If the true merits of Dr. Cady's Condition Powders, were fully known by horse owners, they would prefer them to all other remedies for putting their horses in a fine, healthy condition. They cure constipation, loss of appetite, disordered kidneys, impure blood, and all diseases requiring a good tonic, stimulant and alterative. Sold by A. L. Shadrer, Druggist.

Mr. F. J. Smith, editor of the Ft. Abercrombie, Dakota, Herald, says: "The most wonderful medicine I have ever met with is Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. In case of colic it gives speedy relief. On hunting trips I have found it indispensable. Put in alkali water, it imparts a pleasant taste and prevents the painful diarrhoea which alkali water produces. I could not feel safe without it in my house." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by O. The state library is being moved into its new quarters, which will nevermore echo with the gay revelry of Tom, Dick and Harry. The library has about 30,000 volumes.

The announcement was made Wednesday that E. C. Parkinson, sergeant-at-arms in the State Senate last winter, had been appointed a special examiner in the pension office at $1,400 a year.

The new state banking board has had a great many questions fired at it by the banks. One of its rulings is that where an individual is doing a banking business all his property is liable for the debts of the bank.

WHILE in the city the other day Senator Church Howe assured interested parties that the Missouri Pacific will establish a new station for the convenience of the villages growing up about Wesleyan and Christian universities.

It is reliably reported that Senator Shannon is soon to follow the example of Senators Taggart and Polk and get married. That will leave Senator Cornell the only bachelor of the Senate, and he admits that his case is hopeless, notwithstanding his visits to Lincoln.

The surprising news comes from Omaha that G. M. Hitchcock of the World has bought the Herald and will issue a morning and an evening edition after the manner of the Bee. The paper will be independent with Democratic leanings. Mr. Hitchcock is rich and ambitious to make a name for himself in journalism.

It is reported that ex-Senator Van Wyck has bought a high priced lot in Washington and will build a house on it. It is inferred that he has taken up his residence in the capital city for good and will no longer pose as a Nebraska granger and anti-monopolist. It is known that Mrs. Van Wyck has been ambitious to shine in Washington society, and her wishes are likely to have had considerable weight in making the change.

THE Lincoln Packing & Provision company is receiving more hogs than it can use at present. The company is under contract to put its other packing house into operation not later than November. It will then give employment to about five hundred people, enough to make quite a town of West Lincoln. There are many good reasons for the expectation that Lincoln will become an important center for the packing of meats.

THE politicians are busy trying to figure out who will be the next Governor. Secretary of State Laws is mentioned as one of the strongest candidates. It is supposed Congressman Dorsey of Fremont would like the nomination, but it is argued that he cannot enter the race without injuring his brother-in-law, Auditor Benton, who is a candidate for re-nomination. It is supposed that Gov. Thayer will ask for a third term, but he has made a mild disclaimer.

WHEN the legislature cut down the appropriation for the national guard it forgot to change the law providing for an annual encampment and requiring a monthly drill during certain months each year. The guards are allowed by law one dollar for each man taking part in those exercises. They have been writing Adjutant General Cole for instructions, and he has advised them to go ahead with their drills and obey the law. He holds that the state will be in honor bound to pay the debt thus incurred. The department has money enough to pay for one encampment, but that of next year is likely to be abandoned.

THE new banking law allows a bank to have one-third of its capital in real estate, but Attorney General Leese gives that provision this interpretation: "The law contemplates banking with money or commercial paper, and not with real estate, but as it is necessary to have a bank building to do business in, and the lot or lots on which it stands, this exception was made, and one-third of the capital of the bank was allowed for this purpose, and where the corporation, firm or individual does not own the building and lot or lots on which it stands, then their capital must be in money or commercial paper and cannot be represented by having one-third in other real estate."

THE PRESENT FASHION.

THE MEN RECEIVE A FEW WORDS FROM OLIVE HARPER.

She kindly tells them how they may dress so as to keep cool during the hot weather—the needs of the day for women.

[Special Correspondence.]
NEW YORK, July 11.—I have some doubts as to whether men are really entitled to the first place in a fashion letter, but, as the lawyers say, "let us give them the benefit of the doubt," and, besides, I will get through with them sooner, and so give the fashion column to its legitimate owners—the women. I do admit, however, that men may have some feelings, as do fish, and their prevailing sentiment just now is one of such intense suffering from the effects of the heat that I feel it a duty to show them how to keep cool and yet not transgress any of the rules of strict propriety. There are thousands of gentlemen who would rather hide themselves forever in a damp, dark cellar than to appear before the ladies of their families or acquaintances in their shirt sleeves, and they go on suffering and sweltering in those instruments of torture, starched shirts and stiff collars, from a sentiment which does them honor, but in these days fashion absolutely admits of common sense and comfort in dress, and there is no reason now why a man may not make himself comfortable in one of the handsome surah or fine woolen shirts, which are cool, comfortable and quite dressy enough for all day wear, whether in the counting house or in the country.

NEEDS OF THE DAY FOR MEN.

Heretofore, while a gentleman might wear one of these comfortable shirts in the country or at the seaside, he felt himself obliged by the stern law of fitness of things to suffer in a starched shirt at his business, or at home, and it has always called up a tear of sympathy to see a fat man, or even a thin one, with his handkerchief tucked under his chin around his collar. This no longer needs to be so, for there are very pretty shirts made of white and pale colored surah, shirts daintily stitched and buttoned or laced in front, with well fitting turndown collars, and altogether finished in the neatest manner, and these are now being adopted eagerly by one after another, as old prejudices disappear. Some gentlemen wear a black surah sash around the waist, and this takes the place of a vest when it is necessary to go into the street, for the shirt is considered sufficient for the office, a light moiré or linen coat is slipped on for the street, and a man is as comfortable as the season will permit, and looks well at the same time. The nicest of the surah and fine Scotch flannel shirts cost $4.50 apiece, but they keep clean a long time and can be washed like calico.

The beautiful creature in the cut represents a young man dressed in sensible summer style, and shows how well these garments look.

Speaking of fans makes me think of a display of fans which I saw this last week at the largest jewelry establishment in this country. There was one made with pure amber sticks so finely cut that they were almost flexible, and beautifully transparent. The feathers were white marabouts, with flakes of white floss; the whole is transparent and light as a flake of snow. This fan costs $150! There are many other closing fans of lace, gauze, crape and other filmy materials, and others of ostrich feathers, which close also. I noticed one where the feathers were even curled, still five inches broad, and it took seven of them to make the fan. These were cream, mottled with yellow, brown and maroon. The feathers to make such a fan must be of uniform size and quality, and are very difficult to obtain in perfection and therefore are very expensive, the cheapest being $65, others of pure white are as high as $125. Queen Anne fans, with silver and pearl handles, cost less, about $50 for a fine one. They can be built up feathers, which cost less than the natural ones. One pure white ostrich feather sliding fan, which had just been finished for Miss Drexel, had the sticks of mother-of-pearl with a silver monogram. Mrs. Frank Leslie had one also from this house of black Brussels point of the finest quality, stretched over ebony sticks, and with an oxidized silver monogram set with small brilliants upon it.

A Corner in a Library.
The accompanying cut, from a design by J. P. McHugh in The Decorator and Furnisher, shows a corner in a library, which, while not remarkable in arrangement, at the same time presents a pleasing and homelike picture. Nothing can be more depressing than the sight of bare walls and empty corners. It is a very easy task to place a cabinet in the position as seen in the cut, and it adds wonderfully to the appearance of the room. The judicious placing of a few rugs, portieres, easy chairs and pictures, and voilà! the room is finished.

A Dutch Renaissance Chimney Piece.

The accompanying cut is a design for a Dutch renaissance chimney piece, and is taken from Franz Ewerbeck's "The Renaissance in Belgium and Holland." It is one of the most artistic creations that we have lately seen.
On the other side every ornament usually made in other stone is now seen in garnets, brooches, pins, bracelets, combs, earrings, rings and necklaces, and in addition, very elaborate picture frames in various sizes.
