Selling Books by Subscription. The method of selling books by subscription has many advantages over any other, and is daily growing in importance and popularity. By this method the attention of the purchaser is called to valuable books of which he might remain in entire ignorance if they were sold in any other way. It is the most direct and altogether the most economical way to buy books. Books purchased at a retail book store have generally passed through the hands of from two to four middlemen, each of whom must have a profit.

The Riverside Publishing Co., St. Louis, Mo., offers profitable employment to all who wish to engage in the business. Experience is not necessary, but any lady or gentleman with intelligence and industry can make a success of the work.

Their publications are first class, just such books as our young people and our older people should read; books that tend to make intelligent men and women; books that teach people things that they ought to know; such books as a splendid Family Bible, which is in itself a perfect encyclopedia of biblical knowledge.

Ridpath's History of the United States is another splendid book, a sale of over 300,000 copies speaks loudly in favor of its great worth. The People's Encyclopedia of Universal Knowledge is another work that has carved its way to a wonderful success; 100,000 copies of this splendid encyclopedia, made and edited especially for the masses, have been sold, and the sale is still very large.

They also handle the Red Letter Life of the Republic Stanley Explorations in Africa, The Pioneer History of America; People's Farm and Stock Encyclopedia; The Physical Life of Both Sexes; Courtship, Love and Wedlock, and History of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Another splendid book, averaging at fifteen hundred sets a month, is Ridpath's Cyclopaedia of Universal History, a book that is bound to be read by tens of thousands of scholars, and by those who lay no claim to scholarship, and who yet love a clear, straightforward, understandable record of the great events of the world's history. The popularity of this book is something wonderful.

The success of Mrs. Annie M. Beam of MeKeepert, Pennsylvania, in the treatment of diarrhea in her children will undoubtedly be of interest to many mothers. She says: "I spent several weeks in Johnstown, Pa., after the great flood on account of my husband being employed there. We had several children with us, two of whom took the diarrhea very badly. I got some of Chamberlain's colic, cholera and diarrhea remedy from Rev. Mr. Chapman. It cured both of them. I know of several other cases where it was equally successful. I think it cannot be excelled and cheerfully recommend it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by A. L. Shader.

PHILOPENE

In playful mood he placed his black straw hat On top of Madge's curly, bronzed brown hair. And thought in all his life he'd never seen A maiden half so ravishingly fair. Her blue eyes sparkling in a roguish way. Her dimpled cheeks just red enough to show The cherry ripeness of her luscious lips Just fetched him, and of course he wasn't slow To seize the opportunity, likewise The half resisting Madge, and plant a kiss Or two, or more, just where they'd do most good. His aim was true—he never made a miss.

He thought she might be angry, but his fears All vanished as he reached the hall door mat. She said, "Next time you come be sure to wear That tricky—mean—old—love—black straw hat."

—New York Herald.

Her Estimate of Damages. "Had an accident here this morning?" queried the breathless reporter as a manly lady appeared at the door in response to his violent ringing. "Yes, we did. You see, the next house comes right up to ours, and the man painting it asked to come through our house and crawl out the scuttle onto its roof. Well, I let him. When he crossed the garret he fell through the floor!" "Hurt him much?" "Yes, I guess so. But he didn't stop with the garret; he fell through the next floor, tore a hole through the carpet, knocked the plastering off the ceiling and, oh, he just made an awful muss!"—Texas Siftings.

Johnny's Opinion. Teacher—Johnny, in the sentence, "the audience cheered the tennis players loudly," you may point out the absurdity. Johnny—There isn't any absurdity, ma'am. "Are you sure? What is the meaning of the word 'audience'?" "An assembly of hearers." "Exactly. And do persons hear a game of tennis?" "Yes'm. They hear the racket."—Chicago Tribune.

A Difference. Visitor—Your sister is studying music, I understand? Little Girl—Oh, no, ma'am; she doesn't study music. "She doesn't?" "No'm. She only practices scales an' things."—New York Weekly.

Etiquette. Mrs. Hauteur—And did you thank most profusely the young gentleman who saved you from drowning when you fell overboard? Miss Hauteur—No, indeed, mamma! Why, we had not been introduced, you know!—Lawrence American.

In Her Own Cot. "May I have the pleasure, Miss Gray?" he asked. "Will it be a pleasure?" she replied coolly. "It depends upon whether you say 'yes' or 'no,'" he said, and let her think it out. —New York Sun.

It Makes a Difference. Clara—How do you like my friend? Fanny—He is a horrid creature! Is he married? "No, he is not married." "How happy is the lot of the woman who did not get him for a husband!"—Texas Siftings.

In the Surf.

Mr. Boldboy (smiling killingly)—The waves are using you rudely. Will you permit me to assist you to the shore? Miss Waterly—Never mind, thank you. The waves may be rude, but they're not fresh.—Life.

Two Evils. "Well, young man," said the irate parent, "if you persist in your present course you will sap sorrow with a spoon." "I don't know whether that can be worse than eating ice cream with a fork," returned the profligate, "and I've tried that."—Judge.

Very Valuable. Cumso—I see that the secretary of war is to pay $10,000 for the sword of the late Gen. Shields. Mrs. Cumso—Why, I didn't know that second hand swords were worth anything like that much money.—Yenoworth's News.

Young Lovers. He—Let us go and sit in the park for awhile. She (naively)—How bright the electric lights are! He (reassuringly)—But they flicker and go out occasionally.—Munsey's Weekly.

A Chip of the Old Block. "I see Charlie is wearing a sash nowadays. I never thought he'd come to be such a dude." "Most natural thing in the world, my boy. His father, you know, is in the sash and blind business."—Boston Times.

A Proper Phrase. Jack—When the two-headed girl goes to the beach for a swim, what popular phrase would you use when describing her taking a dive? Jim—I would say she was taking a double header.—Boston Courier.

The Eternal Fitness of Things. First Resident—I hear we are to have four arc lights in town. Where do you suppose they will be put? Second Resident—Why, opposite the houses of the oldest inhabitants, of course!—Texas Siftings.

She Wanted to Be Coaxed. He—Oh, do say that you will marry me! She (hesitating)—Er—I—e—er— "Why, any one would think I had asked you to sing!—Life.

Confirmed and Explained. "Why did you say she was a designing woman?" "So she is. She belongs to the decorative art society."—New York World.

Midsummer Gabbie. "The nights up at the north pole are six months long." "Bout the same as the days in Philadelphia."—Chatter.
