occasion Elk fraternities from Omaha, Kansas City and other points will be present in large numbers.

Dairymaids' Festival

One of the most charming entertainments of the setson will be the Dairymaids' festival at Funke's opera house next Saturday evening, under the auspices of the Women's Christan association. Much time and work has been given the entertatnment, which from present prospects will be a grand success. special musical features will be introduced and a fine program is being prepared. As the proceeds are to be for the W. C. A., it is hoped a large turnout will fill the house. About forty of Lincoln's most charming young ladies will appear in the play. For further particulars see our next issue.

Miss Hawkins' Dancing Class.

The mention made in these columns two veeks ago regarding Miss Hawkins' proposed dancing school on Saturday last, proved a living reality, as could have been evinced by any one who might have happened in at Masonic Temple. The classes are progressing nicely and will meet every Saturday at 2:30 p. m. for further instructions.

Miss Hawkins' established ability for teach ing the young folks how to dance is certainly inducement enough for any fond parent to send their children to her classes for instruction. The lady having traveled extensively abroad has learned the latest and best methods of instruction, has visited the schools of London, Paris and New York, and is in every manner capable of successfully conducting the school, which, it is hoped, will continue to grow as it has in the past.

A Debut Party.

Tuesday evening Miss Florence Brown entertained a number of friends at dinner in onor of Miss Hattie Leland, the occasion being the eighteenth anniversary of the young lady. The dinner was an excellent spread, comprising everything delicious and luxuri-ous, and the fact that it had been almost solely prepared by the young hostess made it more interesting and the fare more tempting and it may well be said with credt to Miss Florence that as a chef de cuisine, she is certainly a success. Each lady was the recipient of a beautiful boquet of hyacinths and the gentlemen a boutonniere of helitrope.

After the dainties of the repast were fully discussed, the guests repaired to the parlors, where dancing was soon inaugurated. The folding doors were thrown open and every thing prepared for a good time, and it was about twelve o'clock when the participants retired to their respective homes, but not before expressing their gratitude to Miss Brown and extending best wishes to Mis Leland for a bright future,

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Brown, Misses Allaine McConniff, Gretchen Marquette, Huttie Leland, Carrie Leland, Jeanie Matthews, "Chie" Brown. Messrs. Henkle, Kingsbury, Heffelfinger, McArthur

Wessel and others. Among the many presents received by Miss Leland were three beautiful books : Brownings Poems in red plush, "Bells across the Snow," in merrocco, and "The wreck of the Hesprus," with compliments of Messrs. Heffelfinger. Kingsbury and Henkle.

A Delightful Party.

The most delightful party of the season in every way was given at the Windsor hotel Tuesday evening, in the form of a German by the German club. Although every party given by this club always proves a success, yet this one in par-ticular seemed to be above the average. Everybody was in good spirits and entered into the evening's enjoyment thoroughly.

The names of those present are: Misses
Clark of Omaha, Dundy of Omaha, Annie
Funke, Clara Funke, Hawkins, Oakley, Wells, Dickey, Hardy, Dilldine, Holmes, Sterling, and Messrs. Kingsley, Baum, Clark, McArthur, Law, Wright, Magoon, Brown, Smith Cooper, Zehrung, Hardy, Foresman and Lemist.

The costumes were particularly beautiful, and would have done honor to the society of a city four times the size of Lincoln. Miss Dundy wore an exquisite costume of old gold plush-panels of white silk embroidered in gold, with point lace; Miss Clark, a changeable blue silk with train, which was greatly admired; Miss Clara Funke, dark lavender surab silk; Miss Annie Funke, white cash-mere with lace; Miss Hawkins, light blue cashmere with lace; Miss Oakley, red silk with brocade; Miss Wells, red velvet with blue tulle; Miss Dickey, white silk with light pink surah; Miss Hardy, brocaded silk; Miss Holmes, red cashmere and surah; Miss Ster-ling, black and white silk, Mrs. Townley, light lavender, embroidered with pansies; Buckstaff, pink silk with black lace; Mrs. Sheldon, white cashmere with lace; Mrs. Hiskell, white silk with train; Mrs. Lambertson, light lavender silk: Mrs. McFarland, brocaded silk; Mrs. Dennis, black velvet jet; Mrs. Muir, brocaded silk; Mrs. Dildine, salmon silk, point lace. The German was led by Mr. R. H. Townley, who is, without doubt, a most perfect and agreeable leader.

Progressive Euchre. Wednesday evening a very elegant party was given to Misses Dundy and Clark, guests of Mrs. L. C. Burr. Many members of the Fleasant Hour were present, who pronounced it one of the pleasantest parties of the season. Mrs. Burr is a perfect hostess, and every mins was taken to increase the evening entertainment. The refreshments were very da.nty, and beautifully served. An amusing incident of the evening was 'the young lady from abread," a figure dressknight, Mr. R. H. Townley; esteemed royal ed in the height of fashion, seated near the door, and introduced to each guest as they ing knight, Mr. Chas. Magoon; tyler, Mr. W. arrived. The young men all fell easy prey P. Heiskell; treasurer, Mr. A. E. Hargreaves; to the young lady's (?) blendishments, and were heartily laughed at for their gallantry. It is said Mr. Will Hardy was especially m tten with her charms, and could hardly

Birthday Party.

Miss Rosebud Foster, a pretty yarty of little girls was given to her at her home on H street. Those present were: Ada Gregg, Jessie Leland, Daisy Potvin, Bessie Hayden, St. Valentine's day being the birthday of Florence Holmes, Tude McGahey, Blos. Mc Gahey, Katie McArthnr, Florence Winger, Margie Winger, Many pretty valentines were presented and the little girls had a jolly "When the cat's away the mise will play." However, it being the custom of Mrs. every birthday, she had arranged before leav-ing to this effect, which vindicates the "mice."

Letter Carriers' Charity Ball. The ball given Wednesday evening at Masonic Temple for the relief of Miss Webbeke was not as much of a success as it should have been. In fact, we regret to say, the big-hearted letter cariers who arranged and worked for the entertainment, had not sold enough tickets to pay expenses, and consequently were obliged to go into their pockets to foot the deficiency. The reason perhaps is there has been too many enterents for the benefit of this fund.

Charity Concert Tonight. The Funke will be open tonight and a grand program is the attraction, and as it is in the grand cause of charity, certainly the house should be crowded. The features for consideration of the auditors' pleasure are many and excellent. Mesdames Wet b r and Baker will sing, the Knights of Pythias band will render concert selections, and other strong attractions will be seen and heard. The concert is given for the benefit of the school teacher heroine, Royce and Webbeke, and the entire net proceeds will be given to the fund that has already been raised. Go tonight and do your share toward sweet charity.

St. Valentine Dance.

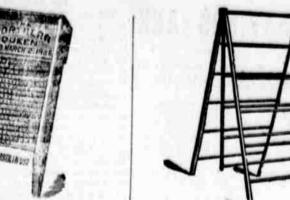

A dance given at Masonic Temple Tuesday vening by Mr. S. A. Warner to about fifty persons was a very pleasant affair. Programs were printed on the backs of card valeutines. the music was as usual good, and furnished by the Philharmonic. Every one had a good time, and the affair was a success generally

The exhibition of finger billiards at the Casino Tuesday evening attracted a large audience to see Mr. Haskell perform his ar-tistic manipulations of the ivories. He is very clever at the work, and the evening proved one of rare interest to the lovers of billiards.
