IN THE SOCIAL SWIM.
 A WEEK'S HAPPENINGS CHRONICLED.
 Accounts of Balls, Parties, Weddings Etc., That Have Entertained Society.

A Pleasant Party.
 Miss Laura Ryons home 212 south Seventeenth street was the scene of a delightful evening party on Monday. A large number of the young ladies friends had gathered there to help Miss Laura celebrate her seventeenth birthday and that they did so in a way truly befitting the occasion was attested by the merry crowd of young people who attended.

The evening passed quickly in enjoyable games, at intervals music was interspersed until at last a halt was called and after partaking of delicious refreshments the young folks left for their homes wishing the charming hostess a long list of just such anniversaries.

A Senator to be Married.
 Announcement has been made at Lincoln of the engagement of Senator F. Taggart, of that city. The lady is a sister of Mrs. W. B. Wolcott and Mrs. T. W. Crissey, and came to Lincoln from Massachusetts last fall. Mr. Taggart and Miss Williams have become acquainted since the legislature convened. It is the first romance of the legislature.—Nebraska City News. This announcement is all right except the residence of Mr. Taggart, who hails from Hastings and the COURIER although aware of the fact did not want to make it known until permission had been obtained from the parties interested. The date of the ceremony has been fixed for Tuesday April 16th and the cards will be out in a few days.

The Geographical Tea.
 The ladies of the St. Paul M. E. church held another successful entertainment Wednesday evening in the church parlors. This time the proceeds went toward the carpet fund which was increased somewhat on account of this delightful social. Each gentleman who wished to participate in the festivities was obliged to buy a badge bearing the name of a state or territory, and ribbons with the names of the capital cities were distributed among the ladies, then when the grand march was called for supper there was some lively hustling to get the right couple together. The column then filed into the basement where an elegant repast awaited them after which all present spent the rest of the evening in a delightful social. It was a grand success and the ladies of the church deserve much credit for the introduction of the novelty.

The Pastor's Welcome Home.
 A delightful reception was tendered Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Halston, in the church parlors by the congregation of the Plymouth Congregational church on Tuesday evening. Over 300 of the churches members were in attendance and gave the pastor and his bride a right royal welcome home. An enjoyable time socially was had by all present and before dispersing a lunch was indulged in to the entire gratification of all. It is needless to state that Mrs. Halston nee Kate Fobon of this city renewed her many acquaintances and formed new ones. The affair was a grand success and shows in what high esteem the people hold their pastor and his charming wife.

The Way They Keep House.
 Yesterday afternoon and evening, and continuing this afternoon and evening, the ladies of the First Baptist church gave a panorama, as it were, of the way housekeeping should be done and there can be nothing that will take as little of your time and afford you as much enjoyment as dropping in on them to see their entertainment. It is a unique and enjoyable exhibition to say the least and then you know there is the supper, that will amply repay you for calling.

The Band Boy's Dance.
 Temple hall last evening was occupied by the Military band and their lady friends with many others who were not members of the band as it was the occasion of their first annual hop, but there was not the number present there should have been by any means and everyone knows that they deserved as large a crowd as the hall would hold. Those who were fortunate enough to be present however were amply paid for coming out as a neatly arranged program of twenty numbers occupied the time until the intermission, when supper was announced at Brown's restaurant. Sam Warner was master of ceremonies and the dance was successful in all ways except the number that should have turned out.

The B. & M. Engineers and Firemen.
 The crowd in attendance at Temple hall, Tuesday evening all speak of the royal way in which the engineers and firemen of the B. & M. railroad entertained them and their friends. About eighty couple were in attendance and danced through the long program of twenty-two dances, only stopping long enough to repair to the famous hospitality of caterer Odell where an elegant spread was in readiness for them. The tables were decorated with cut flowers and potted plants and the good things to eat in way of refreshments were too numerous to mention. The Philharmonic orchestra furnished the music and the hall was decorated in the finest style. Huge headlights, colored lanterns and flags, bunting and evergreen hung around the hall in profusion while a large floral bell suspended from the ceiling was one of the most attractive features of the decorations.
 It was well on toward morning when the merry dancers took their way homeward and the occasion was one that will long be remembered by each one present.

Another Grand Opening.
 Wednesday afternoon and evening the new dry goods house of Mr. A. Block 1325 O street had their opening. It commenced at two o'clock and such a jam! When the doors were opened the crowd on the sidewalk was so dense that it was impossible for the traveling public to pass on their way along the sidewalk and it seemed as though no one cared to go any farther. It was not long until the whole store was filled and it became necessary to close the doors for a while until the mass of humanity could be got into line and started on their way out. No wonder they wanted to tarry for the house has an exhibition as fine a line of dry goods as has ever come to Lincoln and their elegant stock tastefully arranged in their beautiful store was the attraction that held the large crowd.

One of the most prominent features of the opening, however, was the distribution of tickets entitling the holder to a chance on a silk dress pattern, this of course drew many as did the handsome souvenirs that were given each one. The orchestra stationed in the rear of the room kept the crowd in good spirits by a delightful concert and to sum the whole thing up, Mr. Block has made a lasting impression on the ladies of Lincoln and can very reasonably expect a large share of their patronage.

Fancy Names for Railroads.
 It may be a good advertising scheme to decorate the alleged fast trains of the modern times with appellations such as "Eli," "Geo-Whiz," and "Cannon Ball," to catch the eye of the traveller who does not know "tother from which," but the business man and constant traveller is not to be caught by craft of that kind.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway runs its own fast trains, with vestibuled sleeping and dining cars, from Omaha and Council Bluffs to Chicago, connecting there with the fast trains, morning and afternoon, to all Eastern cities.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, in connection with the Union Pacific Railway, also runs through cars between Denver and Chicago, and this is the favorite route from Colorado and Nebraska to all principal points east of the Missouri river. This line uses no fancy names to designate its trains, but "it gets there just the same."

Two Good Stories.
 Congressman John Allen, of Mississippi, says that the mendicants of Washington amuse him very much, and that, while they do not often "get away with him," one did prove too much for him the other day. "I was sauntering down Pennsylvania avenue," said the humorous Allen—"I always love to saunter when the weather will permit—and I was tackled by four beggars before I had walked eight blocks. The first one addressed me as 'captain.' But he didn't respect me. The next one, who looked awfully troubled, and who swore he hadn't had a mouthful to eat all day, addressed me as 'major.' But that wouldn't work. Then a fellow touched me on the arm and called me 'judge,' but he, too, failed completely to reach my pocketbook. Finally, just as I was wondering whether I should go into the senate chamber and find out who were getting the big plums under this administration, a seedy looking fellow stepped right in front of me and said: "'Senator, I won't detain you but a moment. I am in hard luck.'
 "And before I knew it that little piece of fattery had yanked a quarter of a dollar out of my pocket."
 "This episode," continued the Mississippian, "reminds me of a little colloquy between the famous Bishop Puk of Tennessee, after having taken his seat at a table in a Washington hotel, and the waiter who was ever on the alert for tips, and who knew he had a distinguished man to serve.
 "'What kin I do for you, cap'n?' he inquired.
 "'I am not a captain,' said the bishop.
 "'Well, is you a majah, sah?'
 "'No; I am not a major.'
 "'You mus' be a gen'ral, den?'
 "'No; I am not a general.'
 "'You doesn't look like a judge, boss.'
 "'I am not a judge, either.'
 "'Well, fo' de lawd, boss, what is you any way?'
 "'I am a bishop.'
 "'I know'd you was on de top of the pile, somewhere, fo' suah.'"—Washington Cor. New York Tribune.

Nothing Loose There.
 At a side track and water tank between Greensboro and Salisbury, the hour being about 9 o'clock at night, a man boarded the train and took a seat directly ahead of me. When the train started the conductor came for his fare, and as he had no ticket the official asked:
 "Why didn't you get a ticket at Blankville?"
 "Hada'n time."
 "Why didn't you get on there?"
 "Hada'n time."
 "How far are you going?"
 "As far as this fifty cents will take me."
 "You ain't loose in the box, are you?"
 "No; if the court knows herself! The people of Blankville rode me on a rail and gave me ten minutes in which to leave the town. I got out in five. That shows a level head, doesn't it? I want fifty cents' worth of more distance as fast as I can get it."—Detroit Free Press.

An Apt Meal.
