COBBLER
A Cobbler good upon the fence
Where all his him had found
His form erect—his tail outspread
And strictly was his head
The farmer goes, she wags her
And here he to the ground
And never hangs heels over
As to much cash a pound

My Dear Girls, the Observer wants to say a few things to you this evening, the evening just before the Sabbath. Come, gather 'round me and all be real quiet, for I have something of much importance to discuss with you. It is about your happiness, your future welfare, etc. Well, to begin, you know about a year ago you were all wishing for the new year, and in that coming annual year you were to undergo many changes, for better or for worse, and that you were to take advantage of "the golden opportunity offered." In fact, the dear old Journal went so far to help you out as to publish a list of susceptible batchelors. Well, dear girls, the new year came, and what good have you derived from it, and along with it came the conventional Leap Year, and of its tempting inducements you have not accepted. And so it is another new year is at hand, yet still you are among the many to continue "life in loneliness and single blessedness." My batchelor friends tell me they had hoped their lady friends would be of a more courageous nature than themselves and to be as good as their word would come forth and say, "Have me," and they would without mental reservation say "y-ess" too quick to allow the words from your lips to get cold. Time is flying, my fair friends; life is short and the world is full of many love, and just such as are dying for some one to love them. Girls, stop; think and decide before it is everlasting too late. You have yet over a month to redeem yourselves, do so.

The Observer made a flying trip to Chicago this week, leaving here Sunday evening and returning Wednesday morning on the early train. While there I accepted an invitation from Mr. Edward E. Rice, of the Rice & Dixie Co., who opened the new Baker theater Monday evening. The theater is the most elegant one, and the occasion of the opening was made a notable society event. Nearly every one was in full dress and every seat, besides standing room, was occupied. The company presented "The Pearl of Pekin," with the clever Louis Harrison in the leading role. Mr. Rice speaks well of the company's business and looks forward to their tour of the west with anticipations of great success. He informed me that the "Pearl of Pekin," which, by the way, is written by a Mr. Elymus, editor of the New York Dramatic Times, was to be put on here at Funkle's, soon. It is a Chinese piece, richly staged and magnificently costumed.

Monday evening I had the pleasure of accepting the hospitalities of Mr. Hamberger, at his very pleasant home in Chicago, and relished a toothsome dinner at his festive board. Mr. Hamberger is the gentleman who, in company with Mr. Taussig, of Chicago, recently instituted the new L. O. B. B. lodge in this city, which now flourishes. He made many friends while here by his genial manner and thorough knowledge of the work of the order, in which he seems to take great interest and is a central figure. For the kindness shown, I desire to return sincere thanks and trust I may again meet him and his very pleasant family circle.

These are lovely moonlight nights. Of course, they are not the sort that induce the lovers to hold the gate and post up until the wee, sun hours of the morn, nor are they conducive to making congenial an evening's stroll or ride. They are all right to look upon, but not healthy to indulge in to a very great extent. Two chairs by the grate and the light turned down are far more congenial—to me are turned.

Remember the opening day at Elliott's China Hall, Tuesday, November 27, 2 to 10 p. m. 1212 O street.

LINCOLN LODGE NO. 80, B. P. O. ELKS,

Entertain Omaha Brothers in a Royal Manner, Assisted by the Murray and Murphy Combination.

The appearance of the Murray and Murphy troup at the Funke Thursday evening was made the occasion of a rousing social session of a high order, tendered by the Lincoln lodge of the "Best People on Earth," the Elks, to brothers of Omaha lodge No. 33.

Many of the members of the Murray and Murphy company are old Elks, and the majority of the audience at the Funke Thursday evening was composed of Elks and their families and lady friends, who were enthusiastic and appreciative of the great performance given by Murray and Murphy and their strong company. Shortly after 10 o'clock the performance was delayed a few moments by a surprise which was in store for many and one highly complimentary to the recipients. Omaha Elks arrived in Lincoln from Omaha on a special train at 10:15, some thirty in number. They were escorted to the Funke by a committee of Lincoln lodge and were greeted by a perfect ovation, as they were seated in seats especially reserved for them at the opera house, Murray and Murphy's celebrated orchestra playing in the interval "Auld Lang Syne." Many of the best features of the performance were given after their arrival and were intensely enjoyed.

After the performance, over 300 Elks and invited friends, with the entire Murray and Murphy troupe and orchestra, assembled at the club rooms of Lincoln lodge of Elks, where one of the most enjoyable social sessions ever given by the order was enjoyed by all present to the fullest extent. Brothers W. S. Hoffman and Geo. M. Forsman, reception committee, received and welcomed the guests of the evening, among those present from Omaha being the following prominent Elks: C. E. Hulet, I. W. Miner, F. Dana, I. E. Bernard, H. P. Stoddard, H. C. Moody, J. E. Preston, F. A. Balch, E. G. McGilton, E. M. Bartlett, Dr. Barishall, El. Larkin, H. K. Burkett, W. R. Alexander, W. D. Bennett, W. B. Taylor, E. B. Southard and Jules Lambert.

The social session was opened in the usual form by Exalted Ruler Frank Zebrung, who invited Brothers Murray and Murphy and C. C. Hulitt to seats on the platform, and introduced as presiding officer of the evening, Brother I. W. Miner, of Omaha lodge. Brother Miner, in his usual happy form, started the ball rolling and kept up the roll until the hour of closing, which was so early that many present congratulated themselves upon keeping such early hours. The program of the evening included music, songs, recitations and short addresses made by brothers and guests present, although the members of the Murray and Murphy company furnished the majority of the musical selections, which were highly entertaining and repeatedly encored. Hon. John M. Thurston, who was present, was called upon and in his usual happy way added to the pleasure of the evening. He who was in his happiest vein, however, of those present was Jules Lambert, of Omaha, whose singing was pronounced by Murray and Murphy as far ahead of anything they had ever listened to from one of his age. Mr. Lambert will be remembered by many as brother of Frank Lambert, now deceased, the two brothers being of national reputation from their celebrated campaign singing in years gone by. Mirth, music, recitals and refreshments made the session pass only too soon, and it was one of the greatest socials ever given in Lincoln, the local lodge securing a great success as entertainers, and strengthening thereby the bonds of brotherhood in a way which more closely binds Lincoln and Omaha Elks together in brotherly love. The event will long be remembered by all those present, and Lincoln Elks social sessions will always be looked forward to with pleasure.

The order of the Elks is steadily and surely coming to the front as one of the best secret orders in the country. Combining as it does all the essential features of allied secret orders, brotherly love, justice, charity and fidelity, its social features are rapidly placing it in the front rank as the badge of the "Best People on Earth." Popularity winds, and the lodge of Elks is destined, and already is, one of the strongest secret orders in existence and one to which it is an honor to belong.

One fact is worth a column of rhetoric, said an American statesman. It is a fact, established by the testimony of thousands of people, that H. O. H. Sarsaparilla does cure scrofula, skin diseases, and other diseases or affections arising from impure state or low condition of the blood. It also overcomes that tired feeling, creates a good appetite, and gives strength to every part of the system. Try it.

SEEN AT THE PLAY HOUSES.

MATTERS MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC

A Review of the Past, a Ward for the Present and Prospects for Future Amusements.

ROSE COHLAN'S "JOSELYN."

Such a large and refined audience as is ever ready to greet a meritorious play and a talented actor or actress, was one that filled the Funke Wednesday evening to see Miss Rose Coghlan in her great play, entitled "Josephine." The piece is a most noble one, the scene being laid in days of Angers in 1633. Miss Coghlan assuming the title role in a thoroughly artistic manner. The climax scenes were excellent, and never before have we heard so generous an applause from an audience in this city. It was not of the usual nature, i. e., more from the gallery than from the first floor. There was no loud whistling or stamping of feet, but everybody seemed to use the proper and refined manner of doing justice and it was certainly pleasant to note the difference. At the close of each act the star was called forth, the rising of the curtain to show the scene it just closed upon was insufficient and on two occasions Miss Coghlan appeared before the curtain to acknowledge the favors of the large audience.

The support was very good, William Lackaye as Prince Savani and John Malone as Gaston Marcell rendering their dual parts in a creditable manner, while Mrs. Charles Watson as Madame de Mortagne, an adventuress, the only other lady part aside from a servant who has little to do, assumed the difficult role with all the dignity and good grace that it calls for.

The story of the piece was given in our last issue, therefore our readers are familiar with its thread. It is a strong play, presented by a very fine company, which certainly pleased every audience Wednesday evening.

MURRAY AND MURPHY.

As was expected, a large house greeted these popular Irish comedians Thursday evening, at the Funke. The piece, although seen by Lincoln on several occasions, does not seem to lose its life and charms, and were one to hear the hearty laughter and applause, frequently extended the visitors, one would suppose it was the first presentation of the piece. "Our Irish Visitors" is the same play that Murray & Murphy have heretofore appeared in. It is unchanged save in that several previous musical numbers have been replaced by later and popular airs. The orchestra which accompanies the company is a very fine one, rendering the songs much more enjoyable than if played by a lone orchestra, who have had a few moments before the play to rehearse arrangements. The selections between acts were good and, taken as a whole, we don't think any one would home regretting their call on "Our Irish Visitors."

PROPEL THEATRE.

The Stuart Combination has been playing the past week at this house, to excellent business, the audience nightly applauding to the splendid performances. Such clever plays as "Woe at Last," "After Dark" and "A Wonderful Girl," have been received with general satisfaction, all being handsomely mounted and well costumed.

THE COMPANY CLOSING ITS ENGAGEMENT TO-NIGHT.

The grand matinee at two o'clock today will be attended by a full house, composed of ladies and the little ones. A doll is to be given to the holder of the fortunate admission ticket that holds the right number.

MONTE CRISTO TONIGHT.

The bill at Funkle's tonight is that great play and America's popular drama, "The Count of Monte Cristo," and as will be presented by Ardo, Benedetti and his sterling combination, will prove to be a strong and interesting version of Dumas' wonderful story. The Sunday Herald, of January 11, 1888.

Abben Benedetti's rendition of "Monte Cristo" delighted everybody. Mr. Benedetti is unquestionably one of the coming actors of America, and it can be said of him that he is already a star in the eyes of the discerning and the discernment of the discerning. His characterization of the different characters was fine—first, from the light-hearted, love-smitten sailor, with poetic tones and good good every where, to the exiled prisoner of France, a gaunt, ragged and desperate victim of a foul conspiracy. It was after Dantes' escape from prison that the remarkable strength of Benedetti's character was shown to the best advantage. Not only was the star of the evening a good one, but every member showed themselves to be artists of no little ability.

CLAY PIPE CABS.

As long as the name of this great pipe lives in memory, so long will the pipe be seen, and it seems that the more it is seen, the greater interest is shown in it, and houses are always taxed to their utmost capacity to see this great southern pipe.

Next Thursday and Friday evenings, Kirk's Mammoth Clay Pipe Club company will occupy the boards at the People's, giving a grand matinee. Thanksgiving afternoon, especially for ladies and children. The combination has an excellent brass band and orchestra and in the piece is seen the donkeys, ponies and blood-hounds, without which Uncle Tom's Cabin would be unmarred. The company is composed of first class people and a fine presentation may be expected. Seats as usual will be on sale at 10c.

An engagement that is being looked forward to with much interest is that of Mrs. Scott Siddons, the accomplished English reader, who appears at Funkle's next Saturday evening in an interesting and varied program. Mrs. Siddons has just returned from a tour of England, where her success was flattering, as usual. Her American tour commenced only last week, Lincoln being among the first to be favored with a visit from the distinguished artist. From the dozens of press notices received from the English papers, the following is a fair sample:

"Possessing all the charming vivacity and splendid style with which she first wooed and won the public applause, she has acquired the added power which alone years of patient study of a difficult art can bestow. That Mrs. Scott Siddons has entirely mastered the intricacies of a profession in which so much is second rate, and in which so few really excel, was manifest during each item of the varied and attractive program presented throughout the entertainment. Every phase of character was represented, and every scene depicted was conceived in the most perfect taste, and sustained with the most telling consistency.—London Daily Sentinel.

LILY CLAY'S COMPANY.

A vaudeville attraction appears at the People's, Wednesday evening, in which will be seen many specialties of various kinds. It will be a great night for the ladies, and those who delight in seeing vaudeville entertainments.

THANKSGIVING ATTRACTION.

Like unto the saying, "Christmas comes but once a year," this is also true of Thanksgiving, and for this festive holiday Manager McReynolds has provided one of the very best attractions on the road to appear at the Funke. It is more less than the peerless Carleton Opera Company, who open a two night's engagement on Thursday in the ever beautiful "Nanon" with its delightful waltz, songs, catchy music, funny libretto and its chorus of pretty girls. On Friday Strauss' masterpiece "The Queen of Lace Handkerchief" will be given. Mr. Carleton has paid more than usual attention to the mounting.

of this opera, having expended upwards of ten thousand dollars on costumes alone. The dresses worn by the ladies are described as being simply gorgeous and were made from the finest quality of silks, satins, velvets and moire, and trimmed with ermine, pearls, jewels and gold, surpassing all previous efforts at costuming in the operatic line. It is the endeavor of the management to make this a brilliant social event. The house will be profusely decorated with plants, flowers, etc., and everything will be done on the stage to make the surroundings and the opera one that will long mark the celebration of Thanksgiving, 1888.

COMING.

Rosina Volos and her star company will appear at Funkle's Monday evening, December 3.

Great Hat Sale.

The famous will put on sale Monday morning one hundred and fifty dozen hats, bought from an eastern manufacturer at such a price as to enable them to sell at less than half the former price of these goods. They comprise the very finest quality of French fur felts, Paris felts and silk bound wool felts, in all colors. Ladies should not miss this opportunity to supply themselves, as such a chance is not often offered. The famous is on the corner of O and Twelfth streets, under open house.

Something New and Unique.

EL Young, the popular tobacconist and cigar dealer at No. 1212 O street, has just received an elegant new stock of pipes and other smoking articles for the holiday trade, among which may be seen some new and elegant pipe smokers sets and cigar cases of all kinds. EL has earned the reputation in his business of keeping the best line of imported and domestic cigars, and having the finest cigar trade in the city. With an eye to enterprise and to the future in his business, there is nothing new or novel, but what EL gets a margin, and his customers receive the benefit. Many of our smokers, especially those who have the time to take a day off from their business for fishing or hunting, will find it very easy to carry in their pockets a clay pipe and tobacco, and a tobacco case, which will be found to be a very convenient and useful article.

EL Young has just succeeded in getting in a line of the celebrated clay pipes, imported and known as Fantasia, "Church Wardens," on account of the many forms in which they are made up. These goods are in stock and are offered at very low prices for imported goods. Lovers of a fine pipe smoke would do well to give Mr. Young a call and inspect his large line of smokers goods. He is also agent and has constantly on hand all the latest books, periodicals and newspapers, and receives subscriptions for same. Give EL your trade, for he will treat you right. Sign of the Red Duke.

THE BEST LITTLE STORE OPEN RECENTLY OPENED.

The best little store open recently opened by Mrs. Farnham and Miss Crow, on Twelfth street, opposite the opera house block, is now pleased to state, meeting with general favor among the fair sex of Lincoln. The enterprising firm started out to supply a long felt want by opening a resort where ladies could find all kinds of fancy articles, materials for making caps, ladies' furnishings, goods, etc., and how well they have succeeded is best known by their friends. Their trade has constantly been on the increase, so that during the week they have received orders for the largest business since its opening.

IN THE SOCIAL SWIM.

A WEEK'S HAPPENINGS CHRONICLED.

Accounts of Balls, Parties, Weddings, Etc., That Have Entertained Society.

Mrs. Sheldon's Reception.

One of the most elegant entertainments ever given in Lincoln was Mrs. Sheldon's reception Thursday afternoon from three to six. The house was darkened and softly lighted by electricity, which revealed its many beauties. The floral decorations were furnished by Mr. Frey and consisted principally of palms, chrysanthemums and roses, which were simply and effectively arranged. The balconies in the court were decorated with artistic hangings and Japanese lanterns, and the perfect harmony of the whole was greatly enhanced by the delightful music of the Philharmonic orchestra, stationed in the south balcony of the third floor. Refreshments were served in the handsome dining room, which was arranged with small tables, and the guests were perfectly served by efficient waiters, each lady being presented with a tea box. Refreshing teas were served throughout the afternoon in the hall.

The guests were received in the parlor by Mrs. Sheldon and her mother, Mrs. B. E. Burr, assisted by Mrs. A. D. Burr, Mrs. C. C. Burr, Mrs. D. D. Muir, Mrs. A. G. Benson, Mrs. J. A. Backstaff and the Misses Grundy, of Mineral Point, Wis. The guests were appropriately attired in handsome street costumes, and nearly one hundred and fifty were received during the afternoon. The many exclamations of genuine admiration fully attested the appreciation of the exquisite taste displayed by Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon in the arrangement and decoration of their elegant home.

The charming ease of the hostess in receiving and entertaining her guests, added greatly to the enjoyment of all. Mrs. Sheldon wore a reception gown of black satin, relieved by facings of robin's blue moire, pearl earrings and necklace.

Mrs. B. E. Burr wore a Parisian gown of black moire and point lace.

Mrs. A. D. Burr, a costume of white cloth and golden bobble velvet.

Mrs. C. C. Burr, copper-colored velvet, court train, point lace and diamonds.

Mrs. Muir, evening dress of black velvet, powdered hair, diamond and pearl ornaments.

Mrs. Benson, white cloth, sleeveless costume, embroidered in sweet pea colors.

Mrs. Backstaff, lemon colored satin and black lace, with corsage bouquet of Jacqueminot roses.

Miss Grundy, white faille with lace draperies.

Miss Margery Grundy, pink surah and moire.

Mrs. Sheldon presented the ladies receiving with bouquets of exquisite Longeups cups and saucers.

Marriage Anniversary Celebration.

Eighteen years ago Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Brown launched their bark upon the placid sea of wedded life. They have found smooth sailing and a head wind since that day. Thursday was the twentieth anniversary of that happy event, and on the evening of that day the happy couple gave a delightful party to their old friends at their lovely residence, 222 South Tenth street. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Davis, Col. and Mrs. J. J. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Falkenberg, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. DeLavis, Mr. and Mrs. Brown, entertainers of their friends' right royal, by shedding a light and sunshine around them, and a table which was freighted with the choicest viands, substantial and delicious—and graced with a refinement of "delicacy" and beautiful decorations, gratifying to the taste, pleasing to the eye and appropriate to the occasion. Evidently they knew how to entertain.

A New Whist Club.

Le Veta Whist club organized at the residence of J. J. Davis, 222 E street, on Tuesday evening, under the most favorable auspices. Officers were elected and several games played, after which a social collation was partaken of, which did credit to the host and hostess. Following are the members of the club:

Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. E. Hallert, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Graham, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Kirken, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Laidley, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lansing, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Waugh, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Weir.

Mr. Arthur Saunders.

The marriage of Mr. Will McArthur to Miss Anna Saunders took place Wednesday evening, at the home of the bride in Mount Pleasant, Iowa, the ceremony being performed promptly at six o'clock by Dr. McFarland, president of the Iowa Wesleyan University, in presence of about sixty intimate friends and relatives, among them the groom's father and Mrs. Pittman and Miss Anna Saunders, relatives of the bride all from Lincoln, and a number of young associates of the bride and members of Mount Pleasant's club society. After receiving the well wishes of all present and enjoying an elaborate collation, the happy couple left on the nine o'clock train, via the Burlington flyer, for Chicago and the east.

The bride was attired in a lovely costume of cream satin, set train, tulle lace and flouncing, with a shaped bodice, while the groom wore the conventional evening dress suit.

The presents were numerous and many quite expensive, but our informant was unable to give a list. However, on their arrival here the couple will be greeted with numerous wedding gifts a few of them being: A very fine chamber set of antique oak from brother George, rocking chair from sister Katie, dress for two lots in Yolande addition and five hundred dollars from father and mother of the groom, antique oak center table Mrs. J. J. Imhoff, French china tea service Mrs. Putnam and many others.

Mr. and Mrs. McArthur are at present sojourning at the Leiland hotel, Chicago, where they will stop until Wednesday, when they will leave for "home sweet home" in this city. THE COURIER joins the couple large circle of friends in this city in wishing them a prosperous and happy life and that their future may realize to them all that fondest hopes have pictured.

Raymer Rector.

Wednesday evening, at the home of the bride's parents, in Washington C. H., Ohio, Mr. George A. Rector of this city, was married to Miss Mary C. Rector. Miss Rector is well known in Lincoln all throughout the state, having visited here, winning numerous friends and admirers. Mr. Raymer is one of our well-to-do young men, occupying the position of assistant chief engineer of the B. & M. The happy couple start out in life under favorable stars, backed by the well wisher hosts of friends. Mr. and Mrs. Raymer will be at home in Lincoln after their bridal tour of several days.

The Pleasant Hours' opening party.

Tuesday evening promises to be a most elegant affair.

Miss Clara Murray returns from Raymond next Monday, where she has been visiting for the past two weeks.

Mrs. Burt Parker is entertaining her sister, Mrs. O. R. Kugshorn, of Chicago, at the family residence, 1034 G street.

Mrs. Carl Van Raden left on Thursday via the U. P. railroad for an extended trip to New York and New Jersey. She will not return until spring.

The Misses Geener, of Glen avenue, were present at the Ramsey Mill wedding at Lincoln, Neb., on Wednesday.—Council Bluffs Spectator.

Frank Zebrung's congenial smile is once more noticeable in its accustomed haunts in Lincoln society, after a week's absence, during which time he was visiting in Iowa.

And now it comes to the ever-ongoing engagement of the COBBLER society news catcher that an N street belle has recently been engaged, and that love now looks forward to an early marriage.

Mr. J. O. Parish, of Denver, is a guest of his brother, Mr. J. D. Parish, and Mrs. James Wilson, of the same city, a sister of Mrs. Parish, accompanied by Mr. Wilson, are also guests under the Parish hospitable residence.

A reception will be given next Tuesday evening at the University armory to Lieut. Griffith. It will be the first gathering in that hall. All cadets will come in full uniform and the affair promises to be an elite military event.

Wednesday's Journal announced three social affairs, among them a prospective wedding, which has since taken place, all of which appeared in these columns last Saturday. And yet the dear old Journal gives the people all the news earlier than any other paper.

Will McArthur left Tuesday for Mount Pleasant, Ia., where he met and was wed to Miss Saunders. Mr. and Mrs. McArthur will be at home Wednesday at 1820 C street and it is understood that, as in its usual custom, the Pleasant Hours' club will soon tend a newly married couple a reception at Masonic temple.

The Omaha Evolutionist of last Saturday contains the following: "Miss Lippencott, of Lincoln, who has been the guest of Mrs. D. J. Collier, returned home Monday evening." Wrong, again, friend Chase. Miss Lippencott did not visit in Omaha, neither did Miss Lippencott return to Lincoln Monday. The type mislead you and it should have read Mrs. C. L. Lippencott.

Among those admitted to the bar by the district court, Thursday, we notice the names of Mrs. Mary B. Bryan, the widow of our friend Mr. W. J. Bryan of this city. On yesterday Mrs. Bryan was admitted to practice in the supreme court of the state. The Court graciously congratulates her upon having won so distinguished a honor. We are glad that she is able to share the thought of entering active practice, but to do this she must be able to share the same fully in the purposes and interests of her husband.

The following item regarding a Lincoln belle is taken from the Le Roy (N. Y.) Times: "Miss Bertha Child, of Lincoln, Nebraska, a young lady of refined tastes and scholarly attainments, has been the guest of Mrs. Charles Mott, a well-known cultural socialist and story writer, but we set of enjoyed her bravely in seeking the solitude of a country graveyard in the night time to employ her powers in quiet meditation. The spiritualistic exposures by Dr. Richmond and the Fox sisters have inspired in our courage than the dashed thinker ever dreamed of."

Did you hear about that great blizzed we are to have next Tuesday? It's a hummer and comes from the wilds of Dakota. Louis Meyer & Co. speak of this as COBBLER readers simply as a warning as far as the same time would suggest that you prepare for the reception of the cold king by purchasing your supply of flannels and heavy blankets now. Meyer's line of blankets and comfortable are hard to equal. Prices, as is always the case there, are right and goods always guaranteed as represented.

Mr. Cyrus P. Flick, of Washington, D. C., who recently located here, has opened an office in the Briggs block, on Twelfth street. The gentleman is a graduate of the law department of Georgetown university, Washington, D. C., and one of a family of five brothers, four of whom are attorneys. THE COURIER welcomes Mr. Flick to our midst, knowing he will prove a valuable addition to the Lincoln bar.
