SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

The York club closed its dancing season in a blaze of glory with one of the nicest parties of the year. Special invitations had been issued to a number of the members of other lubs, who took advantage of their privilege, Then there were several visitors from out of town, making altogether one of the gayest of companies. The orchestra, with Miss-Willoughby at the piano, were inspired to do their best, the ladies were their freshest gowns with a notable profusion of flowers, Mr. F. ed Hallett made an admirable master of ceremonies, the elegant gold-embosed programs had a pretty souvenir end added to them, claret lemenade was erved from a big. punch bowl by a colored attendant, in white, at the middle of the program ices and cakes ored waiters, everybody was in a happy mood for the occasion, and the result was a royal good time. Among the participants were Miss Glover of Waterloo, Iowa, Miss Lifa Weeks of Hastings. Miss Ina Burch of Grand Island, Miss Effle McIntyre of Hastings, Mrs. E. H. PEN, PAPER AND INK.

J. W. Fosdick, artist and author, contributes to Outing for April a fine article on The Wheel and Camera in Normandy. As he spun over the white roads of northwestern France, reveling in the smooth, rapid motion with all the enthusiasm of a wheelman, his keen eyes caught many picturesque views which his faithful camera as well as his skillful hand made permanent for the future benefit and pleasure of the many readers of Out

The Easter number of the New York Ledger is rendered especially attractive by an uncommonly beautiful cover printed in colors. The central design is a picture of Easter morning in the country, the road to church, with a border of Easter lillies. This number contains the first chapters of a new story by Amelia E. Barr, entitled "The Household of McNeil which opens well, and bids fair to rival "Jan Vedder's Wife," so far the best known of Mrs. Barr's romances.

The Jenness-Miller Magazine for April is the largest and most complete number of this magazine is now in such constant demand, that the present issue of the magazine devotes eleven pages to discussion and presenetc. The articles on physical culture, published monthly, grow constantly more inin every number, invaluable for their practical suggestions. The April Magazine of American History is notable for the timeliness of its topics. "Our South American Neighbors" has for its text the bright new book of travels by Frank Vincent, but the article is in no sense confined to the modern outlook; the picturesque past is brought into view with descriptions and illustrations and glimpses are given of the ancient Peruvians and other early peoples-with also a passing view of the latest enterprise of Harvard College in photographing the southern heavens, which has been made possible by Mrs. Henry Draper of New York. The secoud article of the number, "The Romance of 'I CERTIFY that with the State Treasurer the Map of the United States," by H. G. Cut-

SLIGHTLY GOSSIPY.

Did you ever see a girl carry a stick? A girly girl, I mean. They have tried it within the last year at the various weddings, a huge Tosca cane being given the preference. It is decorated with ribbons and flowers, and strongly suggests the crook that Mary carries at a dress ball when she is accompanied by a stuffed lamb. A woman carries a stick with about the same grace that an elephant would. She doesn't know whether she ought to swing it, whether she ought to lift it from the ground, or whether she eight to bring the whole weight of her body to bear upon it. If she lifts it off the ground, she feels the responsibility so great that she looks like a drum-major, and if she attempts to swing it everybody within five yards wants to get out of her way, for it is likely to fly out of her were served on tables by active, trained col hands and strike some unfortunate person just across the face

E. W. Potter, the post master at Elm Creek, New, says he has personal knowledge of several cases of rheumatism, in that vicinity, that have been permanently cured by Chanberlain's Pain Balm, after other remedies were used without benefit. He has sold it at his drug store there for five years and says he never knew it to fail, that "any customer. who once used Chamberlain's Pain Balm will have nothing else instead." For sale by A. L. THERE WAS A CHANGE

How the Majesty of a Director Affected a Railroad Porter. Two or three gentlemen, including among them a director, were traveling together on the London and Northwestern line, when the train drew up at Wigan station. One of the passengers, ignorant of the particular locality, put his head out of the window, and, seeing a porter passing, politely

What station is this, my good man?" "Wigan, to be sure," replied the porter in a very surly tone

The director, hearing what passed, was much annoyed, and, turning to his compan ions, remarked

"This sort of thing will never do-we must have more civility on this line. Will you,' addressing the gentleman who had not ye spoken, "kindly put the same question to the orter when he comes this way.

Soon the man appeared, and the gentleman said, "Porter, will you be good enough to tell me the name of this station!"

'Wigan, to be sure," came the answer, with a frown and a surfier tone than before. "Now," said the director, "I will speak to him and you will see the change in his de meanor.

Conscious of his importance, and of the paralyzing effect his presence would have on the railway official, he looked out of the car riage window and pompously asked, "Por ter, what place may this bef"
