RESONANCE OF BUILDINGS.

Obstacles Resulting from Wretchedly Bad Acoustics.

There are some buildings which are so utterly bad, from the acoustic point of view, that even experienced speakers are little better off than novices...

Science has not always been successful in coping with the acoustic difficulty. In 1848 it was so difficult for speakers to make themselves heard in the French chamber...

Indeed, modern public buildings are so often defective in this respect that I am not surprised to find M. Ch. Garnier, who designed the Grand Opera, in Paris, exclaiming dolefully...

One of the most remarkable buildings from the acoustic point of view that I have ever seen is the beehive shaped temple in Salt Lake City...

The bad acoustic properties of buildings may be remedied by what doctors call palliative treatment. Charles Dickens' experience as a public reader made him a man of ready resource in meeting such difficulties...

Timely Warning.

Milt Lefevers, of Straight Creek, Bell county, Ky., keeps the following card standing in The Pineville Messenger: 'I have notified and requested all men dealing and trading in timbers not to buy any timber from any person, directly or indirectly, on the farm of John B. Howard, deceased...

The World Has Grown.

Whatever comes of the Iowa effort to strip law papers of their antediluvian verbiage superfluities, we shall always be grateful for the attempt. The ministers have got through with their whines and prolonged vowels, and there is a general shortening up all around in the ways of doing things...

On Orthographical Grounds.

A good story is told of Governor Tom Bennett, who presided over the destinies of Idaho more than a decade ago. A member of the legislature who had been annoyed by his neighbor's hog, introduced a bill compelling the owner of the proscribed animal to keep him within the limits of a pen...

Promoted.

He would be a strange boy who, on being asked to name the happiest day of his life, would not think of that eventful morning when he laid aside skirts and put on trousers, the insignia of manly dignity...

Of all the actions of a man's life his marriage does least concern other people, yet of all actions of our life 'tis most meddled with by other people.—Selden.

Cautious About Shopping in France.

I would advise my countrywomen abroad to take good heed as to what they are about before giving orders to Parisian tradespeople. Never go shopping, dear ladies, except to the Bon Marché or the Magasin du Louvre...

Also, American women when they come to Europe, are apt to go shopping on a most haphazard plan, especially in the way of ordering dresses. They will not stop to get information about the dressmakers they desire to patronize from any person experienced in such matters...

Cocoanuts Saved the Steamship.

The steamship Nanticoke, Capt. A. Harding, from Ruatan, arrived the other day. She presented the appearance of having passed through a hurricane, and only the pilot house and a small portion of her cabin was left standing...

The captain, discovering his coal would not hold out to reach Mobile, started for the Dry Tortugas. They were then 185 miles west of that point when the coal gave out...

Slaughtering Birds in France.

The wholesale slaughter of birds in the name of fashion is having a most remarkable effect in France. Hitherto that country has been a favorite summer home of the swallows, which each year come over from Africa...

A Common Superstition.

The following instance of a curious belief held by country folk may interest some of your readers. An old man in this parish (in East Kent), who is in full possession of his faculties, and, moreover, has a considerable stock of knowledge of things connected with the farm and garden, informed me the other day of the following remarkable fact...

Faces on the Street.

Going almost anywhere, especially in a populous city, one sees many people, and in seeing people one sees faces. There is much in a gait, the swing of arms, and the poise of the body as indicative of character, but, after all, the more expressive and truthful index is the face...

What Is Written, Stays.

It is said that all the newspapers in Russia are really edited by the czar. It is probably accounts for the fact that in Russia nobody ever comes charging up stairs out of breath, bounding into the office with a big club and demanding the name of the man who wrote a certain article...

There are some spheres, the contact with which inevitably degrades the high, debases the pure, deforms the beautiful. It must be a mind of uncommon strength and little impressibility that can permit itself the habit of such intercourse and not be deteriorated.—Hawthorne.
