SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

The congregation of the Church of the Holy Trinity (Episcopal) occupied the auditorium for the first time last Sunday. The building is a gothic structure of red sandstone, one of the very handsomest in the city.

The regular party of the Capital City Cosmos club was held at Temple hall Tuesday evening and was an enjoyable affair in every way. Among the participants were noticed: Messrs. Bard, Summerlad, Child, Stackhouse, Michener, Seitz, Meyers, Lottridge, Hellwig, Stewart, Parmalee, Griffiths, Blackburn, Codington, Winslow, Knight, Barnes and Warnke; Misses Bonfoy, Glenn, Freeman, Sharp, Boehne, Berdie and Bertha Hughes, Watson, Conway, Hogan, Pettit, Hellwig, Thompson, Anna and Mattie Griffin, Ball, Paddock and McGinnis and Mrs. Lolla Ney.

Quite a number of Lincoln friends of the bride received cards Tuesday from Col. and Mrs. W. F. Cody announcing the wedding of their daughter, Arta Lucile, to Horton S. Bond Nov. 27. Mr. and Mrs. Bond will be "at home" in North Platte after Dec. 18.

Mr. J. H. Craddock was thirty-nine years old last Friday and his friends celebrated the event with a gathering in the evening, at which they presented him with a gold-headed cane.

Mrs. C. H. Buford, who had been at the front of the B. & M. Wyoming extension for six months, superintending a part of the construction, returned Saturday for the winter.

The Congregational ministers held a meeting Wednesday and took the first steps towards organizing a Congregational club to further the interests of that denomination.

Mr. and Mrs. Gorham F. Betts returned Sunday from their wedding journey and have taken up their residence at the home of the bride's parents.

W. C. Long sang a solo at the Sunday evening service of the Church of the Holy Trinity, having come from Omaha for the purpose.

Thursday of each week is reception day at the Conservatory of Music. The ladies will be at home to friends from 2 to 6.

W. S. Huffman, who came home for Thanksgiving, left for Quincy on Thursday. He will return for the holidays.

M. J. Greevey has been appointed to succeed J. B. Frawley as traveling passenger agent of the U. P.

Several wheel club boys made the run of fourteen miles to Waverly last Sunday in fifty minutes.

Fred H. Smith, wife and child, of Boston are visiting his mother and brother, 645 South Fourteenth.

N. C. Nutt of the B. & M. engineering force returned Saturday from the front in Wyoming.

The Conservatory of Music had eighty students last term. A new term began Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sauerman gave a card party Tuesday evening for Miss Lottie Eckert.

The regular party of the Yorks club was held at Temple hall last night.

Miss Gossip knows another wedding soon to take place, and she says the principal parties thereto went to Omaha the other day to buy a part of their outfit. This is reprehensible, but it is safe to say that their friends will not go out of Lincoln to buy their wedding presents so long as Hallett, the Eleventh street jeweler, remains in business. Among many things suitable for gifts that he has a few may be mentioned. There are knives in pearl handles and antique silver handles, spoons in arabesque designs, carving sets, fruit knives, cut picks, coffee spoons, etc. These come in sets and are put up in handsome plush cases. They make a rich appearance and are always acceptable.

Do you know what a woman of the world is? The woman of the world is one who considers what you like, and attempts, for her own comfort as well as yours, to give it to you.

She is one whose manners are always perfect and who does not offend by getting gushing or freezing.

She is one whose gowns attract no notice, unless by their absolute suitability.

She is one who can be friendly without being familiar, who can repel without snubbing.

She is one who refrains from saying malicious things, not only because it will ruin the shape of her mouth, but because they are in as bad taste as swearing.

She is the one who knows how to be most dignified at a dinner-table, and yet who can enjoy a lark at supper-time.

She is the one who always makes you feel at ease with yourself and the rest of the world.

thought of before. A couple of men were talking in the office, when one asked of what day of the week Christmas will be this year. "Let me see," replied the other. "I was married on the first day of May. That was Wednesday. Christmas will come on Wednesday." This struck me forcibly, and when I got a little leisure I gathered up a lot of old calendars and investigated it. I found that it is true that the first day of May and Christmas of the same year occur on the same day of the week.

Parents should be careful that their children do not contract colds during the fall or early winter months. Such colds weaken the lungs and air passages, making the child much more likely to contract other colds during the winter. It is this succession of colds that causes catarrh or bronchitis or paves the way for consumption. Should a cold be contracted lose no time, but cure it as quickly as possible. A fifty-cent bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will cure any cold in a few days and leave the respiratory organs strong and healthy. For sale by A. L. Shadr, druggist.

To the Public. Having changed the location of our city ticket office from 115 South Tenth street to the more central one of 1133 O street, near Funke's opera house, we take this occasion to offer our thanks for the generous patronage of the Northwestern Line, Elkhorn road, has received, and to solicit a continuance of the same in the future.

As a matter worthy of attention the statement is made that, whereas, the first service on this line between Lincoln and Chicago consumed nearly 24 hours, several more than by comparative lines, the time is now 17 hours and 30 minutes, or fifteen minutes less than any other service.

By our fast train, connections are made at Missouri Valley with the Northwestern's vestibule limited, composed of Palace sleeping, dining and reclining chair cars, also with the St. Paul limited for Sioux City, Minneapolis, St. Paul and the northwest. Sleeping-car accommodations are reserved in advance for St. Paul and the northwest, Chicago and the east, when desired.

A cordial invitation to call is extended to all who desire information concerning our line of railway, assure of its benefits cheerfully furnished. Geo. N. Foursman, Agent. A. S. Fielding, City Ticket Agent. 1133 O street.

A preventative for croup. There no longer exists any doubt but croup can be prevented. True croup never appears without a warning, and if Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as directed as soon as the first indication of croup appears, it will invariably dispel all symptoms of the disease. This can always be done if it is kept at hand. 50c and $1 bottles for sale by A. L. Shadr.

"The Limited Fast Mail." The Union Pacific Railway, the Overland Route, has just put on a Limited Fast Mail train to carry the United States mail between Council Bluffs and San Francisco and Portland. This daily Fast Mail train will carry a limited number of passengers, and in addition to the United States mail cars and baggage car, will be composed of a Vestibule Pullman Sleeper and a Pullman Dining car for Portland, and a Vestibule Palace Sleeper for San Francisco, thus accommodating a limited number of passengers.

The sleepers and the other will run through from Chicago via the Chicago & Northwestern railway. Only first-class tickets will be honored on this train.

This train, with its connections, makes the extraordinary time of 107 hours New York to San Francisco, and 104 hours to Portland. As accommodations are limited, early application for same should be made to the Union Pacific agents or to E. L. Lomax, General Passenger Agent, Omaha, Neb.

Winning the Goddess Fortune in Boston. The latest favored gentleman at the court of good fortune is John H. Harvey, who does business at 304 West Broadway. He is a popular citizen of the South Boston district, where he has lived as man and boy for 38 years of his life. He was a holder of a twentieth of the second capital prize drawn at the last drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery, and he received $5,000 in crisp bills last week. The full amount drawn by the number he held was $100,000.—Boston (Mass.) Herald, Oct. 2.

A Plea for Pure Air. As the summer draws quietly into autumn, and the hot, sultry days of previous months are succeeded by cool days, how gladly we settle closer to the cheerful, comforting fire which now burns in every fireplace, while we think, perhaps, of the happy times we have had during the delightful summer. What robust face were! What a change has been imparted to every one who has been so fortunate as to have an "outing." And these changes are due to what? Simply to a change of work, sights, but most probably to the needed change of air. It seems terrible to me to see the number of pale and sickly that we meet each year, caused only by the want of more oxygen. Now is the time when we are forming this miserable habit of self-destruction.

As the days and nights grow colder we box ourselves into airtight rooms and breathe and rebreathe the same air, until it becomes so foul and polluted that we grow sleepy and dull, wondering what makes us feel so, and if a fresh supply is admitted, we feel cool, and some one cries: "Put down the window," or "Do shut the door."

But my advice is, be less sparing of your fuel, have a rousing fire if need be, but have a window open in every room. Don't be content with air from another room. Rest satisfied only with out of door air. At night don't sleep in a closed room. On with the clothes and up with the windows, and in the morning you will wake up with none of that tired, languid feeling, but instead you will be refreshed by your sleep, eager to "be up and doing." Of course pure air need not be cold air, so even the frailest need not be debarred from its enjoyment. Therefore don't hibernate as though you were a squirrel or woodchuck, but live and enjoy the supporter of life, God's greatest gift, pure air.—Lewiston Journal.

Food in its Relation to Health. Dr. Atwater, in the paper read by him before the last convention of the American Public Health association, dwelt on the evils of overeating, and showed that in this country people overeat enormously, especially in the matter of meat and sweetmeats, with the result of undermining their health to a degree. Dr. Jerome Walker gave facts to prove that meat once a day was enough for any ordinary person. Dr. Atkinson showed the importance of better cooking for the masses. He considered that a great obstruction to improvement in the art of cooking is the almost universal misconception that the finer cuts of meat are more nutritious than the coarser portions, coupled with an almost insuperable prejudice among working people against stewed food. This prejudice is doubtless due to the tasteless quality of boiled meat; boiling toughens each of the fine fibers, and deprives the meat almost wholly of its distinctive flavor.

All these blunders and misconceptions must evidently be removed before any true art of cooking can become common practice. The more necessary, however, does it become to invent apparatus in which meat can only be simmered and cannot boil, and also to invent a stove or oven in which neither meat nor bread can be overcooked, dried up or rendered indigestible by too much heat. Next, people must be persuaded that a better and more nutritious breakfast can be made ready to eat, as soon as the family are out of bed, by putting meat stews, oatmeal, brown bread and many kinds of pudding into the cooker, and simmering all night by the use of a single safe lamp, than in any other way.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

The Sultan's Closet Skeleton. If things were done in Turkey as elsewhere, the decease of the sultan's mad half brother, Murad V, would have been notified to the diplomatic body, and the Turkish court would have gone into mourning. But it is forbidden to speak openly of the sultan's female relatives or of the sultan's heir. The man who will succeed Abdul Hamid is a wretched, lean, palefaced creature of five and forty, named Mohammed Rehad. He is the sultan's own brother, and is kept a close prisoner in the palace grounds, lest he should conspire for his majesty's downfall.

He has certainly no such intention, but usage requires that a sultan's heir apparent should be treated as a suspected criminal, and Abdul Hamid is much too nervous a creature to innovate in this particular. He has a horrible fear lest his brother, Murad V, who became crazy from having been raised to the throne too suddenly, should recover his senses, but of this there is no chance; and now that Murad's mother is dead, who will there be to prevent the poor lunatic from being hurried to his end by a "pinch of something" in his coffee? Murad's mother, the Sultana Nadine, superintending his household and never left him. It would have been impossible to molest him while she was alive, but it would be only too much in keeping with Turkish traditions if the unhappy madman were now quietly removed in order that Abdul Hamid might sleep more soundly.—Letter to Glasgow Herald.

Katie's Wise Advice. Mrs. X is one of those by no means rare mortals whose discipline is much dependent upon her mood, while her mood in turn is much influenced by her bodily comfort. It follows that the small daughter Katie is treated with more or less sternness, according to circumstances, a fact which she is quite shrewd enough to appreciate. One day recently Mrs. X was reproving Katie in rather a cruel tone, when the child looked up from her seat on the floor to observe with the preternatural gravity of three years: "Oh, take a more comfortable chair, mamma."—Boston Courier.

Sociable Poachers. A down east constable had a hard experience the other day. He went out after a gang of poachers, and was not only cordially received by them, but was invited to accompany them on a hunting expedition. The reason for so much cordiality was not apparent until the officer found that his late companions had managed to leave him alone on an uninhabited island, where they kept him for two days and nights.—Lewiston Journal.

Two Consultations. Customer—Is Rubenso's Rheumatic Remedy good for acute rheumatism the result of a cold? Drug Clerk—I don't know. I'll see. (Whispers to proprietor) Have we Rubenso's Rheumatic Remedy? Proprietor—No; only Bullfinche's. Clerk (to customer)—No; not half so good as Bullfinche's.—Harper's Bazar.

Unexpected Comment. Jimmy Tuffhorn (to minister who is dining with the family)—Didn't you say in your sermon this morning that there wasn't anything in this world perfect? Minister—Yes, I believe so; why do you ask? "Oh, I heard ma say before church time that you were a perfect bore!"—Epoch.
