Each visitor is entitled to one vote on his admission ticket. Additional votes can be bought of the mothers at five cents each. The ladies get a liberal share of the proceeds in addition to the prizes. Several of the exhibitors, as will be seen by the list, are patronized by business firms and have been provided with booths that have been made pretty with lace and draperies. Whatever the result of the contest may be the COURIER will insist that it has been represented by the brightest, the handsomest and the most interesting mother, and as for the baby—well, she is a lovable bud of promise that any mother might adore. Mrs. Allen has charming manners and is the picture of health, with rosy cheeks that may well be the envy of all Lincoln women; she was married about three years ago, before she was fifteen, and has two bright little jewels to fill the cup of her heart and home. When asked if her attendance at the Musee did not put her behind in her household, she modestly said she had done her washing and ironing for the week, besides making a dress for baby while at the Musee—and it was only Wednesday then. This little confidence was imparted to an interested lady, and it is unnecessary to say that the COURIER uses the information without Mrs. Allen's knowledge. The COURIER is proud of its representative and it believes its readers will admit that Mrs. Allen is as smart and interesting a little woman as there is in Lincoln.

An Elegant Affair. About sixty ladies were delightfully entertained yesterday by Mrs. George H. Clark at an afternoon reception and luncheon. Little Alva Clark, dressed in white swiss, acted as page at the door, and Mrs. Clark was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Covert, Mrs. Patrick, Mrs. Kirker and Mrs. Bewick. The eye was relieved with a touch of green through the medium of sprays of smilax about the rooms, and a bouquet lay at each plate. The luncheon was an array of tempting delicacies. Mrs. Clark is credited with having introduced, as an incident to her reception, a novelty for Lincoln. Each lady brought a lemon, which figured in a unique prize competition. Each was marked with the name of the lady, and after having been put under knife and separator the seeds were counted. Mrs. Mass Gregg was awarded the royal prize, a fancy bon bon dish, for having the lemon with the most seeds, thirty-six. Mrs. Noble received the booby prize, a lemon squeezer, for having a lemon with no seeds. The ladies then had a guessing bee as to the total number of seeds. Mrs. Shelton came nearest the number and was awarded a pretty flower dish. There were 697 seeds and her guess was 700. Mrs. Scott and Mrs. Burton executed all the processes judicial in this novel contest, and Mrs. Goodin entertained the company at the organ. The reception was from three to six, and the favored guests were charmingly entertained throughout. The ladies complimented their hostess with a beautiful display of elaborate toilets, and the profusion of flowers worn was particularly noticeable. Mrs. Clark was handsomely attired in a pink and green striped French chally on a cream ground and trimmed with serpent-grained velvet and pink and green ribbons; diamonds and flowers for ornaments. Mrs. Covert, black silk and henrietta, diamonds and flowers. Mrs. Patrick, cream silk and lace, diamonds and flowers. Mrs. Kirker, black silk and lace, diamonds and flowers. The guests were: Mesdames Wolcott, Williams, Crissey, Shelton, Benson, Kirker, Maul, Howell, Foyria, Hayden, Moore, Nesbitt, Bewick, Lecky, Ewing, T. E. Ewing, Yield, Millsaugh, Boehmer, Stull, Noble, Traver, Foster, Leach, Burton, Patrick, Garten, Lowe, Appleget, Dawes, Holm, Coleman, Skinsae, Wier, Ferrysan, Hudson, Sitzer, Bailey, Dr. Bailey, J. M. Raymond, P. V. M. Raymond, A. S. Raymond, Alva Kennard, C. C. Burr, L. C. Burr, George Brown, Charles I. Jones, Wm. A. Preston, Morris Turner, M. Scott, F. A. Newton, B. Parker, Rev. Curtis, Rev. Williams, Mason Gregg, Frank Gregg, F. A. Brown, Chas. Brown.

W. S. Huffmas and R. B. Graham, Misses Goodin and Stoddard, Mrs. Covert of Crete, Mrs. Senator Targart of Hastings, Mrs. Wolbach of Beatrice, Mrs. Streeter of Valparaiso, Mrs. Field of Salem, Mass., Miss Abbie Covert of Crete, and Miss Bessie Sablin of Beatrice.

Minor Mention. Vote for the COURIER's baby, No. 3. The Union club had its monthly reception Wednesday evening. The spring trotting races will come off June 19 and 20. Purses, $1,300.

The Wesleyan university commencement has been postponed a week. Miss Clara Carmody entertained a small company at cards Monday evening.

Mrs. Franklin's scholars had a picnic Tuesday afternoon on the capitol grounds. Miss Minnie Cochran will give a musical next Thursday evening at the University chapel. All are cordially invited.

The Relief and Aid society festival Wednesday realized about $150. The contribution box for the Johnstown sufferers caught $16.50. Mr. Edgar A. Rogers and Miss Cora M., daughter of Mr. Erskine, will be married next Wednesday. It will be a morning wedding.

The senior Pleasant Hours will picnic at Cushman park next Thursday. They will drive out late in the afternoon and close with a hop. Rev. F. S. Sten, the new pastor of St. Paul's, will make his home in Dr. Simmon's G street house, which may become the permanent Methodist parsonage.

Prof. Hagenow and Mrs. Emma Rhodes were married Wednesday evening at the formers' home, Twentieth and M streets. Judge Stewart tied the nuptial knot.

The first annual brigade encampment of Uniformed Rank of the Knights of Pythias of Nebraska will be held at Columbus July 1-8. Prizes aggregating $1000 are offered.

The junior Pleasant Hour club has a trip to Cushman park planned for this afternoon. The program calls for a basket picnic at four o'clock and an informal hop in the evening at the music hall.

It is not too late to begin that intensely interesting story of New York life, "Taken by Siege." The opening chapters were published in last week's COURIER, and copies may be had at the office.

Madam Weber has been engaged as the soprano artist for the Columbus Saengerfest concert. The ballitone will be Herr Conrad Schmidt, who has figured prominently in New York musical circles.

Ellsworth McCullough and his bride, who were married in Chicago Thursday evening, will be at home in Lincoln after July 1st. The bridegroom is with Cadman & Co., and his friends will have a hearty welcome for him.

Students at the State University wishing copies of next week's COURIER with an account of commencement exercises written by a fellow student can have them mailed postage free to any address by leaving their orders at this office.

M. L. Roeder and A. L. Roeder, composing the firm of M. L. Roeder & Bro., general western agents National Life Insurance company of Vermont, were in the city the early part of the week and opened their South Platte headquarters in rooms 108 and 109 Burr block.

The COURIER has received a copy of the directory of Quebec recently published by Mr. A. B. Charrier, who is now in Lincoln. It is a handsome work and its mixture of French and English strikes us as very odd. After each name is the occupation in both languages, thus fitting the work for the convenience of both peoples.

F. W. Kruse has been appointed receiver of the Hart Hardware Co., and it has resumed operations. Mr. Kruse is an old and experienced hardware man. He is one of the best known buyers in eastern markets. He is said to be a capable manager, and under his direction the business ought to be carried to a successful conclusion. The Hart Hardware Co. had established a fine trade, and there is now good reason to believe that it will continue, though the name may be changed. There is a big territory tributary to Lincoln, and the company has a magnificent prospect. Lincolinites will be glad to know that the business has been taken out of the influence of personal dissension, and that the house will be a permanent and, as reorganized, a solid institution. Mr. A. L. Havens, the genial secretary, occupies his accustomed place in charge of the counting room.

People who marry need not think they are the only persons confronted with the difficult task of making a selection. The friends who wish to give substantial and lasting evidence of their esteem find it no easy task to make a suitable selection of wedding presents. If they want the assistance of a competent judge they ought to go to Hallett, the jeweler, who has a large line of elegant articles just the thing for such gifts.
