HOODOOS AND MASCOTS. A prominent lady of this city was in the other day, and noticing the two sleepy looking storks on our screen near the door-backed us to one side, and in a semi-tragic stage whisper, asked us if we didn't know that storks were harbingers of poor luck? Told us to be sure and take them away, or get another screen, or they would "hoodoo" the place. That "would be a pity to have such a nice store ruined for the sake of two such stupid looking little roosters. We assured our kindly disposed friend that we fully appreciated her solicitude for our welfare, but that we entertained no misgivings whatever for the mischief they might do us, as we had a lot of mascots to counteract their influence in the shape of brand new, correct shaped, dependable and artistic shoes. It's a fact, too. Our $3.00 shoe for ladies is a king mascot, so's our $3.00 boot for men. Our $4.00 hand-welt is another. Our $4.50 French Kid is yet another, and our $5.00 English walking boot is a death blow to any "Jonah," and can put to flight "a hull cart-load" of "hoodoos." We are only too happy to show these mascots. P. S. The storks still roost high. 1015 O STREET. S. B. NISBET.
