* A TWICE TOLD TALE! *

The wise man selecteth the "Burlington route" and therefore starteth aright.

He arrayeth himself in purple and fine linen, for lo, and behold, he is snugly ensconced in a "lower center" on the famous vestibuled flyer, where smoke and dust are never known.

He provideth himself with a book from the generous library near at hand, adjusteth his traveling cap, and proceedeth to pass a day of unalloyed pleasure and contentment.

And it came to pass, being hungry and athirst, he steppeth into the dining car, and by the beard of the prophet, 'twas a feast fit for the gods. Venison, Blue Points, Bergundy, frog legs, canvasbacks, Mum's extra dry, English plum pudding, fruits, nuts, ices, French coffee,—verily, the wise man waxeth fat, and while he lighteth a cigar, he taketh time to declare that the meal was "out of sight."

It occurreth to the wise man that the country through which he journeyed was one of wondrous beauty, inasmuch that it was with deep regret he noted the nightly shadows fall. However, tenfold joy returned as he beheld the brilliantly lighted car, and the merry company it contained. Verily, it afforded a view of Elysium.

The wise man rethreth to rest. Deliciously unconcerned, he sleeps the sleep of the righteous and awakes much refreshed. His train is on time, his journey ended. He rejoiceth with exceeding great joy, as he holds a return ticket by the same route, the "Great Burlington."

The foolish man buyeth a ticket of a scalper. In the morning, behold, he saveth fifty cents; and lo, at nightfall he is out $9.27. He starteth wrong.

With might and main he hurrieth to the depot, only to find his train four hours late. The peanut boy seizeth him up and selteeth him a paper of an uncertain date.

As he journeyeth along, he formeth a new acquaintance, for whom he casheth a check.

Five minutes for refreshments. While he rusheth to the lunch counter some one stealth his gripsack. He changeth cars, lo these many times, and it striketh the foolish man that he "doesn't get through pretty fast," and he becometh his ill luck.

He getteth a cinder in his eye, and verily he sweareth and cusseth full free. He exchangeeth three pieces of silver for a bunk in a sleeper, and awaketh just in time to catch an infernal nigger sneaking off with his boots; the Porter's excuse availeth nothing, and the foolish man straightway putteth his boots under his pillow, that no man may break in and steal.

His train runneth into a washout, a hackman taketh him in to the tune of six shillings, and the foolish man lifteth up his voice in great lamentation, for lo and behold, the tavern is away but half a block.

He reacheth home weary and heartsore; his trunk cometh next day minus the cover and one handle, he resolveth hereafter to travel only by the "Great Burlington."

WINTRY BLASTS ARE COMING

And What Shall the Children do Then, Poor Things.

The fact that the green leaves of Summer are browning under the successive frosts of Autumn, but tells us of the coming Winter blasts with accompanying robe of white snow. Last winter was a mild one and the question of how to keep warm didn't worry the people much, but all the forecasts of the coming season portend a repetition of the excessive hard winter 1887-88, when the blizzards made famous so many Nebraska heroisms, and caused so much suffering. The prudent householder will give ear to the warning of the goose bone, the corn husks, the mistletoes as well as that received from consultation with the planets and prepare well for the long winter that is coming. When he comes to consider the question of stoves, if he is wise he will visit the large store rooms of Maxwell, Sharpe & Ross, on Tenth street, just north of O, as this firm is selling some first class stoves at what may be considered a great sacrifice. When this firm came to Lincoln they consolidated three large stocks of hardware and stoves, and when they arrived they found that other firms had the exclusive agency for all these lines and they could not stock up on any of them, and therefore they determined like prudent business men to close their own factory prices. They will not take any of these stoves to their new building at 1522, 1524, 1526 and 1528 O street, and as they move next Friday, these goods have got to go. They have

15 Jewels,
6 Buck's Brilliants and
10 or 12 Splendids, both round and square patterns and they will sell them

For cash or on
Monthly payments

At manufacturer's prices

They also have a nice line of Stewart's Surface Burners and Base Heaters, the finest in the world, which they will sell on the same terms.

For their new store, at the above named numbers, which will have more floor room than the Exposition building, they have ordered a large and very complete line of base burners and surface burners from the Excelsior Manufacturing Company, the makers of the celebrated Charter Oak Cook Stoves, with wire gauze oven doors, the finest and best cook stoves in the world.

If you want a bargain in heaters, call at the old store before they move, and remember, they move next week.

THE COURIER in a recent issue made mention of the new train service that had been inaugurated on the Burlington between Lincoln, St. Joseph and Kansas City. It was with no small pride that the COURIER devoted nearly half a column in praise of the new departure from the old mode of travel between these cities, i.e. dling away with vexatious change of cars at all hours and in its stead giving through Pullman service. As a starter the Burlington folks placed in service a combination sleeper, with half of the car fitted up with sleeping apartments and the balance with upholstered reclining chairs. It was thought that these accommodations would for some time prove adequate to the demand, but it took only two short weeks to demonstrate that this service was not extensive enough and the traveling public demanded more space. The Burlington folks ever ready to accommodate their patrons have taken off the combination sleeper and now run a regulation size Pullman palace sleeping car, instead, thereby affording all who desire a berth ample opportunity of securing it.

Lincoln people and the traveling public generally are not slow in recognizing a good thing and the COURIER did not err when it stated recently that the people would appreciate and show their good will for the line that caters to their comfort and convenience.

There is now ample space in the St. Joseph and Kansas City sleepers and reservations may be made in advance by applying at the city ticket office corner Tenth and O streets, or by calling up City Passenger Agent A. C. Ziemer, telephone 235.

The Last Chance.

The great auction sale of fine jewelry which has been in progress at Hallett's for a couple of weeks will close today. The attendance has been increasing each day, and if you expect to attend today's sale you must come early. Many a handsome Christmas present has been purchased in the last few days at very small cost, and a great many bargains yet remain. This afternoon and evening will be your last chance to buy fine jewelry at auction and you will regret it if you let the opportunity slip. Everything guaranteed. Each lady attending this afternoon will be given a chance on a very handsome gift which will be presented to the lucky person after the sale. Do not fail to attend. The sale commences at 2:30 p. m.

Harry C. Patterson, manager of Broadstreet's, who was called to Philadelphia by the death of his father, is trying to decide whether to return to Lincoln or remain in the Quaker City and succeed his father in the manufacturing business.

Fred Micketwait, the colossal ex-Missouri Pacific railway conductor, now represents the Railway Officials' and Conductors' Accident association. As a solicitor Fred ought to be a tremendous success. Who could repulse him?

Dyspepsia

Makes many lives miserable, and often leads to self destruction. Distress after eating, sick headache, heartburn, sour stomach, mental depression, etc., are caused by this very common and increasing disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla tones the stomach, creates an appetite, promotes healthy digestion, relieves sick headache, clears the mind, and cures the most obstinate cases of dyspepsia. Read the following:

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, or did me little good. In an hour after eating I would experience a faintness or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced. It relieved me of that faint, tired, all-gone feeling. I have felt so much better since I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, that I am happy to recommend it." G. A. PAGE, Water town, Mass. N. B. Be sure to get only
