"TIME!"

The best illustrated humorous newspaper. The effect of the illustrations is heightened by the use of four colors. Also printed on coated paper.

Time is Staunchly Republican

It vigorously advocates the maintenance of a protective tariff; and it speaks in no uncertain voice for Republican principles, and for doctrines of the party as set forth in the Republican platform of 1888. Such a paper, speaking directly to the eye of the voter through its simple and powerful cartoons, as well as to the mind through its editorials, will be of positive value to you during the present campaign.

This being a campaign of education, in which it is necessary to teach the voter the plain facts of the situation by every means within reach, a paper such as TIME should be found weekly in the reading room of every Republican club in the country.

Single copies, ten cents each; subscription, $3.00 per annum, $2.00 per six months, $1.00 per three months. Sample copy by request. Ask your newsdealer for TIME.

WHAT SHALL WE WEAR?

FASHIONS IN DRESS WHICH HAVE FOUND FAVOR.

A Stylish Home Dinner Gown with a Draped Bodice and High Chemisette, Illustrated and Described for the Benefit of Lady Readers.

In this issue we present an unusually pleasing model of a home dinner dress that can hardly fail to please the most fastidious.

HOME DINNER DRESS.

The draped bodice, full sleeves, fitted skirt and apron draping is of apricot colored silk canvas with trimmings of a fringe composed of opalescent, jet and chenille strands. The high chemisette, finished by a straight collar of the same, is of erigged net; the folded felt is of pongee silk. The knot of loops and ends on the side are of shot moire ribbon.

Unique Millinery.

Nuts find their way on to both hats and bonnets, intermixed not only with hops, but with nut boughs, and one charming bonnet was composed of oak leaves of the tender green which comes when the tree is in full leaf; this was accompanied here and there by the pink hells, a frequent parasite, growing on the leaf. Gaufrered tulle is being used for the entire bonnets in white and all colors, and this is one of the best foundations for bouquets of flowers. Toggles which are not easy to distinguish from stringless bonnets are being made in antique ribbon of a round shape, and somewhat high. Natural rushes and natural reeds are mingled with many bouquets, and the rushes are bent into bows which are singularly quaint and pretty on bonnets. The real directorio shape with flaring brims turning up from the face, as worn in Paris, are gradually being adopted here.

Indeed, each bonnet is so distinctly different that it is not only difficult to make a choice of a bonnet, but to describe the many varieties. A black lace had been trimmed with laburnum and green leaves, and this graceful falling flower shows to advantage in millinery. Tinsel flowers are used and much watered ribbon. The Leghorn hats are crumpled up into most extraordinary shapes, but no word painting will bring their form to the mind's eye.

The large hats are rendered more becoming by the high trimmings, which take off from their breadth. A stylish one was black, with large white watered ribbon bows. Insects still are a feature in millinery, and some of the most incongruous kinds peep out from bows and gathering of lace. Wasps are the last idea; earwigs, doubtless are too diminutive; green and red beetles are the kind most used. Lace is employed a great deal, and it keeps in form in the high upstanding erections by means of concealed wire. Chantilly is the black lace most used.

Floral Shoe for Bridesmaids.

Numbered with other floral conceits patronized by ladies in search of novelties is the bridesmaid's shoe, illustrated in the cut.

BRIDESMAID'S SHOE.

The shoe is of pale pink satin with ribbon handle to match in color. This shoe, filled with choice flowers, is designed to be carried by bridesmaids instead of a wicker work flower basket.

Styles in Corsets.

Fashionable corsets are now out to give a long slender waist with high bust; to do this there are transverse seams making a close zone about the waist line, with long darts that hold the flesh above, while the lower parts fit over the hips like a corset. However, to arrange for all figures, corsets are made in gloves, in three sizes, short, medium and long, the difference being in the length of the waist. Colored corsets are now in great favor, the light shades being used for summer, such as dove, pale rose, clean blue and sardet; black corsets are also worn, being liked by many as well as are black stockings. A new fancy combines two colors in the same corset, as a Gobelins blue satin corset with the bones covered with copper red, or a black corset striped with pistache green, or white with reseda; the beltlike piece is also made in contrasting color to that on the bust and hips.

Jeans, cutliffe, and saten are the fabrics of waning corsets that may be cleaned at home, while those of satin need a professional scourer. Summer corsets of transparent canvas as thin as lace are held to the figure by a zone of saten. For nursing mothers are corsets that have a slit down each breast that can be easily opened or can be closed by a single button. For stout figures are long corsets with elastic pieces set in the lower parts of the front, and side laces to adjust the hip pieces comfortably. Bones are crossed on the hips to hold the figure in good shape, and to the spoon shaped front steels are now added three wide side steels. Pretty stitching in colored silk is done on these steels, and embroidery in neat designs edges the top of the corsets.—Harper's Bazar.

LADIES SOCIAL SESSION.

The Lincoln Elks Entertain Their Lady Friends Wednesday Evening

One of the most agreeable social events of the year, was the social session given Wednesday evening by the members of the Lincoln lodge of Elks to their lady friends. While no elaborate preparations were made, the affair was by far the pleasantest society has indulged in for a long time. Messrs. Huffman, Reeson and Foreman, received the guests as they arrived. The parlors were brilliantly lighted with incandescent lights, and rendered the scene most beautiful, the bright colors of the ladies' toilettes contrasting with the conventional black of the gentlemen. An informal social preceded the opening of the session by Exalted Ruler F. C. Zehring at ten o'clock.

The first number on the program was a piano solo by Miss Willoughby, followed by a soprano solo, "Garden of sleep," by Madam Weber. A tenor solo, "Leaves of Snow," by Mr. H. C. Eddy was next on the program and was well received.

Mrs. W. S. Huffman gave a dialect recitation, "Uncle Pat and Marse George" and in response enthusiastic plaudits rendered as an encore, "The First Quoted." Mrs. Huffman is a delightful elocutionist, and captivated all by her masterly recitations.

Other musical numbers were a contralto solo by Madam Baker, and duos by Madam Weber and Dr. Holyoke, and Messrs. Weber and Baker, all of which received accolades.

At eleven o'clock, as is usual in all lodges of the Elks the toast to absent members was drunk standing, all joining in a verse of "Auld Lang Syne." Messrs. Foreman and Carrothers acted as policemen, and were unusually alert in bringing delinquents before the Exalted Ruler.

After the close of the musical program, refreshments of cake, ice, tea and cream and lemonade were served on small tables in the saloon. After these dainties had been duly disposed, the social session was brought to a close by all joining hands in a circle and singing first verse and chorus of "Auld Lang Syne."

The rooms were then cleared for dancing, and the happy young people enjoyed an hour or more in the enjoyment of that delightful exercise.

ANTLERS.

The Elks have the finest quarters in the city, and their sessions are most pleasant.

Lincoln lodge is but five months old, but it can give some other organizations pointers on how to entertain.

Quite a number of the ladies and gentlemen appeared in full dress. Many very pretty costumes were noticed.

George Foreman proved so efficient as a policeman that his friends think seriously of urging him for a position on the city force.

A number of Dr. Holyoke's friends were unaware of his talents as a vocalist, and the Doctor was too modest to respond to an encore.

Wednesday of each week has been set apart as ladies' day, and the wives and lady friends of the members will be given the freedom of the rooms.

Several ladies' members of the Elks did not arrive until after 11 o'clock, and no information of their whereabouts previous to that time was vouchsafed.

Mrs. Huffman was elegantly attired in a cream colored satin sleeveless costume. Messrs. Baker and Weber wore full dress costume of black with courage bequet.

Not Quite Sure of Himself.

Magistrate (to witness)—You do solemnly swear, Uncle Rastus, that the evidence that you are about to give shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth?
Witness—Yes, yo' honor, but cudder yo' swa' me on a smaller Bible! De size ob dat book, sah, makes de old man nervous, 'need it do.

Would Improve with Time.

An agent for the sale of some household article attempted to mount the steps of a house recently, but a dog came around the corner and took half a yard of cloth from the back of his coat. The man was sliding out when the owner of the house came and asked: "Did dose dog bite you?" "He didn't bite me, but he ruined my coat," was the reply. "My coat friend, excuse dose dog if he didn't bite you. He eat a young dog, now, but by and by he shall take bolt of some agents and eat der ponies ride out of dem. He bites a coat now, but he shall soon do better."—New York Commercial Advertiser.

High but Not Dense Enough.

In Providence the other day they were setting some very tall poles for the telephone wires—seventy footers. A countryman came along and asked the foreman what his men were doing. Now, the foreman of that particular gang is a mild mannered citizen and means to be patient and forbearing, but he is worried a good deal with questions and gets tired of answering them. In this particular case he told the countryman that he was building a wire fence. "Is that so?" said the farmer, looking aloft, and then added: "Well, I guess you've got it built high, but I don't believe you can make it pig tight." That foreman has been very shy of Rhode Island farmers ever since.—Boston Herald.

A Question of Nerve.

Young Tiffles (faint hearted)—Just think, angel mine, how poor I am. Why, what could I make of you?
She (bravely)—Well, you could make Mrs. Tiffles of me if you had any nerve.
