If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar medicine, possessing, by virtue of its peculiar combination, proportion, and preparation, curative power superior to any other article. A Boston lady who knew what she wanted, and whose example is worthy imitation, tells her experience below:

To Get

"In one store where I went to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla the clerk tried to induce me to buy their own instead of Hood's; he told me their would last longer; that I might take it on ten days' trial; that if I did not like it I need not pay anything, etc. But he could not prevail on me to change. I told him I knew what Hood's Sarsaparilla was. I had taken it, was satisfied with it, and did not want any other."

Hood's

When I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was feeling real miserable, suffering a great deal with dyspepsia, and so weak that at times I could hardly stand. I looked, and had for some time, like a person in consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me so much good that I wonder at myself sometimes, and my friends frequently speak of it. Mrs. ELLA A. GOFF, 61 Terrace Street, Boston.

OUR esteemed contemporary, the Call, is putting on metropolitan frills. It now makes use of the circulation affidavit.

OMAHA's proud boast that none of her banks ever failed is no longer true. The State National bank of that city has been forced to go into liquidation.

THE debate between Nye and Morrissey has reached such a degree of intensity that the business manager has been compelled to buy a new cob pipe for separate use.

ONE of the Omaha club's fiddlers is suffering from a severe cold, and rancorous Des Moines newspapers are sarcastically inquiring how he manages to catch it.

AFTER witnessing a recent ball game in the metropolis, the editor of the COURIER is constrained to believe that the Omaha boys are anarchists. At any rate they are bun throwers.

JUDGING from the position the Minneapolis base ball club occupies in the Western association, the decision of the Minnesota judge that the club could not play ball on Sunday appears eminently correct.

THE Omaha World remarks that one of the most amusing things in life is to note the frantic efforts of the average hotel waiter to look like a man. The waiter has evidently never taken a meal at the Capital hotel in this city.

THE Burlington's tactics and method of prosecution of the alleged brotherhood dynamiters are not of a character to win the approbation of the public. The discovery that all the "informers" are hired Pinkerton men makes their testimony appear of little importance in deciding the guilt of the accused in the public mind. The Pinkerton men have lent themselves to so many despicable schemes that they enjoy no one's confidence. It may be true that some of the men are guilty, there are desperate men in every organization, but no one believes the brotherhood ever sanctioned such proceedings. And right here is where the railroad officials have made the grand mistake in endeavoring, on apparently slight grounds, to connect so many prominent men of the brotherhood, with this dynamite plot. It is straining the belief of the public, and is therefore prejudicial to the company's case.

IT is too bad about poor, dear Fanny Davenport. She is having great trouble about getting a divorce from her whilom husband, Paica. Indeed, it is said that she was sure of getting the coveted decree that she made the journey from New York to San Francisco without the watchful eye of a chaperone, in the company of her leading man and prospective husband, Melbourne McDowell. It is indeed too bad to see Davenport resort to the amatory devices of Langtry.

THE matter of railway regulation is a question that has given more trouble in the west than almost any other question of economics. It is, indeed, a most complex problem, looked at in the sense of impartiality. Nebraska can hardly expect to secure the same freight rates as Pennsylvania or New York, for obvious reasons. If rates are based on an equality as regards length of haul, then the merchants throughout the state suffer no hardship. They get better prices for their goods in most instances than eastern merchants, and as labor is paid proportionately better here than in the east, laboring men are not placed at a disadvantage. But there is one class that does suffer, and that is the farmer. They pay more for necessities and get but the same price for what they produce than eastern tillers of the soil. This is manifestly unfair; but how to rectify it is where the trouble comes in. Many of the branch lines in the state do not pay expenses, and a reduction of the tariff would cause still greater loss. It is a difficult matter to get at the actual earnings of Nebraska roads. The railway officials say stockholders do not make fair interest on their investment, while anti-monopolists assert that their demands are extortionate, and the people are compelled to pay a big interest on fictitious capital. The best endeavors of man are devoted to getting as much as he can, and this applies to railroads as well. It is true enough that railroads have done much for this state, and they have also been granted many favors in the shape of valuable land grants and non-interference with their tariffs until of late years. The sentiment of the public is that they have been well paid, and that the time has come when equitable rates of transportation must be given. To further continue the present tariff will throttle our infant industries, and in the end be disastrous to the railways. If railway officials would look carefully on this phase of the question, we believe that, as business men in a business enterprise, they would not choke the life out of industrial progress merely for obtaining present gain. The aim seems to be to roll up good dividends now, with little thought for the future.

The city attorney has recommended that the claims of some five or six merchants for damages by reason of a flooding of their cellars some weeks since, be not allowed for the reason that the city is not liable. It does seem that a merchant should have some redress in a case of that kind, but the payment of one or two claims would lay the city open to the danger of fraudulent or trumped-up claims.

The Call says it is not opposed to Tom Benton for auditor because he is a young man. It is his affiliations it is kidding about. The Call should have said so in the first place, and thus kept our gorge down. There are too many worthy young men in the country to allow the imputation the Call in its first article put upon them.

ANOTHER anarchist, care has broken loose in Chicago. The men arrested are all Bohemians, and the prospects of their treading in the footsteps of Spies, Parsons, et al., seem very bright. One warning seems insufficient for the red flag advocates.

The Philadelphia Press gets off the following: The brilliant John S. Wise, of Virginia, will give Harrison and Morion an earnest and unflinching support in that state. All of which reminds us to say to William Malone: Go thou and do like Wise.

Empire and Yamhill Such are the titles of two fertile sections of Oregon, which are illustrated in the July number of The West Shore, for the benefit of the thousands who are contemplating making their homes in that region of big crops and equable climate. The number is also full of information about many other points of the northwest, as well as choice fiction, poetry, etc. The number is accompanied by a large colored supplement of the picturesque town of Roseburg, the commercial point of the fertile Umpqua valley. Each number of The West Shore contains many engravings of places and scenery in the northwest, and is a beautiful mine of information about that promising region towards which so many eyes are turned. Subscription price, $2.50 per year; single copy, 25 cts. Address: L. Samuel, Publisher, Portland, Oregon.

CHAMBERLAIN'S Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. In almost every neighborhood throughout the North West there is some person whose life has been saved by this great remedy, such persons lose no opportunity in speaking of its good qualities and what it has done for them. There are also a great many who have been cured of chronic diarrhoea by it and can not say enough in praise of it. Such persons it is who have most advertised the remedy, and brought it into general use, until it has become the main reliance for bowel complaint in all its forms, throughout the west. No one who needs such a remedy can use it without great benefit. As a safeguard many families always keep a bottle at hand for use when needed, and by doing so, save much suffering and not infrequently the life of some person suddenly attacked with cramps, colic, or cholera morbus. Physicians who have seen its good work and been told by their patients what a splendid medicine it is, have tried it, and as one of them says: "I found it as good or better than anything I could prepare" and now use and prescribe it with the best results. Unlike most other preparations in use for the same purposes it is rather pleasant to take especially when reduced with water and sweetened. Children do not object to taking it after they have once tasted of it.

It cures pain in the stomach, colic, cramps, cholera morbus, dysentery, diarrhoea, chronic diarrhoea, bloody flux, cholera infantum and cholera.

The following testimonials will give the reader an idea of what people think of the preparation after using it: You can say that the bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy left me by your agent two years ago, proved to be the best remedy I have ever used, I have no doubt but that it saved my eldest son's life.

Geo. B. BRODERS, Editor Tonganoxie, Kan. Mirror.

I was suffering with a severe attack of diarrhoea and got a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, one dose quieted and eased me and the second dose cured me entirely. I had a chance to try it in a bad case of Bloody Flux, it eased, checked and cured it. I think it a good remedy and will continue to test it as opportunity offers until the bottle is used up.

BOOKS, THREE CENTS EACH!

The following books are published in neat pamphlet form, printed from good readable type on good paper, and many of them handsomely illustrated. They are without exception the cheapest books ever published in any land or language, and furnish to the masses of the people an opportunity to secure the best literature of the day at the most trifling expense. In any other series these great works would cost many times the price at which they are here offered. Each one is complete in itself:

- Wonders of the World, NATURAL AND OTHER. Contains descriptions and illustrations of the most wonderful works of nature and of man. Very interesting and instructive.
- Wonders of the Sea. A description of the many wonderful and beautiful things found at the bottom of the ocean, with popular illustrations.
- "A Pleasant Excursion," and Other Sketches. By "JOHN ALLEN'S WIFE." A collection of irresistibly funny sketches by the most popular humorist of the day.
- The Aunt Keelah Papers, by CLARA AUGUSTA, author of "The Hoop Diamonds," a most deliciously funny book—in every way equal to "Widow Beckett."
- Christmas Stories, by CLARA AUGUSTA. Contains a number of the most charming Christmas stories ever written by the greatest writer who ever lived. Each one is complete.
- Household Hints. A book of stories, pictures, puzzles and games, for the little folks at home.
- Popular Recitations and Dialogues, humorous, dramatic and pathetic, including all the latest, best and most popular.
- Familiar Questions. Containing the origin and authorship of many phrases frequently met in reading and conversation. A valuable work of reference.
- Low Life in New York. A series of vivid pen pictures showing the dark side of life in the great city. Illustrated.
- The Road to Wealth. Not an advertising circular, but a thoroughly practical work, pointing out a way by which all may make money easily, rapidly and honestly.
- One Hundred Popular Songs, sentimental, satirical and comic, including most of the favorite songs of the day. Guaranteed or money refunded. Postage stamps taken for sections of a dollar. As to our reliability, refer to any newspaper published in New York, likewise to the Commercial Advertiser. All orders filled by mail. Address all letters: F. M. LUFKON, Publisher, No. 610 Murray Street, New York.
