Con Vigora.

1. See where our ban-ner, so proud and so fair, Flut-ers in beau-ty on Free-dom's pure air;
 2. Bring up our chil-dren, im-press on their sight, Our stripes and stars like a Her-ald of light;
 3. Hail to the ban-ner that Wash-ing-ton bore, Mid snow and ice on old Del-a-ware's shore;

Ri-val in col-ors that Nat-ure doth wear, No flag in splen-dor with ours can com-pare.
 Let them re-mem-ber in Free-dom's dark night, This is the flag un-der which all must fight
 Long may it flut-ter for a ges and more, Pride of our he-roes and pa-triots of yore.

CHORUS.

Hail to our ban-ner, a - near and a far, Ev - er we'll cherish each stripe and each star;
 Here on the al - tar we swear to be true, Loy - al for ev - er to the Red, White and Blue;
 Here on the al - tar we swear to be true, Loy - al for ev - er to the Red, White and Blue.

Six Days Shall Thou Labor.
 That's what Semmons is doing, but he and his clerks rest on the seventh. It is asserted that his is the only clothing house in Lincoln that is closed on Sunday. Semmons has set the pace in a great many ways, but no method of his is more worthy adoption than this. If all clothing stores would close on Sunday people would soon learn to buy on Saturday. The proprietors as well as their clerks ought to have one day's rest in the week. Their hours are long enough during six days. They will be happier, live longer and make about as much money if they will all shut up on Sunday.

A Lucky Young Hallettsville Texan.
 It is often said that luck falls to the unworthy, but interviewing Otto Von Rosenberg of Hallettsville, the happy possessor of one-twentieth part of ticket No. 32,974 in the April drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery drawing $300,000, we find it has fallen in the right place. He is an industrious young merchant who has been here but a short time. The $15,000 received by him will be partly used in his business. Mr. Rosenberg sent his ticket for collection to Ball, Utchins & Co., and it was paid upon presentation without any discount.—Hallettsville (Tex.) New Era, May 15.

Everybody can afford to eat at the leading resort in the city now. The price of 21 tickets now at Odell's is only $4—reduced from $4.50.

Not an Old Master.
 Visitor to butler who is showing him through the picture gallery of the old mansion.—That's a fine portrait. Is it an old master?
 Butler—No. That's the old missus.—Boston Courier.

A Valuable Voice.
 Mrs. Voix—My husband has a magnificent voice, and it supports our whole family.
 Mrs. Caller—A tenor singer, I presume.
 Mrs. Voix—No, he calls out carriage numbers at an uptown theatre.—New York Sun

His Best.
 An old farmer in one of the New England states had a son whose actions sometimes indicated a lack of common sense; but, with natural parental love and consideration, the old gentleman excused all his shortcomings by saying: "He does the best he can, Jimmy does," which was perhaps true.
 When Jimmy was 23 or 24 years of age he went to work for a farmer living in a neighboring county.
 Three months after his departure he surprised his parents by writing to them that he had been married and would visit them the following week.
 Preparations for receiving the young couple in a manner befitting a bride and bridegroom were at once begun, and when they arrived they found all the groom's relatives gathered to receive them.

The bride was a dull looking and by no means handsome young woman, and for a moment the father-in-law seemed disappointed; then, his better nature asserting itself, he greeted her warmly, and turning to his son said, with his old time optimistic cheerfulness: "Welcome home, Jimmy; welcome, my boy; ye did the best ye could, I've no doubt; welcome, my daughter."—Youth's Companion.

A Woman Architect.
 Philadelphia has an architect in Mrs. Minerva Parker, who demonstrates that women may fit themselves for that profession. She has familiarized herself not only with her profession, but with every detail of the building trade; she can judge of the material which is to go into the house and the way in which the work is carried out as well as any master builder in the country. She says that one of the most important parts of an architect's knowledge consists in knowing how to direct the mechanics, and this she herself does with great skill. Buffalo also has a woman architect, who is her husband's partner and one of the vice presidents of the Western Association of Architects, and she is the only woman member of the American Institute of Architecture, which has been in existence over thirty years. She was one of the designers of the new model schoolhouse which the city of Buffalo has been building, and these have been so much admired that the plans are to be sent to the Paris exposition as part of the educational exhibit. She has made this her life work, and as her husband seems eminently satisfied, it is to be inferred that her work as an architect does not interfere with her duties as a wife.—New York Telegram.

Result of His Endeavor to Save Two Hours a Day by System.
 My little nephew ran across somewhere, a paragraph which said that anybody could save at least two hours of waste time a day by running on a time table. Freddy brought the chapter to me and asked what it meant. I told him. I advised him to make out a time table for himself and try running on it for a few days. He said he guessed he would. In a day or two he submitted the following to me:

A. M.
 6:45 to 7—Gettin' up.
 7 to 7:30—Bath and gettin' red-dy for breakfast.
 7:30 to 8—Breakfast.
 8 to 8:20—Praisin'.
 8:20 to 8:30—Hard study.
 8:30—Start for school.
 9—Got there a feller must have some fun in life.
 9 to 10:30—Study and resite.
 10:30 to 10:45—Reses (out to be longer).
 10:45 to 12—Study and resite.
P. M.
 12 to 12:15—Goin' fer lunch.
 12:15 to 12:30—Eatin' it.
 12:30 to 1—Sloos of things. Playin' ball mostly.
 1 to 3—Skool agen. Tuffest part of the day.
 3—Skool over. Fun begins.
 3 to 6—Baseball. Biskle ridin'. Goin' to walk sometimes with a girl. Slidin' and skatin' in winter. Flyin' kite. Botherin' the dog. Peanuts. Goin' to ride with pa. Shoppin' with ma (wen I don't kno it beforehand). Kandy. In bad weather readin' Sloos of other things.
 6 to 7—Dinner (grate time fer me).
 7 to 7:30—Nothin' much. Don't feel like it.
 7:30 to 8—Pa gets dun with paper, an' reads sunthin' aloud.

 9:35 to 9:45—Undressin' and gettin' into bed.
 9:45 'til mornin'—Grate big times with dreams, but a feller can't stop to enjoy them much. Wonder why dreams can't hang on more like reel things?

"Benny Havens, Oh!"
 (West Point's latest addition to her historic song.)
 The summer wind sighs softly through Atlanta's lovely vale,
 A fragrant hymn of requiem,
 McPherson to bewail;
 O'er Thomas on Mount Ida's slope
 Sweet roses incense throw;
 Deep in our hearts are both enshrined
 With Benny Havens, oh!

Pour forth a full libation now
 To Farragut the brave,
 The idol of the navy and
 The ruler of the wave.
 He's gone aloft, lashed in his shroud,
 Where soon we all must go;
 He's waiting there to welcome us,
 With Benny Havens, oh!

At Burnside's pier we drop a tear
 For soldiers sunk to rest;
 A nightly soul has reached its goal,
 North Hooker's honored crest,
 In martial lays we'll sing the praise
 Of trusty fighting Joe,
 Until the day we serve for aye
 With Benny Havens, oh!

For our noble old commanders
 We crush a cup of wine
 To sprinkle on the laurels bright
 That round their deeds entwined;
 To McClellan, Burnside, Hooker,
 Let bumpers overflow,
 May they live long to sing the song
 Of Benny Havens, oh!

A Veteran's Little Joke.
 Our regiment (Twenty-fifth Indiana) having re-enlisted after enjoying their veteran furlough at home, were ordered to Decatur, Ala., where they were joined by the detachment of boys who did not re-enlist, and who are distinguished from the veterans by the name of "rounders." Soon after one of the men was brought before the colonel for some misdemeanor. The colonel, who, by the way, is noted for his ready means of disposing of such offenders, asked him if he was a rounder. The offender answered in the negative. "Then," said the colonel, "I will make you one. Just walk round that stump about two hours."—Told at a camp fire by an unknown.

Grand Army Emblems.
 Comrades known in marches many,
 Comrades tried in dangers many,
 Comrades bound by memories many,
 Brothers ever let us be!
 Wounds or sickness may divide us,
 Marching orders may divide us,
 But whatever fate befalls us,
 Brothers of the heart are we.

Comrades known by faith the closest,
 Tried when death
 was near and near
 out,
 Bound we are by ties
 the dearest,
 Brothers ever
 more to be,
 And if spared, and
 growing older,
 Shoulder still in line
 with shoulder,
 And with hearts no
 thrill the colder.
 Brothers ever we shall be.

By communion of the banner,
 Battle scarred but victor banner,
 By the baptism of the banner,
 Brothers of one church are we!
 Creed nor faction can divide us,
 Race nor language can divide us,
 Still, whatever fate befalls us,
 Children of the flag are we!
 —Miles O'Reilly

All Nighters.
 A young man employed in a local railroad office had occasion the other day to call upon a friend of his who is connected with one of the morning papers. He called at 10 a. m., and after waiting around for a time he asked in the counting room when his friend, the scribe, was likely to appear upon the scene. He was informed that he would not be around before 1 o'clock, as he never showed up until about that hour. Well, the railroad man called then, found his friend up in the local room and told him what he had to say. Then he said: "You fellows must have a dead easy time. I wish I didn't have to get down to the office until 1 in the afternoon." The newspaper man replied that it was not as soft as it appeared on the surface. "That's all right, but we are up almost all night," he said, hoping to disconcert his friend, but the railroad man said: "I know that, I'm up most all night myself, but I must be down at 8 just the same."—Chicago Herald.

What Then?
 I had been reading to him—he was a sunny haired little 4-year-old—the story in "Arthur's Child's History of England" of Prince William's drowning. "And when the news reached the king that his only son was lost at sea, it is said, he covered his face and wept; and no one ever saw him smile again." "But are you sure he never smiled again?" "Quite sure; at least, the history says so." After a moment's deep thought: "You are really sure, Cousin Florrie?" "Yes." "Well, then, what did he do when they tickled him?"—Pittsburg Press.
