BLASTED HOPES.

He Wanted to Be Polite Enough for Once, but Couldn't.

He had been driving a horse car for four years, and got a little bit more weary looking every day.

"I can't stand it no longer," he said at last. "I ain't a going to have any more women finding fault and claiming that they don't have courteous treatment."

There was a woman standing on the next corner. Instead of the customary "Ride, ma'am?" he stopped his horses, dismounted from his perch, and going toward the curbstone lifted his hat and inquired: "Do you propose making use of this vehicle today?" 'Sir!" she said in tones of astonishment.

"Do you wish to ride in this horse car? If so I will gladly escort you to it, procure you a seat and hand your fare to the conductor. I aim to please." "Why, I never heard of such imperti-nence!" she stammered. "I did intend riding on your car, but I shall certainly wait for the next one. And you may expect a complaint from meat the superintendent's office concerning your conduct, sir." He remounted the stool and pulled his hat down over his eyes. "'Tain't no use! Geddup!" was all he said.-Washington Post.

peculiarly an institution, of Louisiana. Its interest in its charities, and the popular appreciation of the company's efforts to advance the interests of the state, are too well known to be controverted at this late day. The legislature of Louisiana before adjourning on the 10th day of July of this year, ordered that an amendment to the constitution of the state be submitted to the people at the election in 1862, carrying the charter of the company up to the year 1919. In the meanwhile the present charter does not expire till the first of January, 1895. There will not be the slightest change in the policy or methods of the company which, under the management of Generals Beauregard and Early, will be characterized by the same regard for equity and fair business dealing, which have made the name of the Louisiana State Lottery comthe company which, under the management

Shader. Selling Books by Subscription. The method of selling books by subscription has many advantages over any other, and is daily growing in importance and popularity. By this method the attention of the purchaser is called to valuable books of which he might remain in entire ignorance if they were sold in any other way. It is the most direct and altogether the most economical way to buy books. Books purchased at a retail book store have generally passed through the bands of from two to four middlemen, each of whom must have a profit. The Riverside Publishing Co., St Louis, Mo., offers profitable employment to all who wish to engage in the business. Experience is not ne essary, but any lady or gentleman with intelligence and industry can make a uccess of the worth.

Their publications are first class, just such books as our young people and our older people should read; books that tend to make intelligent men and women; books that teach cople things that they ought to know; such books as a splendid Family Bible, which is in itself a perfect cyclopedia of biblical knowl-

Some years ago we were very much sub-ject to severe spells of cholera morbus; and now when we feel any of the symptoms that usually preceed that ailment, such as sick at the stomach, diarrhoea, etc., we become scary. We have found Chamberlain's remedy the very thing to straighten one out in such cases, and always keep it about. It is somewhat similar to the usual cholera cures, but seems to contain ingredients that render it more pleasant to take, and that do their work more quickly. Sheriff Devereux tells us that he is subject to cholera morbus, and recently felt a spell coming on, when he ob-tained a bottle of Chamberlain's colic, chois era and diarrhoen remedy, and two doses made him all right. We are not writing this for a pay testimonial, but to let our read-15,000 7,500 49,950 ers know what is a good thing to keep handy in the house,-Troy, (Kan.,) Chief. For sale by A. L. Shader. $524,950
