THEY TRIED IT AGAIN.

The Owners Liked This House So Well That They Built Another Like It. This is the second time that this plan has been worked out for the same owners. They built this house about as it is here illustrated early last year, but sold it a very good profit.

The architect of this house did not like the sliding doors placed between the parlor and the library. If it were his house, hinged doors would be placed between these rooms, like those between hall and library.

Improvement, however, in the cellar stairway. It may be reached from the outside or from the pantry. One can go up the cellar stairway and on to the porch or into the pantry.

cellar, and thus avoid the confusion which is incident to such a room where conveniences of this kind are not at hand. There is a water closet in this cellar.

FASHIONS FOR WOMEN.

THE FAIR CREATURES' DRESS IS VERY MANNISH NOWADAYS.

Bonnets Are Very Various as to Style. Every One Wants a Different One from Her Neighbor and Gets It, Too--Some Plain, Tasteful Gowns for Home Wear.

NEW YORK, May 15.--It is not an easy matter these days to tell a young girl from her brother unless you happen to see her feet, for what with tennis blazers, tennis caps and short hair there seems little difference in their looks, and this season the mannish styles have not only advanced from tennis to yachting costumes, but you will see women of all ages in regular dress coats of black, with a wide expanse of shirt bosom, high collars, white neckties and little Derby hats, though, to be sure, only a few wear these horribly unbecoming things.

The hair is dressed high on the head, and thus a still more masculine effect is produced. There are very few women to whom such a style fits, but there are always those who are bound to follow the newest fad, no matter where it leads them. One would think that such a costume would be more in place upon the top of one of the great tall-ho stages which rumble up and down Fifth avenue behind four or six splendid horses, and on the members of the Coaching club; but no; those ladies dress in the most feminine costumes possible to achieve, and they are fairly imbedded in flowers, so that the top of the coach looks like a lot of potted plants in bloom on the way to market.

There is absolutely no end to the fashionable styles in head wear. Every day you see a new fancy. One time it will be an enormous poke, with a puffed silk crown and half a bushel of flowers upon it, and the next it will be a pretty cavalier hat, with gracefully curling brim and lovely plumes, and then you will fall head over heels in love with a beautiful red tulle toque, with puffed sides, held by bramble branches, and a gold colored puff of crepe in front, and then a black lace hat, with a royal yellow nasturtium vine growing thrifly all over it and twining amongst the lace.

Feathers are just as often seen as flowers, and ribbons always are worn. Feather boas and trimmings are often seen on spring garments and with ball dresses, and flower boas in natural and artificial flowers are very stylish. Just think of a box four yards long made of American beauty roses at a dollar apiece! I think, on the whole, it is better to be a florist than a millinaire.

The mosquito net Hading veils are going to be worn again. They draw around the chin with a fine elastic. They are chiefly serviceable to hide the ravages of perspiration on the powder, and are better than the close veils formerly worn for that purpose, which often got all white in spots in an hour on a warm day. The Hading veil does not touch the face, and, seen through the dotted meshes, the color does not suffer so much. Bless the girls! what won't they invent next?

But don't let us give all our attention to frivolous things. Let us, instead, discuss some plain and pretty gowns for home wear. Here is one on which the popular Vandye points get their fittings to an unusual extent, but the dress is very pretty and neat. It can be made up in anything, from gingham and satin to silk or velvet. The style is simple and very easily made up, and is dressy for so simple a design.

The other is white bunting trimmed with black velvet ribbon, and has a sash of bunting loosely tied. It is a pretty gown for a young wearer, and is quite dressy enough for a tea gown or any other home afternoon or evening toilet, and the wearer would look sweet enough to eat.

FOR ADORNMENT OF THE HOME CIRCLE. The dark gown for the matrons is of India silk in dark, rich purple, with flower pattern in black and cream color. The vest front and lining to the sash are of gold colored satin, which makes it look like a morning cloud which the rising sun just edges with gold. This is a tea gown, but can be worn as a morning dress if so liked. A secret! Wear it for a tea gown until your friends have all seen it, and then wear it mornings for your own pleasure. That is what I would do.

No. 123.--Decapitation. In the skies, a bird, I soar High above the ocean's roar. If my head you heartless take, I rise again above the rock. That stands unshaken by the shock. Again beheaded, and I moan. The words breathed out with many a groan Of shipwrecked souls. Behold once more, I am a fish that swims the shore. Apply the guillotine again, And loud assent I give: Amen!

No. 124.--Diagonals. The diagonals, from the upper left hand corner to the lower right hand corner, will spell the name of a little cripple figuring in one of Dickens' stories. Cross Words--1. Affliction. 2. The smallest kind of type used in English printing. 3. The owner of a famous box which is fabled to have been bestowed by Jupiter. 4. A man who attends to a dray. 5. A large artery. 6. Conciliatory. 7. A reward of recompense.

No. 125.--A Puzzling Problem. A sailor had on board thirty men, fifteen white and fifteen black. It becoming necessary to lighten the vessel, he wished to throw overboard the black ones. It was agreed that he should count out fifteen men by tens, every tenth man to be thrown over. How must he have placed the men so that the lot would not fall on any white man?

No. 126.--A Diamond. 1. A letter. 2. A film. 3. Decreased. 4. One who is untidy. 5. A producer. 6. Child. 7. To retard. 8. A twig. 9. A letter.

No. 127.--A Hexagon Puzzle. Cut out in cardboard five figures like the above, then arrange them into a perfect hexagon--that is, a figure having six equal sides.

No. 128.--One of Nature's Wonders. 'Neath ocean's foam I make my home; About me much is said. Sometimes I'm white or very light, And sometimes I am red.

Thro' many years, as it appears, Billions of insects small Their lives laid down my fame to crown, All glory to them all. But grossly man my form will scan, And tear me from my home. Thro' stranger lands in golden bands I'm sometimes forced to roam.

The ladies fair, neck, arms and hair With me will oft adorn, Nor think what we my heart would know Had I a heart to mourn. By nature's hand I'm rough as sand, And man will interfere And change me so I scarcely know Myself, I feel so queer.

No. 129.--Letter Rebuses. Sps C r ful Y I am composed of 11 letters. 5, 5, 6, 7, 9, the given name of a girl. 8, 3, 9, 5, 'tis good to have when in the right are we. 2, 3, 9, 10, 1, with hand ought always go. 1, 2, 10, 3, 9, 11, we knit with, and also sew. Were it not for my whole the west would be The "Beautiful West," the land for me.

No. 131.--Names of Poets. Behold and curtail names of poets and leave: 1. A resting place. 2. A vase. 3. An insect. 4. To partake. 5. To strike. 6. A conjunction. 7. An interjection.

No. 132.--Charade. When sable night rides down the west, Chased by my first array, My second comes then with the first And hath the genial ray. My whole combined to you will show A time allowed for rest.

No. 133.--Conundrums. When is a wagger like a unit? Why is a man and woman joined in wedlock like a well known fruit? How does a goose resemble a cow's tail? What is it from which if you take all its letters it remains the same? What word becomes shorter by adding a syllable? Why is a man sitting quietly by himself like money which is borrowed?

Conundrums Answered. What is the reason so many men and their wives disagree? Because they are both of one mind. She wants to be master and so does he. How can you make a thin child fat? Throw him out of the window and he will probably come down--plump! What has only one foot? A leg. When may a ship be said not to be on the water? When it's on fire. Who invented the steam engine? Watts--his--name. Why is an infant like a diamond? Because it is a dear little thing. Why is a lady's hair like a beehive? Because it holds the comb. What bone is best developed in policeman? The collar bone. May we ask you one of the prettiest riddles ever made? Why is a stirrup like reason? Because it raises man above the beast.
