The Unseasonable Serenader.

Out in the chill of the midnight gloom
Stood the youth with his light guitar.
Unheeding the microbes' threatening doom,
Nor the chanceler's note afar.
And he sang full long, full loud, full sweet,
To his lady love on the window seat,
Who gayly sent him from time to time
A bud or a nosegay to cheer his rhyme.
And this is the lay
That would skyward stay
When he cleared his throat and began to play:
"Oh, lady sweet, whose smile I prize,
Unknowing to me, I pray,
Thy feathered fringes of thine eyes;
Keep not their light away.
The stars above are gleaming clear:
Each sylvan voice is still;
Nor comes the prying sun to peer
Across the eastern hill.
Come forth, then, to claim all the homage
That's due
From devotion to beauty—from me, love, to you.
"No ray that glids the arch above
Can'er so steadfast be
As the fibrous love
That fills my soul for thee.
Thou'rt not coy to leech thy hobe,
Ad ramble here and there,
For dights like these were made to roam
Ad breathe the balby air.
Come forth—this id awful—the hobage thad's due
From devotion—atchool—beg your pardon—atchool!"

On Tuesday evening occurred the happiest event of the week the "house-warming" of their new hall at Young's building at Fifteenth and O streets by Apollo lodge No. 36, K. of P. A large number of invitations had been sent out announcing a ball and entertainment and in response a house-full came and were heartily and royally welcomed by Chancellor Commander Charles Foxworthy. After a sumptuous repast dancing was commenced and kept up until a late hour. During the intermissions the assembly was regaled in diverse ways. The Messrs. Camp, Broa, and Harmer were present and added greatly to the pleasures with tris. Mrs. A. Halter gave a piano solo that elicited the most favorable comment, while Professor Hill of the conservatory could not still the crowd in its demonstrations for more recitations from him and ere the evening's pleasures closed he was recalled many times. Misses Pearl and Georgie Camp were heard with ecstatic pleasure in vocal numbers, like-wise Miss Thompson. A recitation by Miss Nellie Day was worthy of mention and showed her to have more than ordinary elocutionary talent. The whole affair was one of those down-right jolly parties that drive away dull care and plant in its stead a mirth and good feeling that dies not in a day.

The following were present: Messrs. and Mesdames H. W. Kelly, R. O'Neil, F. B. Harris, C. M. Keefer, C. H. Foxworthy, Geo. Camp, James Camp, W. E. Churchill, S. W. Babo, J. Harmer, Sidney Smith, W. S. Ayers, A. Halter, C. W. Hazen, Chas. Raymond, Chas. Wickersham, Walter Keenan, A. D. Billmyer, Lou Reigler, S. T. Cochran, James Kelly, Chas. Deusch, N. Hall, T. J. Hickey, Chas. Krute, Mrs. L. W. Crosey, H. Shafer, Gaton, J. E. Ingrenam, Major McArthur, W. H. Clark, Geo. Harmer, W. A. Forbes, Geo. Forbes; Misses Pearl and Georgie Camp, Grace Ashton, Lee McClintock, Peter, White, Thompson, Day, Davis, Odell, Gertie Helwig, Keefer; Messrs. Geo. Hill, Harry McConiga, W. S. Scott, G. B. Foxworthy, Geere, J. E. Douglas, J. E. McClelland, A. G. Kellen, F. G. Kaufman, Chas. Caldwell, Frank Lester, J. Perkins, Grusham, Elger, C. E. Waite, E. E. Stephenson, Will Hogan, Dan Helwig, Ed. Keefer, E. E. English, E. M. Lamb.

One of the most enjoyable society affairs this season was the social session given Friday evening by Lancaster lodge, No. 155, K. of P., at their lodge room. Mr. C. A. Wickersham, C. C., delivered a pleasing address of welcome. A splendid musical program in which such skilled musicians as Mrs. J. J. Murphy, Miss Grace T. Parks, Miss Minnie Murphy, W. T. Leaburg, G. D. Camp, M. T. Harmer, J. M. Camp, and W. E. Churchill participated. A banquet followed. Mr. W. H. Newbury acted as toastmaster at the close of the feasting. H. L. C. Pace responded to the toast "Our Guests" treating the ladies to an eloquent portrayal of the estimate he placed upon them, their civilizing influences upon our wild and wayward men, who keep late hours, riding the K. P. goat. Mrs. H. M. Shaffer responded to "The Tenets of our Order" in a neat little speech, defining the cardinal principles of Pythianism in glowing terms.

Mr. W. L. Cundiff talked to "The Sisterhood, Wives and Sweethearts," pleaded his utter ignorance of the subject. "Without a wife," "Without a sweetheart" he said he was at sea, and kept the audience laughing at his drooleries. Hon. W. J. Bryan talked of "The Unseasonable" in his usual happy and eloquent style, bringing down the house with his numerous references—to the proverbial goat, and advised all to become initiated. At the request of the chancellor he refused to tell how it was done. Mr. R. O'Neil described "The K. of P. Goat" with the aid of Ayers' almanac. He found him the sign of the zodiac, as well the object of terror to the uninitiated. Mr. E. E. Spencer responded to the toast, "The K. P. Baby," described his lodge, No. 135, as the fat, healthy baby of Pythianism, and said other lodges must look well to their laurels. The audience filled into the banquet room, where a delicious supper was spread, after which dancing was indulged in until the wee small hours. The following are the officers for 1891: C. A. Wickersham, Chancellor Commander; C. E. Waite, Past Chancellor; S. H. Brown, Vice Chancellor; E. E. Spencer, Preceptor; O. D. Sparks, M. at C. E. Ma Lette, K. of R. and S.; W. B. Mills, M. of P.; C. L. Hall, M. of E.; Geo. E. Cassell, I. G.; C. E. Colley, O. G.

The many friends of Mrs. Belle C. Bigelow tendered her an informal reception Monday night, at her magnificent residence in Lincoln Heights, in honor of her fortieth birthday. Although the evening was quite cold more than one hundred guests were present. The genial hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Bigelow made every one at home. After the greetings and social chat Rev. C. E. Bently called the attention of the friends to the fact that it was thought well to step beyond the usual procedure of such occasions and have some responses to sentiments fitting the occasion from those present:

Miss Jennie Thomson sang beautifully "Maid of Dundee."
To the sentiment—"The Nineteenth Century—Women's Century," Mrs. Henrietta Skelton of California, responded in her original and interesting manner, and Mrs. D. G. King spoke upon the same theme from a general standpoint, referring to the beginning of the work for women's enfranchisement by Susan B. Anthony, Lucy Stone, Lueretia Watt, and others more than forty years ago. Mrs. Ada M. Bittenbender spoke briefly upon the work now in hand in Nebraska regarding municipal suffrage for women, urging all to work and thus secure partial recognition in Nebraska. She referred to the work of Mrs. Bigelow in the 1882 campaign. Mrs. Dwight Dorris then favored the friends with a song, "Woman in all his Beauty," to the intense delight of all.
Rev. George Scott of Sutton, then spoke upon, "What can we expect from the present Legislation." His knowledge of the men and measures and his happy hits therein kept all convulsed in laughter. Mrs. Bigelow was much overcome by this surprise and spoke feelingly of the kindness of friends in thus remembering her. Mrs. Hitchcock, president of the Nebraska W. C. T. U., then spoke, and in her motherly, gracious way closed the literary part of the social programme. Mrs. Bigelow was the recipient of many handsome presents. After refreshments the friends dispersed feeling that such meetings were all grander by their occurrences, and cement closer the bonds of friendship.
In about a month or probably sooner a unique dramatic production is to be presented by local talent. It is to be known as "Longfellow's Dream."
The Lincoln committee consider that the amateur talent which kindly aids them on this occasion can make their result to equal in brilliancy the production of the "Dream," at Chelsea, New York, Brooklyn and Philadelphia, where it had phenomenal success. While the Washburn Union were rehearsing the "Dream," at city hall, Portland, Maine, birthplace of Longfellow, in one of its articles, the Morning Daily Press had this paragraph: "With practical Americans, the ability to earn money is considered proof of merit. 'Longfellow's Dream' has had in gross receipts, including those of other stage productions for amateurs by the same writer, over $42,000, figures small compared to earnings of operatic artists, really large, when it is borne in mind that these personations are wholly by amateur talent, often a majority in the cast having had no previous experience." Since the above appeared, reports of treasurers of societies giving it, at the opera house, Amesburg, (home of Whittier); horticultural hall, Philadelphia; music hall, Waton; Abbott memorial hall, Marblehead; college hall, Amherst; Odd Fellows' hall, Winter Hill, Somerville, Mass., and fourteen other cities and towns in New England, middle and western states, the gross amounts to over $50,000. In evidence of how wide is the interest taken in this spectacle, it may be mentioned that an application came for it last season from Birmingham, England, a country where Longfellow is more popular than Tennyson.
The most enjoyable party that Miss Helen Hoover can remember ever having attended was the surprise given in her honor by her parents Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Hoover, in the private parlors of the Lincoln hotel Friday evening. The usual entertainment, which makes such an occasion an uninterrupted flow of pleasure, was provided and the guests thoroughly enjoyed themselves. An excellent lunch was the grateful climax of the evening's pleasure: Mrs. Hoover, the hostess, was assisted by Mrs. Ames and Mrs. Hercher. The guests were Misses Dunn, Muir, Schofield, Shepherd, Gregory, Coulter, Emery, Olivia Pound, Louisa Pound, Smith, Alfred, Schellenger, Eddy, Kelly and Wright. Messrs. Sheldon, Dunn, Woods, Sawyer, Beardsley, Folsom, Barker, Ellis, Wylder, Tate, Howard, Marvin, Herdman, Barkley, Gibault and Hoover.
A number of the friends of Miss Carrie Stevens were entertained by her Friday evening at her cozy home, 2940 J street. A delightful evening was had with cards, music and other pleasing pastimes. Lunch was served. The guests were Misses Effie Hagenbuck, Mabel Doyle, Virgie Cadwallader, Amy Rieley, Ada Hagenbuck, Amy Lauch, Sarah Cooper, Gertrude Kingdom, Maud Bennett, Messrs. James Bailey, Harry Doyle, Harry Sidles, Frank Sidles and Fred Parr.
A pleasant birthday surprise party was given Thursday evening to Miss May Drummond at Bethany Heights. It was a most enjoyable affair at which music, mirth and chit-chat predominated, refreshments also being a most prominent feature. Among those present the following were noticed: The Messrs. Dillon, Morman, Aswater, Brime, Read, Stumpler, Drummond and Messrs. Schell, Ellis, Young and many others.
The first annual reunion and banquet of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity will be held this evening at the Hotel Lincoln, under the management of the Alpha Tau chapter. The hours of reception are from 9 to 12 p. m. Prominent members of the order from the various portions of the state will be in attendance and the event promises to be a brilliant affair. Hon. A. J. Poppleton of Omaha is to be orator of the occasion.
On March 4th, a most unique performance which will be known as the trade's parade will occur at Masonic hall. A number of Lincoln's most fascinating young ladies are to represent the leading business enterprises of the city and will be attired in fantastic costumes appropriate to the firm that they represent. The young ladies are being drilled by Captain H. A. Reese of the university battalion, who is instructing them in a number of pretty military evolutions.
On February 4th Mr. C. F. Harpham of this city was married to Miss Ella Haddy of Mattoon, Ill. The happy couple came to this city the first of the week after a two weeks wedding tour and will make their future home in this city. They are now at home to their friends at 1029 R street.
Misses Allie and Edith Clark of Sutton were the guests of Mrs. Rhoda Stewart the first of the week.
Mr. Charles Cox is reported to be recovering from his serious spell of sickness.

With His Thumb,
A boy is said to have saved the Netherlands from inundation. Multitudes have been saved from the invasion of disease by a bottle of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine imparts tone to the system and strengthens every organ and fibre of the body.
"I have taken a great deal of medicine, but nothing has done me so much good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I experienced its beneficial effects before I had quite finished one bottle, and I can freely testify that it is the best blood medicine I know of."—L. W. Ward, sr., Woodland, Texas.
"Confined to an office, as I am, from one year's end to another, with little or no outdoor exercise, I find great help in Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which I have used for several years, and am at present using with excellent results. It enables me to keep always at my post, enjoying the best of health."—H. C. Barnes, Malden, Mass.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla
