POPULATION OF LINCOLN, 65,000.

The location of the world's fair in Chicago will be on the lake site in the heart of the city.

THAT sublimest of monopolies, the Western Union Telegraph company, has come to admit that the commercial interests of Nebraska should be treated as well as those of other states. It has voluntarily reduced the rate from Lincoln to Hastings, Grand Island and a number of other points from 40 cents to 25.

THE burning of the Western Union building in New York has once more demonstrated that fire proof buildings will burn. It would seem as though the fire ought to have been confined to one room, but it was not. Until architects and builders do better people had better not rely too much on "fire proof" buildings. Better have plenty of fire escapes of such a kind that they will facilitate escape.

THE city engineer has been instructed by the council to make a survey and estimate the cost of a stand pipe to be located near College hill in southeast Lincoln. The stand pipe is to be thirty-five feet in diameter and high enough to give a pressure of seventy-five pounds. Lincoln is growing at a rate that makes it necessary to have the improvements of a city several times as large, and one of its first duties is to give its citizens fire protection.

THE Philadelphia Item of a recent date—its circulation is 170,000, by the way—has an editorial under the caption of "Lincoln, Neb.," in which it says: "We are in receipt of the CAPITAL CITY COURIER, published in Lincoln, Neb. It is a handsome paper and ably edited. Mr. L. Wessel, jr., the editor, tells us that: (Then follows the COURIER's notice of the removal of H. Goldsmith to this city.) Our best wishes are with all who go to Lincoln, the home of that worthy man, John Fitzgerald, Esq."

NEBRASKA may get as many as eight congressmen under the new apportionment soon to be made. After the last census the membership of the house of representatives was made 325. The admission of new states has increased it to 332. If it be increased to 390 this state may get eight. If the present membership (322) be maintained it will give a population of about 195,000 to each congressional district, which will entitle Nebraska to six members, possibly seven. The first step to be taken by congress in making a reapportionment is to decide on the number of members of the lower house, and some of the Republicans are already moving in that direction.

THE Republicans of Nebraska have adopted a miserable plan in the holding of their state conventions. They are called to meet at eight in the evening and always take up the larger part of the night. This week's convention lasted until nine o'clock the next morning. There were 819 delegates and about as many spectators. Think of the wretched feelings of hundreds of these men after a night in that hot, crowded room, filled with the odors and gasses thrown off by 1600 bodies. At times two hundred of the delegates were absent, but the full vote was recorded. The COURIER overheard two men discussing how they had divided up the whole ten votes in their delegation on successive ballots. In some states the conventions meet at ten in the morning, form a temporary organization and adjourn until afternoon to give their committees time to work and report. This arrangement gives the convention the afternoon for its work, and if necessary the early evening can also be used.

VULGARITY'S seal is placed on the woman who wears her diamond rings outside her gloves, a thing very few women of even the fashionest sort are ever guilty of, yet even this is hardly as bad as a new fashion seen once or twice a year, of embroidering the backs of evening gloves with jewels. The embroidered glove has never been very popular. The truth is that, although the glove itself is pretty enough when adorned with needlework, it is not becoming to the hand when the glove is worn so close as is the fashion today. In past ages, when the glove was worn loose, the embroidery on the back was extremely becoming. But this new method of embroidering with jewels seems to have caught the fancy of certain ostentatious people who find it a new method of displaying their riches. Of course, even the wealthiest women cannot afford to have more than one pair of gloves adorned in this fashion. So the method is to have the diamonds strung on eight short lengths of silk, and these are stitched on each new pair of gloves as they are required. The diamonds, of course, are very small, but attract a great deal of attention as the wearer moves her hand with the waving of her fan, and the four glittering lines down the back of the glove flash back the light.

While many of our business houses relax their attention to business during the hot months, allowing their advertisements to disappear from the newspapers, their business to run down and their customers to go elsewhere, L. Meyer & Co. beg to inform the public that they offer at all times a full and constantly replenished stock of dry goods, dress goods, notions, novelties, ribbons, laces, etc. It often happens that a lady finds it necessary or convenient to add to her wardrobe or her list of wearing apparel in July and August. In such cases she can find at 110 North Tenth street a stock just as complete, fresh and varied as at any other season. Constant attention to the wants of each day as it comes is the leading feature of this popular house.

Some years ago we were very much subject to severe spells of cholera morbus, and now when we feel any of the symptoms that usually precede that ailment, such as sick at the stomach, diarrhoea, etc., we become very scared. We have found Chamberlain's remedy the very thing to straighten one out in such cases, and always keep it about. It is somewhat similar to the usual cholera cures, but seems to contain ingredients that render it more pleasant to take, and that do their work more quickly. Sheriff Devereux tells us that he is subject to cholera morbus, and recently felt a spell coming on, when he obtained a bottle of Chamberlain's Remedy, cholera and diarrhoea rumbled, and two doses made him all right. We are not writing this for a pay testimonial, but to let our readers know what is a good thing to keep handy in the house.—Troy, (Kan.) Chief. For sale by A. L. Shauer.
