Lincoln St. Joe & Kansas City. Through Sleepers and Parlor Cars.

The day of transfers, changes and delays between Lincoln, St. Joe and Kansas City is over, the B. & M. having placed in service a line of combination sleepers and parlor chair cars that for convenience, elegance and comfort surpass anything heretofore run between these points. The present schedule is as follows: Leave Lincoln, 8:30 p. m. daily, arrive in St. Joe 5:27 a. m., Kansas City 7:50 a. m.; returning, leave Kansas City 9:15 p. m. daily, St. Joe 11:43 p. m., arrive at Lincoln 7:50 p. m.

These trains run via Beatrice, Wymore and Table Rock and make close connections at terminal points. The service is really excellent and we can recommend it with much confidence. Further information can be obtained at union depot or city office corner O and Twelfth streets.

Mr. John Keown, the worthy postmaster at Keown, Allegheny county, Pa., says: "Chamberlain's cough remedy sells better than any other." The reason of this is because it can always be depended upon. Let any one troubled with a severe cold give it a trial and they will find that the first dose will relieve the lungs and make breathing easier and that its continued use will free the system of all symptoms of the cold. The promptness and certainty of this remedy in the relief and cure of colds, has won for it many sincere friends and made it very popular. For sale by A. L. Shradler.

Selling Books by Subscription.

The method of selling books by subscription has many advantages over any other, and is daily growing in importance and popularity. By this method the attention of the purchaser is called to valuable books of which he might remain in entire ignorance if they were sold in any other way. It is the most direct and altogether the most economical way to buy books. Books purchased at a retail book store have generally passed through the hands of from two to four middlemen, each of whom must have a profit.

The Riverside Publishing Co., St. Louis, Mo., offers profitable employment to all who wish to engage in the business. Experience is not necessary, but any lady or gentleman with intelligence and industry can make a success of the work.

Their publications are first class, just such books as our young people and our older people should read, books that tend to make intelligent men and women; books that teach people things that they ought to know; such books as a splendid Family Bible, which is in itself a perfect encyclopedia of biblical knowledge. Ridpath's History of the United States is another splendid book; a sale of over 300,000 copies speaks loudly in favor of its great worth. The People's Encyclopedia of Universal Knowledge is another work that has carved its way to a wonderful success, 100,000 copies of this splendid encyclopedia, made and edited especially for the masses, have been sold, and the sale is still very large.

They also handle the Red Letter Life of the Republic Stanley Explorations in Africa. The Pioneer History of America; People's Farm and Stock Cyclopedia; The Physical Life of Both Sexes; Courtship, Love and Wedlock, and History of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Another splendid book, averaging at fifteen hundred a month, is Ridpath's Cyclopedia of Universal Knowledge, a book that is bound to be read by tens of thousands of scholars, and by those who lay no claim to scholarship, and who yet love a clear, straightforward, understandable record of the great events of the world's history. The popularity of this book is something wonderful.

He Destroyed the Hat.

A Scotch university professor, irritated to find that his students had got into the habit of placing their hats and came on his desk—cloak rooms being at a premium—announced that the next article of that kind placed there would be destroyed. For some days all went well, until the professor was called for a moment from the class room. A student slipped into his retiring room and emerged with the professorial hat, which he placed conspicuously on the desk, while his fellows grinned and trembled. The professor, on returning, saw the hat, thought some rashly obstinate student had been delivered into his hands, and, faking out his knife, he cut the offending thing to pieces, the while vainly attempting to conceal the smile of triumph that played about his countenance. He was in a very bad temper the next day.—Chatter.

A Call to Arms.

Jack Livingston—I shouldn't think the arm of a settee was the most comfortable place in the world, Miss Somers.

Amy Somers—Well, there are arms that are softer and more agreeable.—Munsey's Weekly.

An Overt Romance.

"D'ye lak me, Sue?"

"Purty well, Jim."

"How much, d'ye reckon?"

"Oh, er good deal."

"But how much, now?"

"Oh, er lot."

"How'd ye lak ter?"

"Oh, Jim!"

"How'd ye know what I war goin' ter say?"

"I know'd."

"What?"

"You know."

"I was goin' ter ast ye ef ye'd go er fishin' s'evenin'."

"Ye wasn't, nuther."

"Yes, I war."

"Jim?"

"Him?"

"Ye don't lak me."

"Yes, I do, a heap."

"No, ye do."

"I orter know."

"How?"

"Why, Sue, didn't I jist ast yer ter git ready an'—"

"Ye said ye war goin' to ast me to go er fishin'."

"Sue?"

"What, Jim?"

"I didn't mean it."

"Then what did ye mean?"

"Oh, Sue, quit yer foolin' an' go an' ast er paw."

—Chicago Herald.

He Overreached His Purpose.

Gradgrind (to his employees)—Nobody out me is to touch that clock. Nobody is to begin or leave off work except as it indicates the time.

Foreman—Yesir.

Gradgrind (the next day)—Why, the day is one-fourth gone and nobody's at work! What does this mean?

Foreman (meekly)—You forgot to wind the clock, sir.—Jewellers' Weekly.

Susan's Papa Talks.

"George," said the railroad magnate, "we all think a great deal of you, and we like to have you visit Susan every night when you can. We like to have you stay as late as convenient, too, but sometimes when it gets to be 3 o'clock, and you still decline to break away, I wish you'd been fitted out like my new locomotives—with an improved spark arrester."—New-York Herald.

A Great Advantage.

Funniman—Yes, I know I'm neither rich nor famous, and don't amount to much, but I tell you, in one thing I have the advantage over the president of the United States.

Brot son—What is that?

Funniman—Why, I can make money writing jokes on him, but he couldn't make a cent writing jokes on me.—Light.

Repairs Needed.

Mistress—Mary, what are you doing with that clock?

Mary (with the servants' bedroom clock under her arm)—Place, mum, Olm takin' it to a watchmaker's. It's all out an' order, mum. I'vey morning at folve o'clock it goes rll to paces, an' makes such a racket it can't slape.—New York Weekly.

The Extremes.

"I can't read either of these letters."

"Who are they from?"

"One is from a schoolboy just learning to write, and the other is from a professor of penmanship, in the latter I can't tell which is the flourish and which the letter."—Yankee Blade.

A Very Efficient Alarm.

Smiley—I heard you have bought a new patent burglar alarm, Tangle. I wish you'd let me have a look at it.

Tangle—I wish I could, Smiley; but—er—well, the fact is, a thief got into the house last night and stole it.—Chatter.

Go West.

Mother—Now that you have become a chiropractitioner, where are you going to settle?

Ambitious Youth—I think, mother, I'll go to Nebraska. All the papers say that is a great corn state.—Street & Smith's Good News.

Neither Can Any One Else.

Mrs. Cumso—Misfortunes do not come singly.

Cumso—Well, I don't understand what they can possibly see in each other that they should marry.—New York Herald.

Enough to Tire It.

"I am sorry you have to work so hard," he cried. "Your voice sounded very tired when you called to me up stairs."

"Oh, you know it had to go up three flights to reach you, dear."—Light.

Nipping Him in the Bud.

"Had a splendid time. I ran across a lake up in"—

"Ran across a lake? Come, come, Hinks, don't be so transparently."—New York Sun.

A Blessing in Disguise.

Some people might come to the conclusion that when this bed broke down misfortune overtook its owner. As a matter fact the reverse is the case. Think of it! Since he bought that bed a few months ago he has not known what it is to go to bed with an easy mind. It creaked and groaned under him from the start. It was always threatening to collapse, and now it has gone to pieces. If he had gone to A. T. GRUETTER & CO., he would have saved himself not only sleepless nights but the disaster portrayed in the illustration. Still he is to be congratulated, for he can now visit A. T. GRUETTER & CO., and for less money than he paid for his bad bargain obtain a bed in which for the balance of his life he can enjoy undisturbed repose.
