Drake's Magazine for March is a notable number in that it contains a hitherto unpublished letter from General Sherman on the Indian problem. The number opens with an interesting article on the "Detection of crime," written by W. E. S. Fales, from data furnished by Inspector Byrnes. This article is illustrated with portraits of prominent "Among the stories are article is illustrated with portraits of prominent "crooks." Among the stories are
"Clever Aunt Kate," by Frances B. Claire;
"The Dressmaker's Bill," by F, S., illustrated; "Man Proposes, Woman Disposes," by W. B. Harte; and "Xelita" by Ad. H. Gibson. The poetry is of a high order, and is from the pens of Martha Young, Jean La Rue Bennett, and Earl H. Eaton. The "Jottings" are, as usual, clever, and the tings" are, as usual, clever, and the "Quacks," funny and first-class.

No literary announcement of the year is of greater interest to the general public than that of a comprehensive Life of General Sherman, which is about to be published and Sherman, which is about to be published and sold through agents by the noted house of Bubbard Brothers, of Philadelphia. Admirable biographies of Grant and Sheridan, complete to the time of their death, are already familiar to the public, but a life of the third great commander, to finish the series, has been lacking. The various biographies of Sherman hitherto published have necessarily been incomplete; and even his own memoirs. been incomplete; and even his own memoirs, written in 1875, said almost nothing of his intensely interesting early life, and not a word, of course, of the more than twenty years of ocial activity and fraternity with old comrades since the war. It is being written by Willis Fletcher Johnson, whose ability as a historian is familiar to the reading public of America through his former unusually popular works, which have had millions of read-ers, and the sales of their vast editions enriched an army of book agents; he is aided by Maj.-Gen. O. O. Howard, a man of fine literary attainments, who knew Sherman better than any other of his comrades now living, and ranked next but one to him in the army. That this history of Sherman, the last of the great Generals, will surpass all others in popularity is not to be doubted. It will doubtless be the best life of the great chieftain published, and we predict for it wonderful popularity.

TALLER THAN THE EIFFEL TOWER.

One of the Remarkable Attractions Promised for the World's Fair. During the Paris exposition of 1889, which was to celebrate the centenary of French independence, one of the most prominent and attractive features was the wonderful Eiffel tower, 984 feet high and covering two and a half acree. Every one interested in the coming American exposition at Chfcago will doubt less be pleased to hear that the building and grounds committee of the Columbian exposition have accepted the design for a illustrate herewith, and which nomewhat resembles its famous prototype in Paris, This tower is to be of steel, 1,100 feet high, surmounted by a tall flagstaff; it is about 116 feet Eiffel tower. Ten elevators will carry the passen-gers to the top. Four of these will run to the first landing, 200 feet above the ground; two will run to ing, 400 feet above the ground, stop-

THE PROCTOR TOWER. ing, and from the second and third landings two will shoot up into the dome, 1,000 feet above the ground. The capacity of these elevators is 8,000 people an hour one way, or 16,000 an hour up and down. The number of persons who ascended the Eiffel tower averaged 20,000 daily. There were 1,796 steps to the tower, but ascent was ond platform. The Proctor tower will be one glow of electric light from base to dome, the very top being illuminated by powerful search lights, which will throw a brilliant glow over the exposition grounds. Electricity will also be used in many ways, safety devices, telephones, signaling apparatus and ventilating fans being a few of the things that will be operated by this subtle force. Hydraulic power in all probability will be used in running the elevators. Motors, however, will be employed to oper-ate pressure pumps that supply the water to the hydraulic cylinders.

The Eiffel tower was commenced Jan. 28, 1887, and was completed March 31, 1889, without any accident or miscalculation. The total cost was $1,500,000. This tower will stand for fifty years or more, and will be used for astronomical, meteorological, and, in case of war, for strategical observations. A curious thing about it is that no lightning conductor is required, as the tower itself, by special communication with the aqueous subsoil, acts as a protection to an enormous space. So the Eiffel tower, in addition to all its other wonders, acts as one of the greatest lightning rods on earth. During the six months of the exposition the receipts from the Eiffel tower were

The Visible Sign of Aristocratic Grief. It may be of interest to ladies to know how female members of royal families dress when in mourning. The style for all the sovereign houses of Europe is said to be uniform, and London Truth describes the gown sent to the Grand Duchess Elizabeth after the death of Prince Baldwin, of Belgium, as being of black stamped velvet. with the lower part of the skirt (which falls with lips like those and a face like that!" ver a feather border) cut in a way to remind one of the machicolated parapets of castles. The machicolation is bordered with a twist of jet and chenille. The skirt has a demi-train, over which comes the tight corsage well in a point to keep com-pany with a long stomacher. The collar is high, and the tight sleeves are half hidden artless answer: loose ones. A chatelaine girdle of jet, falling in long ends and tassels, marks the waist, and a pluie de jais—(Anglice, a long fringe of jet)—covers the satin which fills the square aperture at the upper part of

The Fourth Senator from Idaho.

Altogether the legislature of the new state of Idaho has elected four men to the United States senate, a record equaled only by Florida in reconstruction days. Messrs McConnell and Shoup were chosen one for the short term, which closed on March 4 last, and the other for the term ending in 1893. To Mr. Dubois was given the full term of six years, beginning March 4, 1891. It was claimed by Jude William and his friends that the election of Dubois was illegal, and they formed a com-

America Sets the Fashion in Jewels.

Has fashion moved her seat of empire from France to the United States? It would really seem so, for the report comes from Paris that Frenchwomen are copying their American sisters in their displays of jewels, and are said to cover the bodices of their evening dresses with brooches of every description. Diamond and sapphire lizards glitter in their bonnets at the theatre, a Joan of Arc diamond sword or a crescent of brilliants sparkles at the throat, even with a high dress, and the largest jewel they possess acts as a buckle at the waist. The earrings are small, usually a single emerald, turquoise or sapphire sur-rounded with diamonds. Bracelets are quite out of date for day wear, but any number may adorn the arm in the evening.

Rainfall and Temperature.

The average annual rainfall of the United States, according to a recent census bulle-tin, is 90.6 inches. Three-fourths of the inhabitants occupy the region in which the annual rainfall is between 30 and 50 faches. The mean annual temperature of the United States is 53 degs.

Plenty of Game.

Jordan L. Mott, president of the Harlem Democratic club, and ex-Congressman Ed Einstein were recently on a hunting trip in Virginia. What particular branch of hunting they were chiefly engaged in we do not know, but what we do know is that one day in the old town of Roanoke they were hunting something good to est. They entered the restaurant, and asked the sa-ble attendant what he had that was good

"Oh, everything, boss. Anything you vant to order."

"Got any oysters?" asked Mr. Mott.
"No oysters, sah. Oysters jis' out. Everything else, though, in 'bundance." "How about your fish?"
"Jis' out of fish. Got 'bout everything

When She Spoke.

She was a sweet faced, blue eyed young girl, with great waves of golden hair brushed carelessly back from the noble looking, snow white brow. Her ruby lips were full and sweet. Innocence itself was in her great blue eyes. Fair and sweet was she in all the purity and guilelessness of her fresh young womanhood. Two young men had long been watching her with eager interest. Her glorious beauty had enthralled them

"What a super; girl!" said one. "Never was lily fairer!" "How I would love to hear her speak!" said the other. "No 'sweet bells jangled' could be like the words she must utter spoke. A friend aisle and said carelessly:

What He Wanted.

The following is one of the tales of "Geordie" Drummond, the veteran North End man. It is well known that up in the orth the excitement over a great football match is extraordinary, and Drummond says that after the final tie in the English cup competition some three or four years ago, between Preston North End and West Bromwich Albion, a man came into the shop of a Preston barber and threw himself down into a chair.

"Shave, sir?" inquired the barber. "No! Throat cut!" was the astonishing eply. "North End's lost."—London Titreply.
